THOUSANDS CHEER AS M'ADOO PLEADS FOR LIBERTY LOAN

Two Mass Meetings Urged to See That First War Offering Is Oversubscribed.

$10,000,000,000 YEAR'S NEED

Money Must Be as Prompt as the Young Men Who Will Give Their Lives, Secretary Says.

KAISER THE WORLD'S ENEMY

Should He Win in Europe, Half of America's $250,000,000,000 Would Be Our Ransom.

William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, pleaded with two New York audiences last night, at Cooper Union and at Carnegie Hall, for the immediate subscription and over-subscription of the Liberty Loan. Speaking on the eve of registration day, with the feeling of a father whose three sons have already enlisted in the nation's forces, he begged the people of the country who can put aside even the smallest sum not let the promptitude of their money fall behind the readiness of the young men who are going to give their lives.

Both auditoriums were crowded, crowded with audiences of different origin and character, but alike in the cheers which they gave to the appeals for support of the nation and for the declaration that the war must be prosecuted till German autocracy is put out of the way.

The Secretary set forth the probable need of ten billions of dollars within the next year, described the reliability of the bonds as an investment, protested against the unwillingness of various interests to see themselves taxed for the nation's welfare, and urged the need of immediate contributions in order to facilitate the conduct of the war and give the enemy the first warning of national determination.

The Secretary predicted prosperity in this country as a result of war expenditures. "If this war lasts twelve months," he said, "and I pray that it won't last nearly so long—and it won't if the American people organize their might and make it felt quickly upon the battlefields—I'm afraid we'll have more prosperity than we ought to have."

Mr. McAdoo's speech, which with slight variations he delivered at Cooper Union and later at Carnegie Hall, was in part as follows:

MR. McADOO'S ADDRESS.

"Fellow-Countrymen: Whatever differences there may have been about this war before it began, this is no time to discuss them or to think of them. Your representatives in Congress, after having been informed by your President of the issues involved, declared, by practically unanimous vote, that the rights and liberties of the American people had been put in jeopardy by the aggressions of a foreign power. The fact that it has committed repeated aggressions upon American rights, that it has subjected this nation to indignities and wrongs which no self-respecting nation could afford to endure, that war has resulted, and that we are in it, means that every citizen, no matter what his birth or origin, owes fealty to the flag. The hour of test and trial is here. I know that every American citizen, every true freeman, will respond to the call of his country in this crisis.

"There is only one thing to do, and that is to mobilize, to organize, the might of this nation. Our country is engaged in a righteous war and we must assert our power so effectively that we may soon bring this horrible carnage in Europe to an end. For humanity's sake, we are just as anxious to end the slaughter of Germans as we are to end the slaughter of English and French and Russians and Belgians and Serbians and Italians. Our hearts bleed as much for the widows and orphans of one country as of another. The sooner we stop this crime against civilization the sooner we shall stop the sacrifice of American lives and the loss of American treasure, and the sooner we shall be able to re-establish peace, liberty, and justice throughout the world.

German People's Friend.

"Here we find ourselves, a great people, at war with another great people for whom we have, throughout our history, entertained nothing but sentiments of friendship. There is in the American heart no feeling of hostility to the German people. We are hostile to, and our war is with, the autocracy of Germany, a military autocracy which has enslaved the German people themselves, has denied them liberty, has prevented them from enjoying the blessings of free government. I pray God that when America sits at the council table of the nations and has a voice in the settlement of this great conflict we shall be able to exert our power and influence in favor of self-government for Germany as well as for every other nation.

"Where there is democracy and self-government, nations cannot be hurled into war by the arbitrary will of any individual. They demand deliberation on the part of their representatives. They demand that the provocation shall be so extreme that there is no other honorable resort except war. If all the great nations were today self-governed, with deliberative representative bodies, like the Congress of the United States—so that if the issue of peace or war arose, they could debate it, could assess the wrongs, and could determine whether or not they were justified in that extreme resort—if that were the case, my friends, do you believe that the world ever would be forced into another one of these colossal crimes that is now being perpetrated against humanity?

"There is left only one dangerous military autocracy in the world, and that is the autocracy of the German Kaiser. Germany must be dejunkerized and democratized if the world is to be made

Chinese Vice President Out; President Appeals for Order

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—Vice President Feng Kwo-Chang handed his resignation to President Li Yuan Hung today, according to a cablegram received here by the Chinese World.

The same message announced China's President had issued a proclamation calling on all opposing factions to unite and declaring his own neutrality in the internal troubles which have apparently split the republic.

AMOY, China, June 4.—Although relations with the Peking Government have been broken off here and martial law has been proclaimed, no disturbances have occurred. An amicable settlement of the controversy is expected by both parties, according to declarations here.

VIENNA WAR AIMS ARE ALL FOR GAIN

WOULD NOT RESTORE SERBIA

COPENHAGEN, June 4, (via London.)—Austro-Hungarian "public opinion," as interpreted by the official Austrian Telegraphic Correspondence Bureau in a dispatch, purporting to summarize the results of press discussion of the Dual Monarchy's war aims, generally supports the proposal of Count Czerin, the Foreign Minister, for a peace without annexations as far as Russia is concerned.

It asserts, however, that opinion is opposed to the restoration of Serbia as that nation existed before the war, and demands the retention of Montenegro's mountain fortress, Lovchen; the creation of an automonous Albania, dependent upon Austria-Hungary; the extension of the frontiers at Italy's expense; the establishment of a Balkan customs union, dependent upon Austria-Hungary, and some form of indemnity which will recompense the monarchy for the immense costs of the war and bring about the economic revival of the country.

Those familiar with the methods of the Correspondence Bureau, which is an official department of the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Office in setting forth public opinion, have no hesitation in taking this summary as a statement of Count Czernin's views on peace terms, thus making it evident that his adhesion to the formula of "peace without annexations" applies toward Russia only.

The demands regarding Italy are phrased as "increased and adequate protection against renewed Italian lust of aggression" to the extent, demanded by the Austro-Hungarian military experts, which is another way of stating the formula of Archduke Frederick, when he was still Generalissimo of the Imperial Army and at the height of his success in the Trentino offensive, that the object was the necessary extension of the monarchy's frontier.

Regarding the customs union, the summary adopts the recent statement of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse regarding measures to assure Austria-Hungary's commercial liberty and rights of navigation of the Danube.

DELEGATES NOT SANGUINE.

Associate of Scheidemann Fears Peace Will Not Result.

STOCKHOLM, June 4, (via London.)—The delegates of the German Majority Socialists to the Socialist Conference, who have arrived here, are, besides Philip Scheidemann, Herren Sassenbach, Ebert, Molkenbuhr, Fischer, Legien, Bauer, and Hermann Moller.

They come hoping for the best, but with no great optimism, to judge from the words of Herr Molkenbuhr, a veteran member of the party's Executive Committee. In an interview with a correspondent of The Associated Press Herr Molkenbuhr said:

"I fear that peace will not result from the Stockholm Conference, but the whole world wants peace, and we come to see whether there is any chance of securing it here. Even if we do not succeed, we shall perhaps have kept the peace movement alive."

The German leader was told that the Dutch and Scandinavian delegates did not think that the rehabilitation of Belgium came under the term indemnity, and was asked what was his attitude on this question. He replied that that was probably one of the things to be adjusted at the general peace conference. Herr Molkenbuhr denied that the Germans had any part in bringing about the Stockholm conference, and added:

"But if the Americans, English, and French will not believe the assertions of the Dutch members, they will not believe us either."

CONFERENCE ABSORBS BERLIN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, June 4.—Not for a long time has any subject monopolized so much space in the German press as the Stockholm peace conference is doing at the present time. Every paper publishes column after column of telegrams on the subject, and it has become the standing topic of leader writers.

The Pan German press is writing violently against it. They apparently fear that by the intercourse of the German Socialists with the Socialists of neutral and enemy countries the German representatives may learn something that has been hidden from Germany and later spread it in the Fatherland.

It is the Pan German newspapers' chief medicine for the German people these days that the Entente nations are tired of war and starving, in confusion politically, and eagerly desirous of peace, so that anything contrary to that, brought from Stockholm, would be very unwelcome.

GERMAN WIRELESS OUTFIT IN MEXICO SENT FROM HERE

PARTS SHIPPED SEPARATELY

ALL HIS RECORDS SEIZED

The shipment of quantities of wireless apparatus to ports in Mexico, with the object of erecting several wireless stations to flash to Germany information gathered by spies in this country, was discovered yesterday by Police Captain Tunney and Federal officials, who have in custody the three men arrested on Sunday for maintaining a secret mail service for German spies.

Herman Frencke, 41 years old, an electrical engineer of 202 Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, was arrested late last night by Lieutenant Busby of the bomb squad and locked up in Police Headquarters, charged with conspiracy in violating the Federal and postal laws. This is the fourth arrest in the mail plot case. He will be arraigned today.

It has been reported that at least one wireless station powerful enough to send messages to Germany is in operation in Mexico, and Federal officials believe this explains the fact that Germany received news of the movements of the American destroyer flotilla immediately after its departure from the United States. The belief that the men now under arrest are part of the organization which has been advising Germany concerning American naval movements was voiced yesterday by Commissioner Hitchcock in holding the prisoners under heavy bail. He said:

"After this country had dispatched a flotilla of warships across the Atlantic, the news of their departure and their point of destination was sent to Germany at least four days before the arrival of the ships on the other side, and I believe that counsel for the Government has it in mind that this may be part and parcel of the same iniquity. In the circumstances I feel called upon to fix heavy bail."

The names of the men arrested by Captain Tunney on Sunday were not announced until yesterday. The first was Harry F. Perissi, New York representative of the Allgemeine-Electricitats-Gesellschaft, or German General Electric Company, one of the most powerful corporations in Germany. The second was Irving Bonaparte, a clerk, employed by Perissi. The third was Axel E. Melchar, a saloonkeeper of 164 East 122d Street.

Clearing House for Spies.

Although he is an American citizen and has never before been mentioned in connection with German plots, Perissi is considered by the Federal officials and police to be the most important agent of the German Government who has been arrested since Captain Franz von Rintelen was taken into custody. From the letters and papers which have been seized, it appears that his office at 17 Battery Place was the clearing house for information obtained by German spies in this country, Mexico, and South America. The evidence in the hands of the Federal authorities shows that reports of these spies were smuggled to Perissi by seamen who had been bribed on ships from South America. From here the information was transmitted to Germany.

Perissi is thought to be the man who directed the plans for sending the parts for building powerful wireless stations to Mexico. Documents were found showing shipments of electrical apparatus on Ward Line and other ships during the last two months. The parts were shipped separately, and over different lines, so that the shipments might appear to have little to do with one another, and so that a single consignment might not arouse the suspicion that it was intended for the equipment of a transatlantic wireless depot.

Perissi had two offices in the building at 17 Battery Place, with his own name on the door. In the lease of the suite, however, he described himself as the New York representative of the German General Electric Company, and that name is given in the elevator directory of the building. The police began to make inquiries about Perissi several days ago, it was learned at the building, and to watch him carefully. They found that he or his agents had daily interviews with sailors on ships bound for Scandinavian ports or for Mexican and South American ports. He was arrested with his clerk after it had been found that he had induced sailors of the Bergensfjord and Kristianiafjord of the Norwegian-American Line to agree to deliver packets of letters to German agents in Norway.

All His Papers Seized.

After the arrest of Perissi, all of the papers in his office were seized by Captain Tunney. Many of these are in code, and are now being deciphered. It is believed that they will throw a strong light on German intrigue now in operation in this country. Both the police and Federal officials are very guarded in what they say.

Captain Tunney said yesterday that it was inadvisable to give out many details of the plot now for the reason that a large number of arrests were still to be made. When Captain Tunney was asked if it appeared that the plotters had other methods of communicating with Germany besides that of bribing sailors on Scandinavian ships to carry mails, he said:

"They had lots of other methods but I can't say what they were at present."

Detective Sergeant Barnetz brought to Police Headquarters yesterday a young German named Ferdinand Henies Adams of 508 West 140th Street, an employe of L. E. Frorup & Co., dealers in carbon and chemicals at 232 Greenwich Street. Adams was sought after the police had investigated the shipment of some wireless apparatus which had been placed on board of a Ward liner for a Mexican port, but was taken off the ship again when it was suspected that it was intended to fit out a German wireless plant in Mexico.

Adams asserted he was the son of a

France Designates Joffre to Work with Pershing

PARIS, June 4.—Marshal Joffre has been designated by the Minister of War to continue his work, begun in Washington, of assisting to organize American participation in the war. He will, therefore, be the representative of the French Government in co-operating with the American Commander, Major General Pershing. Lieut. Colonel Fabry, as Chief of Staff, and Lieutenant De Tessan as Aid, both members of the French War Commission to the United States, will continue with the Marshal.

When General Pershing reaches Paris he will be received by M. Viviani, Minister of Justice, and Marshal Joffre, and will be escorted through some of the principal streets so that Parisians may have an opportunity to see the distinguished American soldier.

BRUSILOFF HEADS ARMIES OF RUSSIA

KIEV RIOTERS SHOT DOWN

PETROGRAD, Tuesday, June 5, (via London.)—General Michael V. Alexieff, Commander in Chief of the Russian Armies, has resigned. General Brusiloff, Commander in Chief of the Armies of the Southwestern Front, has been appointed to succeed him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, June 2, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—Kronstadt and Schusselburg republics still maintain their independence. Kronstadt, indeed, has now issued its defiance to Russia and the commissary of the nominal Russian Government has abandoned the island. As the fortress of Kronstadt is provisioned for several years, and is entirely in the hands of the revolutionary troops, such officers as are left alive there are mostly in confinement. There are there the only dry docks large enough to take modern fighting ships, but otherwise the place has no particular importance nowadays.

Kronstadt's independent Republicans threaten to send a ship up to Petrograd to reinstate the German agent Lenine, whose popularity latterly has been on the wane. The party represented by Lenine is, however, increasing in strength, and efforts are being made to hold new elections in the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates to secure an executive still more Germanophile than the present officeholders.

Anarchists, whose numbers in Petrograd are believed to be 11,000, have paraded the principal streets of the capital four times within the last few days, carrying black banners and fully armed. Street corner meetings are held, and there have been street shootings on two nights as a result, but in general these organized anarchists are unmolested.

Serious trouble is expected on Tuesday, when a general strike will be declared.

Many factories in Petrograd, including war munitions works, have closed down from inability to pay the extravagant wages demanded by the all-conquering workmen. On the other hand, many regiments are very dissatisfied with the situation and are especially hostile to certain training cadre regiments which persistently decline to do anything except loaf about the streets.

The number of these cadre training troops is now considerably less than one-third what it was when the Petrograd revolution broke out. Moreover, very considerable bodies of loyal troops are now in the vicinity of the capital. It is a curious fact that throughout and since the Petrograd revolution the Russian artillery has given no signs of life either by deed or word at the front. During the fraternizing folly the artillery was severely handled by the infantry for firing upon their German brothers every time they came within range.

The strike is being organized on the lines made familiar in Moscow in 1905, namely, armed desperado fanatics are compelling various classes of labor to come out whether they want to or not. The food supply is increasingly precarious, so much so that many people drag mattresses to the shops and spend the night waiting for food in comfort.

An atmosphere of terrorism has been produced by rumors of contemplated pillaging and looting, house-to-house visitations, &c., during the next three days. On the other hand, there is some ground for hope that some drastic measure will at length be taken to restore the confidence of the public. At Kiev the Government authorities have frankly abandoned methods of exhortation and persuasion for the rough and ready means familiar and effective under the old régime.

The provocation was fully adequate. Some three thousand men were returning to the front, and started rioting at large all over the city. They were arrested by representatives of authority and gathered in one spot. They found themselves superior in number to their captors, and promptly attacked them. The authorities brought out machine guns and dealt with these ne'er do wells.

No figures of the number or proportion of returning deserters have yet been published. Russia, however, has

PROHIBITIVE TAX PUT ON WHISKY IN REVENUE BILL

Impost of $20 a Bushel on All Foodstuffs Used Means a Levy of $5 to $9 a Gallon.

IMPORTS ALSO FORBIDDEN

Senate Committee's Action Will Stop All Distilling—1 to 3 Years' Supply in Bond.

STEP TAKEN TO SAVE FOOD

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—A prohibitive tax on whisky, amounting to $5 to $9 a gallon, was adopted as a part of the War Revenue bill today when the Senate Finance Committee decided to impose a tax of $20 a bushel upon all grain, creal, or other foodstuffs used in manufacturing distilled spirits for use as beverages. This is in addition to the present tax of $1.10 a gallon on the liquor itself.

Increased taxes of $5 a gallon on molasses, syrups, and substitutes, used in distillation for beverage purposes, also were agreed upon. Permits for exportation will be given only for war purposes upon application by a nation at war with Germany.

The Finance Committee also adopted an amendment to prohibit the import of distilled spirits or any products used in their manufacture, except for industrial, mechanical, or scientific purposes. This with the prohibitive tax on distilled spirits means that the United States will have to depend for the rest of the war, upon the whisky now in bond.

According to Senator Simmons the committee has been informed that there is enough whisky in bond to last a year. Other estimates say the supply will last three years. This makes unlikely a serious curtailment of Federal revenues for that period, since the whisky and other distilled spirits already manufactured may be withdrawn for general consumption upon payment of $1.10 a gallon. Little whisky is being imported, so that the prohibition of imports will have little effect on the revenue.

The idea of the committee in taking this long step toward prohibition is to conserve the supply of grain and other food products used in the manufacture of whisky. Senator Simmons said that the increase in tax would be prohibitive upon manufacture while the law was in effect or during the war. Manufacture of alcohol for industrial, mechanical, or medicinal purposes would not be affected.

Text of the Amendments.

Senator Gore of Oklahoma, a prohibition advocate, was the author of the liquor amendments. The one dealing with the tax on manufactures reads as follows:

> Section 300½—In addition to the tax, imposed by existing law on distilled spirits, there shall be levied, collected, and paid on the materials from which such spirits are manufactured after the approval of this act the following tax: On all molasses, syrups, or substitutes therefor, a tax of $5 per wine gallon, and on all grain, cereals, and other edible products and materials a tax of $20 per bushel of 56 pounds, and every distiller using any such material shall keep such records and file such returns and bonds, and the tax shall be paid at such times and in such manner and subject to such credits as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe or require.
>
> Provided, that the distiller shall be entitled to have refunded the amount of the tax, paid on such materials, when the spirits manufactured therefrom are withdrawn, free of tax, under existing laws.
>
> Provided further, that such spirits shall not be withdrawn for export except upon the application of an accredited representative of a nation now at war with the Imperial Gorman Government, in which application it shall be declared that such spirits are withdrawn for use in furtherance of such war.

The amendment that prevents the importation of whiskey or any of its component parts reads:

> No distilled spirits manufactured after the approval of this act from grain, cereals or from any edible product thereof, or from molasses, syrups, or any substitute therefor, shall be imported into the United States, Porto Rico, or the Philippine Islands except for industrial, mechanical, or scientific purposes, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The taxes fixed by the House on beer and wines are left unchanged, but have not yet been finally approved. It seems likely that the tax fixed upon beer in the House bill will stand, yielding about $175,000,000 a year. The Finance Committee is not disposed to prohibit the brewing of beer or other malted beverages.

The prohibitive taxes on whisky, Levi Cooke, counsel for the national distilling interests, said tonight, will result in virtually complete cessation of distillation for beverage purposes. Distillers attempting to manufacture whisky under the new tax, it is estimated, will have to charge at least 500 per cent. more for it.

For Flat Tax on Advertising.

After several hours' discussion of how newspapers, magazines, and other publications should be taxed for war purposes, the Finance Committee adopted a resolution against increasing second-class postage rates and in favor of levying a direct flat 2 per cent. upon advertising receipts. The decision was tentative, but is expected to be final. Only one member of the committee voted against the resolution.

Senator La Follette later presented an amendment exempting certain classes of publications from the advertising tax. Publishers receiving less than $2,000 annually from advertising have been suggested for exemption.

A revenue of $14,000,000 from the advertising tax is estimated.

Tomorrow the committee plans to consider a few questions not yet finally passed upon, including the wine and beer schedules and documentary stamp taxes. Stamp rates as a substitute for the House's manufacturing tax on patent medicines, perfumes, cosmetics, &c., also remain to be settled. Senator Simmons hopes to be able to get the bill before both houses by Saturday.

ANARCHISTS AWED BY POLICE CLUBS

RIOT BREAKS OUT LATER

What the police termed "the tamest anarchist meeting ever held in New York" was held by the No-Conscription League in Hunt's Point Palace, 163d Street and Southern Boulevard, last night. The meeting had been advertised as one of protest against the selecttive draft law, but it turned out to be a very lame denunciation of the Government, of militarism which, all the speakers said, was about to grip America about the throat, and utterances along similar lines. Not one of the speakers advised anybody not to register today, nor did they ask their followers to refuse to join the colors, if they are drawn in the draft.

More than 15,000 persons were massed in the streets outside the building, but at least half of these were there through curiosity and not through sympathy with the I. W. W. anarchist propaganda.

It was after the meeting that the one big row of the evening occurred. It practically amounted to a riot for about fifteen minutes, and was precipitated when several anarchists and other agitators jeered a passing detachment of unarmed National Guardsmen. Some one shouted that the guardsmen were "a lot of bums," and then others began to shout "Hit them!" The fighting followed, and when it was all over ten men and one woman were under arrest for the part they played in the demonstration. In nearly every instance the man arrested was of conscript age.

Those taken to the Simpson Street Station were Samuel Cohen, 26 years, 229 East Eleventh Street; Jacob Newman, 23 years, 157 East Seventy-eighth Street; Aaron Cohn, 26 years, 202 Washington Street, Jersey City; Samuel Gunsberg, 21 years old, 1,621 Madison Avenue; Leiger Klinetzsky, 27 years old, 69 East Twelfth Street; Peter Wolff, 22 years old, 814 East 163d Street; Maurice Marks, 23 years old, 531 Kosciusko Street, Brooklyn; Jacob Axelrod, 383 Cooper Street, Brooklyn; Otto Hoffman, Harry Fritz, 35 years old, of 383 Elton Avenue, the Bronx, and Rose Rolys, 26 years, 809 Crescent Street, Brooklyn. Ernest Greenbaum, 22 years old, 442 West 164th Street, was also arrested during the evening for disorderly conduct in trying to force his way through the police lines into the hall while Emma Goldman was speaking. An old woman who tried to circulate pamphlets urging men not to register today was also in custody for a few minutes. She was released at the request of the Federal officials, who said they did not consider that she was responsible for what she was doing.

Crowd Packs Boulevard.

The crowds began to gather before dark and by 7 o'clock, when the doors of the Hunts Point Palace were thrown open it was estimated that at least 10,000 persons were jammed into Southern Boulevard for a distance of three blocks on either side of the meeting hall. To handle the crowd at that time Chief Inspector Schmittberger and Inspector Edward Walsh, the Bronx police commander, had on hand 150 uniformed policemen and about fifty detectives, in addition to an automobile searchlight detachment of four machines.

The police had anticipated a crowd of about 5,000, but when fully three times that number appeared Inspector Cray ordered out all the reserves from the Alexander Avenue, Simpson Street, and Morrisania stations. By the time these reserves arrived the crowd had forced its way forward in a shouting mass, those in the front ranks struggling with the twenty-five policemen who, with drawn night sticks, stood in front of the entrance to the hall and shouted the order "Stand back!" For awhile it seemed that the police would be overwhelmed, but the first of the reserves, those from the Alexander Avenue station, arrived in the nick of time and forced their way to the rescue of their comrades in front of the hall. Five minutes' later 100 reserves arrived from the Simpson Street and Morrisania stations, and slowly the great throng began to give way.

Inspector Schmittberger ordered the boulevard cleared for two blocks on either side of the auditorium. To do this the little police automobiles which mount the big electric searchlights were called into action. Like "four little tanks" the machines started in. Two advanced toward Westchester Avenue and two went south toward Simpson Street. The searchlights were turned on, and the great shafts of light were focused on the faces of the protesting thousands. Behind the "tanks" the police infantry advanced, all the men

PREDICT PEACEFUL REGISTRATION HERE

Supervisor Says That the Number Who Enroll Will Be Near 600,000.

EARLY APPLICATION ADVISED

The 8,000 men who will enroll the New Yorkers and aliens, who under the selective draft law must register today, are ready for their task. The registration places in the city will open at the stroke of 7 o'clock this morning and will close at 9 o'clock at night, during which time every man in New York City, between the ages of 21 and 31 years, is required to present himself at the registration place for the election district in which he makes his home. In all but 101 cases the registration places are the polling places used at the general election last Novmber. Any one who may be in doubt as to where to register is advised to apply to the policeman on duty in his neighborhood, who will be prepared to give the needed information.

A final conference of city, county, and Federal officials who will see to it that the law is carried out was held in the office of Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox yesterday afternoon. Those at the conference were Edward F. Boyle, Executive Officer in charge of the registration in New York City; Chief William M. Offley of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy, Deputy Police Commissioners Dunham, Lord, and Scull, and representatives of the District Attorneys and Sheriffs of the five counties embraced within the territory of New York City.

At the conference all situations which may arise today were considered and plans were mapped out to meet them. The authorities do not believe there will be much disorder at any place in New York, but if there is the police, backed by the full power of the Federal authorities, are ready to handle it. Any person or groups of persons who in any way may interfere with the smooth working of the law, or who may attempt to dissuade those who are liable for service, under the law, from registering will be arrested on the spot.

Marshal Gives Instructions.

After the conference United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy gave out the following instructions, the observance of which, he explained, would greatly simplify the problem confronting the authorities in charge of the registration:

"Don't delay registering until night. Register early.

"Don't go near the polling places unless you have business there. This applies to women as well as men.

"Don't engage in arguments in or about places of registration.

"Don't lose your registration card. You may need it, as mistakes occur.

"Don't fail to report to the officials at your place of registration any attempt to dissuade you from doing your duty.

"Don't ignore a suspicious act upon the assumption that it may be too trivial to report."

The following will act as Special Deputy United States Marshals and will supervise the work of the volunteer deputies who will be engaged in connection with the registration: Alfred J. Johnson, James C. Brady, Nicholas F. Brady, Thomas F. Murray, George B. Van Cleve, J. Newton Gunn, Henry Sanderson, Clarence S. Herter, Albert W. Wiggin, Edwin C. Bruns, Henry Zuckerman, George F. Baker, Jr., Herbert C. Smyth, Frank O. Burridge.

Boyle Asks for Volunteers.

"All preparations are completed for tomorrow's registration. Employes of institutions and business houses who have the day, or part of the day, off can be of service in many ways to facilitate the registration if they will present themselves at Assembly district headquarters early in the day, and, if possible, before 7 A. M.

"Interpreters, notaries, and Commissioners of Deeds will be especially helpful in relieving those who have already volunteered their services.

"Places of registration for all men between 21 and 31 years of age will be open from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. There are 2,123 places of registry, one in each election district throughout the city. In all but 101 of these places the place is the same as the polling place at the last election.

"The work in each Assembly district will be directed from an Assembly district headquarters located in a public school. There are sixty-three of these

STATES ALL ARE READY

NATION BEHIND THE LAW

Washington Authorities Expect Colossal Task Will Be Carried Out Successfully.

PLANNING FOR THE DRAFT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Reports received at the War Department tonight from all the States indicated that the vast machinery was in perfect order throughout the nation for taking the registration tomorrow under the new conscription law. Brig. Gen. Enoch Crowder and members of his staff in the office of the Provost Marshal General, who have made the arrangements for the registration, were confident tonight that little difficulty would be encountered. This confidence was based on the fact that no seriously disquieting reports had been received, and on the further fact that hearty co-operation had come from civilian officials in immediate charge of the registration enrollment.

"The plan of decentralized civilian machinery," said General Crowder, "with centralized supervision under the military, has met with no opposition or complaint throughout the preparatory stages, and, now that everything is in readiness, it is anticipated that the system will demonstrate its fitness for the big task to be done tomorrow. Everything is planned for carrying through the registration, however, whether or not it proceeds as smoothly as is anticipated. Forty-eight States have said, 'We are ready,' and I am optimistic as to the registration prospects."

Country Supports the Law.

Officials who have watched closely all reports of agitation against registration, said tonight that there was absolutely no indication of any concerted movement of this kind. They believe that reports of the few scattered cases which had developed had greatly exaggerated the situation. Only a few cranks had been involved at any time, it was said, and the country as a whole appeared to be in complete accord with the objects of the law.

In working out details of registration plans, Government officials have found State, City, or County Governments eager to take their part. Heartiest cooperation has been given from all sides, and the way of the Federal Government has been made easy, far easier than it was expected it would be. As to the success of the project, huge as it is, officials have no doubt. The whole nation, they say, is at work on the job. It is the people's business, the business of the individual citizens, Washington declares, to carry it through, and they are doing it.

The Federal authorities here decided that eligibles tomorrow need not answer the question, "Do you claim exemption from draft, (specify grounds)?" The answer "Yes" to this question, as a matter of fact would not exempt one from the draft and the answer "No" would be no bar to a claim for exemption later. The determination of whether a particular claim for exemption, exclusion, or discharge from the draft shall be granted, will be made later by boards to be appointed by the President. These boards will work under regulations to be prescribed by the President. The only regulations that have as yet been prescribed, are those governing the registration alone. The determination of exemption, exclusion, and discharges is a second step quite separate from the registration.

Plan to Get 625,000 Men.

The plans of the War Department to draft from 900,000 to 1,500,000 men of the 10,000,000 who it is estimated will register tomorrow were disclosed today by General Crowder to the Senate Military Affairs Committee. Exemptions, he said, probably would result in reducing the number to 625,000 men for immediate service.

While the War Department had originally planned first to select 500,000 men, General Crowder told the committee the plans had been revised and it now was proposed to require 625,000. To obtain this number, he said it probably would be necessary to draft at least 900,000, and possibly 1,500,000, because of expected exemptions.

General Crowder told the committee that the additional 125,000 would be needed to fill up vacancies in the army of 500,000 and to keep training camps in continuous operation. When the original plans for service from a half million men were made, he said, the department had not planned to send American forces abroad so soon. Casualty from foreign service, he believed, sickness, &c., made necessary a reserve of 125,000 men.

General Crowder told the committee that he favored immediate drafting of men who register rather than postponement of the draft for several weeks after registration. He regarded it desirable that [illegible]

Details of making exemptions also were explained to the committee by the Provost Marshal General. He said that the Government did not contemplate any class exemptions. Farmers, factory operatives, and other special classes would not be exempted as such, nor territorially, he said, but all exemptions would be made individually.

The men drafted probably would be in training camps by Sept. 1, General Crowder said, and he added that he favored beginning selections within two weeks after registration, so that exemption work might be expedited and notifications of final selections might be made as soon thereafter as possible.

Warning by Gregory.

A final warning to would-be obstructers of registration was given tonight by Attorney General Gregory.

"All other matters in the Department of Justice for the time being will be subordinated to the enforcement of the Conscription act," the Attorney General said. "Wherever necessary, the assistance of Federal, State, and local officials will be sought. The officers and agents of the department throughout the country have been instructed accordingly.

"Committing Magistrates will be asked to fix bail as high as may be practicable in each case, higher bail being asked in the cases of individuals who have advised or aided other persons to evade the law or who have interfered with the registration officers in the proper performance of their duties than will be asked in the cases of individuals who merely fail to register.

"Reports received at the Department of Justice today from local officers at Pittsburgh, Penn., and Parkersburg, West Va., announced the arrest of five men in the former city, and one in the latter, on charges of distributing literature designed to dissuade young men from complying with the registration provision of the new Army bill."

Secretary Baker in a statement tonight said that the country's young men should rejoice over the opportunity coming to them tomorrow to register for a war in defense of democracy.

"The opportunity which is offered on registration day to the young men of America is unparalleled in our history," said the Secretary. "We are in this war to save the early fundamentals of political and personal liberty, not only for ourselves, but for future generations. Until a complete victory is won for these principles, there can be no holding back, and no turning back.

"We shall need all the energy and all the resources at our command to be exerted, not against the German people nor with intolerance of a personal racial character, but with resolute determination to devote to the success of the unselfish cause which we are defending, all that we have to offer. For these young men, the day should be one of rejoicing for the chance which comes to them, and one of serious responsibility, because in the issue is involved the very future of democracy."

States to Report Totals.

In round numbers, Washington estimates that 10,000,000 men will march tomorrow to the registration places. The figures of the registration will reach Washington in forty-eight brief messages, each representing the complete results of a State.

With the whole process until those reports arrive Federal officials will have nothing to do except to punish those who may seek to interfere. When the Governors' reports are at hand, the addition of a few columns, each containing forty-eight sums, will give the net result of the great undertaking so far as continental United States is concerned.

The additions will give grand totals of the number of white and negro citizens who have registered, of the indicated number of exemptions for obvious reasons, of the number of aliens, which will include all men of foreign birth who have not been naturalized, and also of all alien enemies in the country between the ages of 21 and 31.

It may be days before the roll of States is complete. No partial returns will be transmitted either from precinct or county officials to the State authorities or by the latter to the Provost Marshal General. Instructions have gone out to all officials to make public only figures for units which are complete, precincts, counties, or States, as the case may be.

Officials here said tonight that there was no objection to the publication of any completed precinct, county, city or State report, but that the furnishing of partial returns had been forbidden. Each unit must stand by itself on its completed figures, and no unit be subjected to comparison on the basis of partial returns with the completed tabulation of any other unit.

The Committee on Public Information, speaking for the Departments of War, State, and Justice, made this announcement tonight:

"Although no arrangements were originally made for the registration of Americans abroad, prior to their return to this country, steps to accommodate the men desiring to register in foreign lands immediately have finally been taken. The Department of State has received so many applications from American citizens abroad for an opportunity to register that it was thought best to take advantage of this patriotism.

"The registration regulations prescribed by the President provide that an American citizen now living abroad may register five days after his arrival at an American port. This is still the legal minimum for registration by Americans abroad, and is voluntary, as long as they remain without the borders of this country.

"Cards have been sent to American Consuls, and they have been instructed to fill out and certify to the cards of such American citizens as may apply. The requirement that registration cards must reach the domicile of the citizen by June 5 will not be strictly applicable to Americans abroad. They will be asked, however, to endeavor to have their cards reach this country at the earliest date possible."

LANE URGES REGISTRATION.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—On the eve of registration day, Secretary Lane made a speech before the Home Club of the Interior Department tonight in which he answered the question, "Why are we fighting Germany?"

America was at war, Mr. Lane said, in self-defense, and because she could not keep out; she was at war to save herself with the rest of the world from the nation that had linked itself with the Turk and adopted the method of Mahomet, setting itself to make the world bow before policies backed by its organized and scientific military system.

"Tomorrow is registration day," said the Secretary. "It is the duty of all, their legal as well as their patriotic duty, to register if within the class called. There are some who have not clearly seen the reason for that call. To these I would speak a word.

"Why are we fighting Germany? The brief answer is that ours is a war of self-defense. We did not wish to fight Germany. She made the attack upon us; not on our shores, but on our ships, our lives, our rights, our future."

Secretary Lane reviewed the chief incidents of the war and in conclusion said:

"We are fighting Germany because in this war feudalism is making its last stand against on-coming democracy. We see it now. This is a war against an old spirit, an ancient, outworn spirit. It is a war against feudalism—the right of the castle on the hill to rule the village below. It is a war for democracy—the right of all to be their own masters. Let Germany be feudal if she will. But she must not spread her system over a world that has outgrown it.

"America speaks for the world in fighting Germany. Mark on a map those countries which are Germany's allies, and you will mark but four, running from the Baltic through Austria and Bulgaria to Turkey. All the other nations, the whole globe around, are in arms against her or are unable to move. There is deep meaning in this.

"We fight with the world for an honest world, in which nations keep their word, for a world in which nations do not live by swagger or by threat, for a world in which men think of the ways in which they can conquer the common cruelties of nature instead of inventing more horrible cruelties to inflict upon the spirit and body of man, for a world in which the ambition of the philosophy of a few shall not make miserable all mankind, for a world in which the man is held more precious than the machine, the system, or the State."

headquarters, and any information a citizen may desire regarding the registration may be obtained there. There is no excuse for any man not registering, and there is no possibility that I can see of his failing to find readily the proper place to register, especially in the congested districts. All he has to do is walk to the corner and he is sure to pass a public school or a policeman. From either he can get all the information he needs.

"Our machinery for handling this big registration is complete. It will be hard work, but we expect to have little trouble. Probably we shall have the full returns on the registry by midnight tomorrow night. It is estimated on a basis of the population that about 600,000 persons will register.

Officials Expect No Trouble.

While the National Guard units of the city will be mobilized in their armories, it is not expected that any of these units will have to be called upon to aid in the maintenance of order. Mr. Boyle pointed out that the registration is a purely civil affair, and those in charge expect to be able to handle it as such without the aid of the military.

"I feel certain," said Mayor Mitchel, "that the city's young men of selective draft age will present themselves promptly for registration. I do not anticipate any trouble. But if there is any trouble, the police will be ready to handle it promptly, no matter where it occurs."

Yesterday proved to be one of the busiest days in the history of the City Clerk's office of New York. Several thousand men crowded the offices on the second and third floors of the Municipal Building, a majority of them men who live outside of New York, or who will be away from the city today, and who, under the provisions of the law, are permitted to register with the City Clerk, who will turn their registration cards over to the proper officials in New York City, or any other part of the United States in which the man who registers makes his home.

A number of those who did not go to the City Clerk's office to register went there to get marriage licenses, and in many instances also to get married. More than 150 licenses were granted during the day, and more than fifty couples were married in the Clerk's office. Deputy Clerk Michael J. Cruse expressed the belief that some of those who showed such anxiety to marry without delay might properly be classed as "slackers."

Will Celebrate the Day.

Registration Day will be officially celebrated in every borough of the city. The National Security League, which was delegated by the Mayor's Committee on National Defense to arrange for these celebrations, gave out the following program for the exercises:

City Hall Park, 12 M. to 12:30 P. M.—Patriotic music by the Mecca Temple Band. 12:30—Singing "America" by Liederkranz and Arion Societies; music by Mecca Temple Band; address by Mayor Mitchel; singing "The Star-Spangled Banner" by Liederkranz and Arion Societies; music by the Temple Band.

Union Square, 12:30 P. M.—Assembly call at battleship "Recruit," by bugler; singing patriotic songs by Schola Cantorum and Columbia Chorus, under direction of Dr. Schindler, Director of the Cantorum; address by George T. Wilson, Vice President Equitable Life Assurance Society, Chairman Committee on Organizations, Mayor's Committee on National Defense; patriotic music by Hebrew Orphan Asylum Band.

Borough Hall Park, Brooklyn, 12:30 P. M.—Patriotic music by Twenty-third Regiment Band; singing patriotic songs by chorus gathered by Civic Club of Brooklyn and Brooklyn Borough Committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense; music by Twenty-third Regiment Band.

There will be singing and band concerts in several of the other parks and public squares.

Through the co-operation of the Board of Education exercises will be held in all public schools in the city between 12:30 and 1 o'clock, consisting of short addresses by the principals on the meaning of the day and the singing of "America" and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Special services in honor of the day will be held in many of the churches. The Rev. Dr. W. T. Manning will officiate at a service in Trinity Church between 12 and 1 o'clock. Other special services will be held in churches in all the boroughs, including many different religious denominations.

Mayor Mitchel said last night that while all departments of the city government would be open today as usual, he had instructed the head of each department to place, if necessary, his entire force at the disposal of those in charge of the registration. In furtherance of these instructions 350 experienced clerical employes from the departments reported to Executive Officer Boyle for duty last night.

Final Plans in Brooklyn.

At a conference of United States Marshal James W. Power, Deputy Police Commissioner Godley, and Borough Inspector James Dillon final arrangements for the registration in Brooklyn were worked out. It was decided to send 100 extra policemen into the Brownsville Precinct and 100 into the Miller Avenue Precinct in East New York, and to scatter 100 extra men through the Williamsburg section. There will be on duty at Police Headquarters in Poplar Street the police machine gun squad, thirty-five motor cycle policemen, and 200 policemen armed with rifles.

Warnings reached Marshal Power that Socialists might hold back until nearly 8 o'clock and then flock to the registration places in such numbers that they could not be registered before nightfall. He said that those who arrived would be held in the lines and made to register even if the places had to be kept open all night.

The Home Defense League is to reinforce the regular police, and a member of the league will be on duty in each registration place. Sheriff Edward Riegelmann and 100 Deputies will be on duty and will have automobiles waiting for use in case of need. At daybreak the Fourteenth and Twenty-third Regiments, the Thirteenth Coast Defense Corps, a battalion of the First Cavalry, and a battalion of the Signal Corps will mobilize in their armories. It is expected that 176,000 men will register in Brooklyn. The registration in the borough will be under Jacob A. Livingston.

Two Hundred Speakers.

Two hundred speakers addressed sixty mass meetings in New York City last night on registration. Patriotic demonstrations at some of them, especially on the east side, were accepted as proof that by far the majority of the men within the prescribed age limits in the city were willing to do their duty. Clergymen of all denominations, representatives of labor, members of the Mayor's recruiting organizations, and the heads of fraternal, civic, and business organizations took part in the meetings.

One of the meetings largely attended by persons of foreign birth was that held at Tammany Hall. George Gordon Battle, James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Virginia Lee Welch of the Mayor's Recruiting Committee were the speakers.

More than 500 persons, most of them of foreign birth, attended a meeting under the auspices of the League of Foreign-Born Citizens, at 82 Second Avenue, at which Louis Marshall spoke. There was prolonged cheering when Mr. Marshall expressed the conviction that persons on the east side were as ready to do their duty as persons living in any other section of the city. Others who spoke at this meeting were Alexander H. Spencer of the Mayor's Council of National Defense, Archibald E. Stevenson, C. J. Teller, Dr. A. Runker, Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, Childs Hamlin, Nathaniel E. Phillips, and John Hoffman, who presented the meeting with a flag in the name of B. Altman & Co.

In introducing the speakers at a registration meeting at the Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, the Rev. Percy S. Grant said he had no sympathy with "conscientious objectors." This meeting was conducted by the Mayor's Committee on National Defense.

One thousand persons attended an open air registration meeting at 165th Street and Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, held under the joint direction of clergymen representing Presbyterian, Episcopalian, and Jewish denominations. The Rev. H. S. Rambo of the Home Street Presbyterian Church and Rabbi Stiss of Temple Beth Alohim were two of the speakers.

Rev. William Schoenfeld, pastor of the Lutheran Emanuel Church, Eighty-eighth Street and Lexington Avenue, presided at a cosmopolitan meeting in Terrace Garden, Fifty-ninth Street and Third Avenue. Bohemians, Slavs, Austrians, and Americans were in the audience.

LESS DRAFT AGITATION.

BOSTON, June 4.—John Scerenski was arrested by the Federal authorities today charged with advising two young men of draft age not to register tomorrow. Charles Barkus and Stanley Collis, the young men concerned in the charge, were summoned to testify as witnesses for the Government at a preliminary hearing.

Scerenski was arraigned before a United States Commissioner and pleaded not guilty. He was committed to jail in default of $5,000 bail, pending a hearing tomorrow.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 4.—Anthony Carroll of this city, who was arrested following a speech yesterday in which he opposed conscription, was arraigned late today before Commissioner Wright, but the case was continued until Thursday.

He is accused of having violated the Registration act by endeavoring to persuade men not to register under the conscription law, and with violation of the sedition law by trying to stir people against the President. Carroll was locked up in default of $5,000 bail.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., June 4.—Efforts were being made by the authorities today to find the persons responsible for distribution of anti-draft literature in this city. Hundreds of handbills, condemning conscription and arraigning the Government for such action, have been distributed. Reports from Bristol were to the effect that similar handbills had been distributed there.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 4.—Charles Dieba, a Socialist, was arrested here today and turned over to the Federal authorities for distributing handbills containing anti-conscription resolutions adopted by the National Socialist Convention in St. Louis before the selective draft law was passed. Dieba is a bookkeeper and was born in Russia.

ST. PAUL, June 4.—The United States Court of Appeals today denied the petition of Attorney J. D. Shewalter of Kansas City for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of six persons imprisoned there on charges growing out of opposition to the registration. The court decided it had no jurisdiction.

BAY STATE SALOONS CLOSE.

Cease Business on Registration Day at McCall's Request.

BOSTON, June 4.—The sale of liquor will be suspended throughout the State on the occasion of registration tomorrow. Conforming to a request made today by Governor McCall that the law applying to the liquor traffic on election days be observed on registration day, the several associations of liquor dealers and manufacturers tonight announced that all their members would be asked to close their establishments tomorrow.

with drawn sticks. The crowd realized that the police meant business, and what had at first been a slowly forced retreat finally became a rout. By 8:30 o'clock the boulevard zone was clear of disturbers, and the police formed a line through which only those persons who could show credentials were permitted to pass.

Inside the hall under Police Inspector Cray were 100 policemen and detectives drawn from all parts of the city in addition to a force of about 150 guardsmen from the Eighth Coast Defense Regiment. At the press tables with the reporters were Captain William M. Offley, Chief of the Department of Justice, Secret Service for the New York District; Assistant United States District Attorneys John C. Knox and Harold A. Content, United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy, and District Attorney Francis Martin of Bronx County.

The audience inside was for the most part made up of young men and young women, nine-tenths of whom, according to the police, were foreign-born. But not every one in the audience was an anarchist, a fact that was proved on several occasions when the speakers approached the danger line and seemed about to say something which would have resulted in the arrest of the speaker. But the great majority was friendly to the Goldman-Berkman school. The applause was always loudest when the speaker said something disparaging of the man who wore the uniform of the United States Army or Navy.

Chairman's Speech Mild.

Leonard D. Abbott, who has figured in I. W. W. activities for several years past, was the Chairman and also the first speaker. He looked very defiant as he stood up to start off. The Government stenographers who were present to take down the speeches set themselves to take down the no-conscription utterances that everybody was certain Abbott would make. But nothing of the sort happened. He said that "anarchists are not afraid to go on the firing line," whereupon everybody, except the loyal hundred in the gallery, yelled and stamped his or her approval. He was very careful not to advise any one present not to register.

Peter Kane, Jr., was the next speaker. He is of conscript age, and seemed to be sorry because of it. On one occasion when he shouted "Give me liberty or give me death," somebody in the gallery dropped an electric bulb on the stage. The bulb exploded with a bang and Peter acted as if he had realized the last part of his wish. As Kane jumped a soldier in the gallery, said to have been a regular from Fort Totten, shouted, "Three cheers for the Stars and Stripes." A few cheered, but a large number hissed.

As Kane was warming up in his harangue another bulb came through the air from somewhere up stairs and struck him on the shoulder. As did the first it exploded with a bang and again Kane leaped into the air.

"Will law and order give me safety?" he shouted at the police.

"I thought it was liberty or death you wanted," a soldier yelled back. Kane ended by asserting that he was a conscientious objector, and that his conscience would not permit him to slaughter his fellow-men.

Robert H. Hutchinson, introduced as the headmaster of a liberty school up-State, came after Kane, and, like him, he is of draft age. He, too, gave conscription, that is the resisting of it by others, a wide berth. The authorities present took his name, and if his name is missing from today's returns he will be asked for an explanation. The authorities also made a note of the fact that Kane is liable to conscription.

An old woman, introduced as "Mother" Yuster, spoke in Yiddish after Hutchinson finished. She does not believe in the selective draft law. Alexander Berkman, so excited that he nearly lost control of himself on more than one occasion, came after "Mother" Yuster. Everybody was certain that he would say something about the No-Conscription League and its work, particularly as he is one of the founders. But, like all those who preceded him, he devoted his time to other subjects. He is very proud of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates in Russia. He said so several times. At one point in his speech a soldier in the gallery shouted to him to go back to Europe where he belonged, and then another rude person threw a lemon at him. Berkman stopped a minute later.

Then came Emma Goldman. Even the Government officials present had an idea she would say something about conscription. Instead she told of her girlhood in Russia and how she has hated militarism ever since she was 9 years old. She said that the soldiers present had been sent to the meeting to break it up and that she was surprised that the police did not arrest them. She ended as did the others by denouncing militarism and intimating that the Government of the United States is worse than that of Germany. Her last words was a plea for contributions from the audience.

"Let us all sing the International," she shouted in conclusion. But nobody sang.

ARREST FOUR IN BROWNSVILLE

Four arrests were made last night by the police during the progress of two anti-conscription meetings held in the Brownsville district of Brooklyn. In quelling the sporadic disturbances which marked the progress of the gatherings in Congress Hall, Atlantic Avenue and Vermont Street, and in Independence Hall, Osborne Street, near Pitkin Avenue, the police were assisted by the members of the Home Defense League of the district, who wielded their clubs for the first time in preserving order. Both places were filled and large overflow crowds lingered in the neighborhood in the hope of gaining entrance.

Patrolman Higgins arrested Louis Schaeffer, a student of drafting age, living at 1,561 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, on a charge of distributing anti-conscription literature among the crowd. The following were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct: Moses Kozlw, 26 years old, of 63 Grafton Street; Morris Jolles, a lawyer, 39 years old, and his wife, Anna Jolles, of 323 Stone Street. They were taken to the Liberty Avenue Station.

At the meeting in Webster Hall Assemblyman Abraham Shiplacoff, one of the two Socialists in the Assembly, introduced Pat Quinlan, the agitator, as "a man who has had more experience with crooks than I; I have only been in the Legislature."

In the course of an attack on capitalists, who, he said, were responsible for the war and conscription, Quinlan attacked Elihu Root, whom he termed as a civil-war slacker.

"What about Root," he said while the crowd of 1,500 yelled in approval. "He was a young man in the civil-war days and he never went to war. But they want you to go."

Stenographers were present and took down the remarks of the other speakers who followed.

SEVEN ARE INDICTED HERE.

Court Orders Quick Trial in Anti-Draft Cases.

The Federal Grand Jury returned seven indictments yesterday charging conspiracy to cause men of selective draft age to refrain from registering, as required by law, today. The persons indicted are Louis Kramer and Maurice Becker, admitted anarchists and foes of all Governments; Joseph Walker, Louis Sternburg, Owen Cattell, a son of Professor J. McK. Cattell, head of the Department of Psychology in Columbia University; Charles Francis Phillips, like Cattell, a Columbia student, and Miss Eleanor Wilson Parker of Asbury Park, a Barnard College senior, who was to receive her diploma tomorrow, but who now will have that certificate withheld pending the outcome of the case against her.

The indictments were returned to United States District Judge Julius M. Mayer. One indictment named Becker, Kramer, Sternburg, and Walker, and the other Cattell, Phillips and Miss Parker. In both cases the indictment was due to the circulation or attempted circulation of pamphlets and other documents urging men not to register today, and if they do register to resist service if they are drawn in the selective draft that is to follow.

Judge Mayer did not permit any extended argument when the indictments were handed down, and announced that the trial of Kramer and those named in the indictment with him would begin on next Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and that as soon as that case was disposed of Phillips, Cattell, and Miss Parker would be placed on trial. In every instance, except that of Miss Parker, Judge Mayer increased the bail fixed last week by United States Commissioner Hitchcock. The bail of Becker and Kramer was increased from $7,500 to $10,000 each, that of Sternburg and Walker from $1,500 to $7,500, and in the case of Phillips and Cattell from $1,500 to $3,000. Miss Parker's bail was continued in the sum of $1,500.

Winter Russell, who has been advertised as a supporter of the Goldman-Berkman No-Conscription League, appeared as attorney for Phillips, while A. Bertram Samuels, who had been retained as counsel for Phillips and Miss Parker, announced that he was no longer counsel for Phillips, but that he would continue to act for Miss Parker. Mr. Russell said that Morris Hillquit, the Socialist leader, later would appear for Miss Parker as well as for Cattell and Phillips. Miss Parker's parents have asked that Mr. Samuels represent their daughter. Miss Parker is a minor and they assert the right to say who shall defend her. They have no sympathy with the I. W. W.-anarchist no-conscription movement.

Federal officials yesterday denied a published report that 141 Germans charged with participating in anti-conscription plots or any other kind of plot had been lodged on Ellis Island. Commissioner of Immigration Frederic C. Howe said that there were now on Ellis Island thirty-eight alien enemies accused or suspected of crimes. Of these fourteen had been received at the island within the last ten days. Three of the fourteen, he said, were German officers who were arrested in Porto Rico and were interned here yesterday. These thirty-eight are an entirely separate group from the 1,100 German officers and sailors who are held as ordinary prisoners of war. The thirty-eight will remain at Ellis Island after the others have been removed to Hot Springs, N. C.

PRESIDENT URGES SENATE TO SPEED

Visits Capitol to Hasten Legislation, So Full War Program Can Be Started.

FOOD MEASURES FOREMOST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—President Wilson caused a flutter at the Capitol late this afternoon when he called upon Senator Martin, the Democratic floor leader. The President talked to Senator Martin three-quarters of an hour, and word went around the Capitol afterward that he had impressed upon the Democratic leader the necessity of hurrying the remaining war legislation now before Congress.

Senator Martin would reveal nothing of what took place, saying merely:

"It was an informal talk upon various matters, and I am not privileged to disclose anything about it."

The Senator, however, did give a hint that the President was keenly interested in having quick action on the Food Controller bill, now being shaped up by a conference committee of the two houses, and the bill to give the President power to regulate the shipment of goods over railways. This is now in the Senate.

President Wilson's coming was unheralded, and as he stepped from his car at the east wing of the Capitol few recognized him. Confederate veterans were sauntering about the corridor through which the President walked, but few knew him.

Word of his arrival spread rapidly, and the visitors from the South hurried to the corridor leading from Senator Martin's office so that when Mr. Wilson reappeared, it was jammed. As the President came out, a loud cheer reverberated through the corridors. He bowed and smiled.

President Wilson is anxious to have Congress act quickly on the remaining war legislation and adjourn, perhaps by July 1. He feels that Congress ought to expedite the war measures so that the program for America's action may be pushed. He wants, most of all, to have the food legislation accelerated and also the War Revenue bill, now in the Senate Finance Committee, hurried up.

At the Capitol today it was estimated that the food legislation would take at least two weeks of debate in the Senate before it was ready to send back to the House for approval. During today's brief session Senator Smith of Georgia vigorously attacked the Railroad Control bill. He said that it would be impossible to consider it hastily because it contained "astounding propositions."

The War Revenue bill cannot be reported to the Senate before the end of this week, and it is expected to take two weeks of talk before it is passed. After that the bill must go back to the House, greatly changed from what it was when the House passed it.

If Congress is able to adjourn by July 15 leaders in the two branches think it will be doing well. If there is much dissension over the War Revenue bill Congress may keep at work until Aug. 1. It insists on thrashing out the war measures, and, while it would like to meet the President's wishes, it refuses to be hurried.

PACIFISTS FLEE FROM POLICE.

700 of Them Tried to Move Upon the City Hall.

Seven hundred pacifists, part of a crowd that had attended a meeting in Rutgers Square, attempted a mass movement upon City Hall last night and were marching and yelling through Park Row, when the police intercepted them. It took men from Police Headquarters, Acting Captain Deevey and a special squad and reserves from the Oak Street Station to put the excited pacifists to flight.

Nearly 5,000 persons had gathered at Rutgers Square and listened to speakers under the auspices of the Women's Anti-High Price League. Conscription was the main topic discussed. The speakers were warned by the police to keep within the law and they complied. The meeting was delayed at the start because of a sign which read: "Food Kings Must Go," the police demanded that the sign be replaced with the American flag, and this was done. A lad started to cheer and others joined in.

SEAPLANE TO SINK U-BOATS.

PARIS, June 4.—Alberto Santos-Dumont, the pioneer Brazilian aviator, has invented a powerful type of seaplane for fighting submarines, according to a Turin dispatch to the Petit Journal.

The dispatch says that the new machine will be manufactured in the United States and supplied to all the Allies.

CHEER M'ADOO'S PLEA FOR LIBERTY LOAN

safe. Do you realize that for two years and a half the rights of American citizens upon the high seas have been wantonly violated by this military autocracy in the face of repeated warnings by our Government?

"Why is it that we have not felt sooner the extent of this menace? It is because we have been lulled into a false sense of security by the 3,000 miles of water between us and Europe. For a long time that was enough, but modern science and invention have narrowed the Atlantic to such an extent that it is little more today, so far as modern warfare is concerned, than a river. The Atlantic has been contracted by the submarine, the flying machine, and the wireless telegraph. German submarines have crossed the ocean. Only last Summer one of them visited the harbor of Newport, was received hospitably by our people because we were then at peace with Germany, left within a short time and sank merchantmen off the New England coast.

Fate Worse Than Death.

"The flying machine has not yet crossed the Atlantic simply because military necessity has not required it. But if Germany succeeds in crushing the Allies in Europe, you will see flying machines across the Atlantic. The wireless telegraph has increased the flexibility and formidableness of ocean warfare and is, of itself, an additional peril to unarmed nations. We have always been an unarmed nation because we felt that we were secure. Our love of democracy has been so great that we did not want to take even a chance of militarism. We can no longer delude ourselves. Do you know what would happen if Germany should be victorious, as she would be if she could bring France and England to their knees? She would take the entire British and French fleets, release her own great fleet, which has been tied up in the Baltic during the war, and combining these with the most destructive submarine fleet on earth—because she has it—she would come here and put the iron heel of conqueror upon your shores. We should have to fall back to the interior, and there is no telling how long it would take to expel the enemy, if we ever did. If we couldn't do it promptly, do you know what would happen to America? We should have to make the most humiliating terms that any great nation ever made to get peace. We should have to pay an indemnity that would represent probably half the wealth of America, which is $250,000,000,000, and you would have taxation upon your shoulders to meet that indemnity for a century to come. I am not trying to alarm you. It is not my purpose to exaggerate: I would not misrepresent. I only want to make you realize, if you do not already realize, that you are in the midst of one of the greatest wars of all time. Because you are not actually contiguous to it in a physical sense as the nations in Europe are, do not think that you are not concerned, and that your future security and safety are not immediately involved. This is something you must realize if you would know what to do in the present situation.

Money the First Need.

"The first thing we must do is to raise the money to equip our armies and put them in the field and to extend credit to the great nations of Europe which are co-operating with us. We must give them credit to enable them to purchase here the necessary supplies and munitions of war, in order that they may make their soldiers most effective for battle. The more effective we make them, the more we enable them to fight and to fight hard, the more quickly this war will come to an end, and the less chance there will be that we shall have to send a great army of our own youth to Europe, and God knows we want to avoid that if we honorably can. But you can't fight wars on paper, and you can't fight wars by absence from the battlefield. Now that we are in this war, every patriot must respond to the call of his flag and fight in the sacred cause of liberty.

"We have offered this great Liberty Loan. What does it mean? It means that your Government offers you a privilege. It asks you men and women not to give something to your Government, but to buy the best investment on earth, the safest thing you can possibly possess, something that is safe as currency and yet better than currency, because currency does not bear interest while these bonds do bear interest at 3½ per cent. It asks you to buy within your means in order that the Government may be supplied with the money to properly equip our brave men who have to go upon the field of battle to protect your lives, your liberty, and your property.

Grumbling About Taxes.

"Millions of young Americans, with the fire of patriotism in their hearts, are going to respond to their country's call on June 5. The legions of America's youth and valour are going to register so that their Government may select those who are best fitted to go to the front and fight this battle for you. When they have been called our duty is to see that they have everything that is necessary to make the most effective soldiers on earth, and that they are led upon the battlefield by the best military talent that we can produce.

"I hear some grumbling about taxation. Is it possible that in this rich country, when our sons are going to the front to give their lives for us, there should be any quibbling about the necessary taxation to take care of them upon the field of battle? Are we going to be more tender with our dollars than we are with the lives of our sons? A thousand times no! We ought to be glad to make the necessary sacrifices of property to enable those who are willing to give their lives for America to fight with all their power and all their valor. Wars involve sacrifices of property as well as of life. While we must not be unfair to property, while we must be scrupulously just in the imposition of taxation and in the treatement of all the economic questions which gain added importance during war time, property must bear its just share of the burden. We must find the most equitable possible basis of distributing the new taxation in order that every one shall bear his just share, but naturally, my friends, those who have the most property should pay the most taxes. I do not believe in class legislation. I am no more in favor of having any one class of our people fight this battle for liberty than I am in favor of fighting alone the battle for all the people. Liberty is just as essential to every man, woman, and child in America, whether they own property or not. The reason that property ought to bear a larger share is that the stake of property is greater. The poor man has only his life and liberty to fight for, but the rich man has his property as well as his life and liberty to fight for. We have got to stand for the reasonable sacrifices of property that must be made, just as we have got to stand for the sacrifices of our gallant sons that must be made in order to carry this war to a right conclusion.

Will Need $10,000,000,000.

"If this war continues for another twelve months, it is probable that the total amount of financing that the Government will have to do to cover its own expenditures and to extend the necessary credits to the allied Governments will amount to $10,000,000,000. It is proposed that only 18 per cent. of this colossal sum, namely, $1,800,000,000, shall be raised by new taxation. When one considers the magnitude of this task and the probable economic effects of the sale of $8,200,000,000 of bonds within twelve months and the expenditure of the proceeds in the purchase of supplies in this country, it does not seem prudent or wise to provide by new taxation a less amount than $1,800,000,000. Such taxation will have a wholesome influence upon the soundness of our financial and business situation, which will grow more and more apparent as the months go by. The country was never so able as now to bear the necessary taxation. It can be applied without hurt to business and without hardships to the people.

"To me it is a sad spectacle to see committees of various kinds coming to Washington and urging Congress that the particular interest they represent be relieved of taxation, or that taxation be transferred largely from them to somebody else less able to bear it, when, at the the same time, our gallant boys are walking uncomplainingly to the registration officers throughout the land, signifying their willingness to die, if need be, in their country's cause. You men and women who create public opinion in this country must make yourselves heard, and tell your representatives in Congress that you are unwilling to support any policy which is more considerate of the interests of property than it is of the lives of our brave and unselfish soldiers.

"No true American should hesitate to buy this safest security in the world, this mortgage upon the honor of the American people and upon all the wealth of the United States, $250,000,000,000. It is the very least service that any citizen can render to his Government.

"Some people profess apprehension about the future of business. Why, gentlemen, prosperity in the next twelve months will be greater than it has ever been in our history. You cannot prevent it if you try. The allied Governments and our own Government have got to buy here ten billions dollars' worth of materials and supplies—products of your farms, your factories, and your mines—within the next twelve months, if this war continues that long. The expenditure of that vast sum of money will force prosperity upon us whether we want it or not. The only thing that could stop prosperity would be the refusal of the people to support the reasonable measures of taxation that are needed and to buy the bonds of the Government. Through these two sources your Government will receive the money to pay for the required supplies. If the Government could not raise the money by taxation and by the sale of bonds to enable it to buy your products, then you would have no market, and hard times and disaster would result. That is the only thing that can stop prosperity. As I know that the American people will cheerfully bear the additional taxation and provide the necessary credits, I have no fears about continued prosperity.

Go Kneel to the Flag.

"Let us on the 15th day of June roll up a subscription which will be an unmistakable answer to the enemies of our country. And on the 14th day of June—Flag Day—let us go out and kneel reverently to that flag, the supremacy of which is today the hope of civilization, that flag the very colors of which thrill our hearts and ennoble our souls, and let us pledge ourselves anew to liberty and democracy and self-government in the world, and swear that the flame of liberty shall never be extinguished while there is a drop of blood in the veins of any American freeman."

Oscar S. Straus presided at the meeting at Cooper Union. "The liberty of our country is at stake on the butcher's block," he said. "The axe is held by the Kaiser. America has entered the war to rescue the world from that axe and to destroy the barbaric power that wields it; to make Germany herself safe for liberty and for democracy."

After Mr. McAdoo, who was received with great enthusiasm, had spoken, Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, Coroner Timothy Healy, and Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey addressed the audience and appealed for the support of the loan. "The raising of this loan is America's first battle in the war," said Governor Edge. "We shall find out by June 15 whether the men of this country want to support their Government or only to get into the headlines. This is the greatest opportunity the American people have ever had to radiate liberty and opportunity throughout the world."

Mayor Mitchel, presiding at the Carnegie Hall meeting, said: "We stand today practically at the threshold of our undertaking of preparing the American people for war. We are still largely without munitions, largely without equipment; but today, fortunately, because of the trade that we have carried on with the allied nations, we have organized factories and industries such as can produce them."

Major Charles W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) expressed confidence that the submarines would be thwarted. "We shall get them, get them, every one," he said; but he was pessimistic about the situation in Russia and warned against the danger on the western front if Russia should make a separate peace. "I have just one word of advice to America," he said, "and that is, 'Speed up.' Every day is precious; every day of delay is dangerous."

Dwight W. Morrow gave the audience some idea by illustration of the immense size of the Liberty Loan, but pointed out that the latest British loan absorbed about 40 per cent. of the annual income of England, and that it was participated in by 8,000,000 of people, although there were 5,000,000 men in the army.

"This was not idle money waiting investment," he said. "People borrowed to buy that loan. People pledged their future to buy that loan. Eighty times as many people subscribed to that loan as to the first one at the beginning of the war, for England had found out that war was at her door."

A Safety First Loan.

Mme. Frances Alda sang the Marseillaise and several old songs, and E. H. Outerbridge, President of the Chamber of Commerce, followed with an appeal for realization of the danger to democracy which must be averted by participation in the war. He told the audience that people who are too old to fight must give such financial support as they can, and described the bond issue as "the Safety First Loan."

After Mr. McAdoo's address Frank A. Vanderlip concluded the evening with a brief outline of how the bond issue must be absorbed.

Tomorrow will be "Labor Day of the Liberty Loan Week," and Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a statement appealing to members of the various unions affiliated with the Federation, urging them to do all in their power to support the loan.

"To buy Liberty Bonds," says the statement, "is to support our country and to subscribe to the ideals which our country has been forced to maintain by military force. Individuals and organizations have testified to their patriotic desire to serve by subscribing for these bonds; the list includes the names of many labor men and labor organizations."

Allen B. Forbes, Chairman of the Distribution Committee on the Liberty Loan, has been advised by Hugh Frayne, General Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who was appointed Chairman of the sub-committee on labor organizations, that he is meeting with a hearty and generous response to the efforts which he is making through the medium of the labor unions, to impress upon their members the importance of investing in Liberty Loan bonds.

Subscriptions from companies were led by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, which notified the committee that it would take $5,000,000 outright, assuming responsibility of selling whatever amount possible to its employes on the "installment plan." The Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad notified the committee that its employes had already subscribed for $55,000 of the bonds, and entered its subscription for $100,000 worth. The Richmond, Frederick & Potomac Railway took an even $250,000. Subscriptions by employes reported, which failed to give the number of employes subscribing, included that of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad for $67,000 and the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad for $16,450.

At a meeting of staff officers and employes of the Long Island Railroad, President Ralph Peters made an urgent appeal to the rank and file for their support of the War Loan. Printed copies of his appeal will be sent out to 7,300 employes.

D. A. R. WILL AID LIBERTY BOND SALE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Daughters of the American Revolution are to aid in the campaign for the sale of Liberty Loan bonds. Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, President of the organization, today authorized an appeal to the 96,000 members to buy the bonds and arouse others to do so. Hundreds of clerks were set at work to mail the appeal. Mrs. Guernsey's circular letter reads in part as follows:

"Not since the women of the thirteen Colonies did their part in the struggle for American independence has there arisen a greater opportunity for patriotic service than that which lies before the women of America. For upon the women of our country, as well as upon the men, falls the duty of aiding the Government of the United States to provide food, shelter, and munitions for those who will fight America's war for liberty and world democracy."

Miss Ruth Law, who is to make a long flight in the interest of Liberty Loan bonds, has arranged the following flying schedule:

Leave Cleveland, Ohio, Tuesday morning, June 5.
June 6—Toledo (in case of delay) and Flint, Mich.
June 8—Lincoln, Omaha, St. Joseph, Kansas City, Kan., and Kansas City, Mo.
June 9 or 10—Probably Hutchinson, Wichita, and Eldorado, Kan.
June 10 or 11—Bartlesville, Okla.; Joplin, Webb City, and Carthage, Mo.
June 14—St. Louis, Springfield, Peoria, and other cities in direct route to Chicago, where tour will end.

All subscribers for Liberty Loan bonds who are buying them for distribution to their employes should notify the bank through which they subscribe as soon as possible of the number of individual subscriptions received by them from their employes for $50 bonds and for $100 bonds, in order that allotment in full may be made to them on all subscriptions for one $50 bond and one $100 bond.

BOSTON, June 4.—Liberty Loan subscriptions of more than $6,000,000 were reported today at the New England headquarters here. CLEVELAND, June 4.—Ruth Law, in a biplane, circled over Cleveland and its environs today dropping "Liberty Loan bombs." She started from Nela Park in east Cleveland, and flying at a height of 5,000 feet dropped liberty bond literature. Thousands watched her flight as she circled along the lake front, crossed over the west end of the city and then traveled across the city back to Nela Park. Tomorrow Miss Law will start on her ten-day trip in the interest of the bond campaign, dropping literature on several Middle West and Southwestern cities.

Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, announced today that the organization has subscribed for $500,000 of Liberty Loan bonds.

BRITISH RECAPTURE POST NEAR CHERISY

GERMANS ATTACK ON AISNE

Penetrate French Salient Near the Froidmont Farm—Take Some Prisoners.

LONDON, June 4.—British troops recaptured last night the isolated post southwest of Chérisy, which they lost to the Germans the day before, according to the War Office announcement today. Otherwise the British front has been quiet in the last twenty-four hours with the exception of trench raids at many points in the line.

In air attacks British aviators bombed four enemy trains, one of which was completely destroyed. Six German airplanes were brought down.

The post southwest of Chérisy mentioned in the communiqué yesterday morning, which remained in the enemy's hands at the conclusion of the fighting in that neighborhood, was recaptured by our troops last night.

Hostile raids were repulsed during the night southwest of La Bassée and in the neighborhood of Neuve Chapelle. The enemy's trenches were entered by us east of Vermelles.

Tonight's statement follows:

Successful raids were carried out by us during the day north of Armentières and south of Wytschaete. In addition to other casualties inflicted upon the enemy we captured thirty-seven prisoners, including one officer.

Our own and the enemy's artillery has shown considerable activity during the day south of Gouzeaucourt, in the neighborhood of Vimy Ridge, and in the Ypres sector.

In the course of bombing raids on Saturday night our airplanes obtained hits upon four enemy trains, one of which was completely destroyed. In air fighting six German airplanes were brought down and one other was driven down out of control. Four of our airplanes failed to return.

FRENCH AIRMEN KEPT PRINCE ON THE MOVE

NOYON, France, May 18, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The only building remaining intact in all the region of Chauny and as far north as Saint Simon, after the retreat of the Germans, was a wooden pavilion built upon a rise of ground between what was once the village of Faillouel and the ruins of Flavy le Martel. A rustic fence around the building bears in rustic letters this designation: "Eitel Friedrich Schanz," (Eitel Frederick Redoubt.)

There is no evidence of the place having been fortified and the supposition is that it served as an observatory or resting place for the Prince between spells at his régime of gardening, prescribed by his doctors to reduce his weight.

The building comprises a single room papered in skyblue, with gilt ornaments and furnished with rustic chairs and tables. The veranda commands a view of ruin and desolation.

The Second Division of the Prussian Guard under Prince Eitel's orders operated here and the Prince had his headquarters in several different châteaux of the region. The evidence of the inhabitants is that the occupying troops left no hardship untried upon them. Certainly nowhere in the zone evacuated by the German troops was the country more completely desolated.

The first positive traces of Prince Eitel Frederick in this region were found at Avricourt in the department of the Oise, where he occupied the château of Avricourt belonging to Count Balny at the end of October, 1915. French aviators got the bearings of his headquarters there and he left suddenly in 1916 for Fretoy le Château, where he occupied the property of Monsieur Dubois. He took with him all the furniture, dishes and plate of the Count Balny. Russian prisoners of war were brought there to dig a deep underground shelter from airplane bombs for the Prince.

Prince Eitel was seen every morning during his sojourn at Fretoy spading in the garden of the château—a physical exercise designed to reduce his corpulence. French aviators surprised him at this exercise one morning in July last year. Their bombs demolished the headquarters of the army telephone service and did other damage, whereupon Prince Eitel and his staff moved to other quarters not yet identified.

The Second Division of the Guard appeared on the front of the Somme in September, 1916, and Prince Eitel established his headquarters in the château of Templeux-la-Fosse, about five miles from Péronne. After a fortnight's sojourn there the Prince and his staff were saluted one day by about a hundred shells so well aimed that the evacuation of the place became advisable.

The next trace of the Prince was again at the château of Fretoy, where he established his headquarters, though he lived at a spacious farmhouse near by. There he had his sleeping room connected by a subterranean tunnel with a concrete armored shelter from bombs

At Fretoy, according to revelations by inhabitants who passed the entire period of the occupation there, the men of the Second Division of the Guard made a clean sweep of everything in sight that was transportable, and even spaded up all the gardens of the town for hidden objects, a work which is said to have paid quite well.

The men of the Second Division are very fond of the Prince, as the inhabitants observed. They noticed at the same time that the men of the Guard were better clad and better fed than any other German troops that operated in the region.

PENETRATE FRENCH SALIENT.

Germans Force Way Into Line North of the Aisne—9 Airplanes Downed.

PARIS, June 4.—On the Aisne front, northwest of the position known as Froidmont Farm, the Germans attacked a French salient last evening after a violent bombardment, forcing their way into the French trenches. Artillery fighting continued today in this sector, but there was no further infantry attack.

French aviators in battles yesterday and Saturday brought down six German airplanes and one captive balloon. Three more machines were shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

The statement issued this afternoon by the War Office follows:

The artillery fighting became violent late yesterday on the front northwest of Froidmont Farm. An attack at about 10 P. M. against the salient in our line enabled the enemy to gain a footing in advanced positions.

On the front of the Vauclerc and California Plateaus the Germans did not renew their attacks after their sanguinary repulse yesterday, confining their efforts to a rather heavy bombardment.

In Champagne we made a surprise attack on the German trenches east of the Teton, taking prisoners and capturing three machine guns.

On June 2 and 3 our pilots brought down six German airplanes and one captive balloon. Our anti-aircraft guns brought down three machines, whose occupants, of whom three were officers, were made prisoner.

Enemy machines dropped bombs in the region of Nancy and on Dunkirk. It is reported that there were several victims among the civilian population of Dunkirk.

The official communication issued tonight reads:

Very spirited artillery fighting was maintained in the entire region west of Braye-en-Laonnois. Further to the east, in the sector of Craonne-Chevreux, there was an intermitten bombardment of our first line. No infantry action occurred.

CANADIANS DRIVEN BACK BY HOT FIRE

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, June 4.—In my message yesterday I made only passing reference to the attack by the Canadians on the electric power station of Lens. At the time of writing heavy fighting was happening there, and for a while the result was not definite on either side. I can now narrate the facts more fully after a visit to the Canadians and to the neighborhood of the fighting, where this morning, from the lip of an old mine crater in a wild upheaval of earth, I looked across to the area of the attack south of the Souchez River and west of Avion, where there was still a heavy fire at intervals.

The Canadians attacked the electric power station of Lens, which is plainly visible above a fringe of trees and red cottages, at midnight of the day before yesterday, when the moon, almost full, shone down upon the long, narrow streets of all these mining cités, as they are called, which straggle away from Lens by slag heaps and pitheads and water towers in one great maze of workmen's colonies and factories. The object of the Canadians seems to have been to push the enemy further north from the Bois de Biaumont across the Souchez River to a line linking up with the British troops in Lievin, and so gain La Coulotte and a big brewery in this neighborhood.

On the western side of Avion the attack was on a narrow front. The Germans have been very strong in this neighborhood since they rushed up supports after the capture of Vimy ridge and massed them in those underground chambers, all concreted more than a year ago, so that there is a subterranean fortress under Lens and its suburbs which all the British shellfire can hardly damage. Here they have stored great supplies of ammunition and in concealed emplacements large numbers of machine guns, which stutter and stammer through the night, as I have heard them, sweeping all approaches. That was the ugly sound which met the Canadians when, at midnight, they rose out of their trenches near the Bois de Riaumont and went forward to La Coulotte, the brewery, and the power station.

It was a surprise attack, and some of the enemy were caught by the quickness of it. The Bavarians of the Fifty-sixth Division, who formed the garrison of these positions, were trapped in their dugouts and tunnels by the Canadian grenadiers and riflemen who swarmed around them. In this grim country of red brick ruin, where they moved like shadows in the moonlight, over 100 prisoners were sent back, but in the streets of La Coulotte and around the electric power station the enemy's machine gunfire was like a death rattle. La Coulotte, especially was a hornet's nest, stuffed with machine guns, as a Canadian officer described it. There were a good many casualties before the Canadians forced their way in and silenced some of the machine guns, and built a block or barricade as a defensive post in this suburb of Lens.

By half-past 3 all three points of attack were in Canadian hands, but not securely, as the events of yesterday showed. As soon as dawn came the enemy launched a counterattack on La Coulotte from the direction of Avion, and S O S signals had aroused the German gunners to pour high explosives into the electric power station and the brewery. For many hours they bombarded the power station with intense violence by 5.9 howitzers, so that the place was hellish for any living men who tried to hold out there. Successive counterattacks forced back the Canadians from the ground they had captured in the moonlight. By midday they had abandoned the brewery after a stubborn resistance, and before the sun sank last evening they withdrew from La Coulotte and the power station in order to save a needless sacrifice of men.

It is difficult to estimate the enemy's losses in this small battle. Their assaulting troops did not go scot free, and they must have many dead and wounded among the miners' cottages of Lens. They had already suffered the horrors of death before the battle, because on the night of May 31 gas went over to them on a soft wind and crept down into their tunnels and killed men sleeping or working. On the balance, however, and according to the fortune of war, they were more successful in yesterday's struggle and regained the ground taken by the great valor of the Canadian troops. It was the weight of their gunfire which was the chief cause in driving the Canadians back, and proved once again that when heavy artillery concentrates its fire on a narrow front that ground becomes untenable.

This morning there were many shells whistling through the deep-blue sky, British shells from full-throated howitzers passing in greater flights the enemy's high velocities, but it was not an intense bombardment, judged by the full fury of modern gunfire. The actual line of yesterday's fighting was only marked by occasional crashes, from which reddish smoke wafted away into the blue. A hot sun poured down over Lens, so that its rows of miners' cottages were flame colored and its great water towers were glinting like the mosque of Adrianople as I used to see it from a hilltop in another war. The enemy's trenches round by Avion and on the outskirts of Lens were white as snow. Their chalk parapets were flung up above the weed-grown ground, and the little woods and gardens round about are rich in leaf, in spite of all the shellfire that is flung between them into the near and narrow streets, where many houses are in ruins.

HEAVY FIRING NEAR YPRES.

Berlin Also Tells of Capturing 250 French on the Aisne Front.

BERLIN, June 4, (via London.)—The artillery battle in the Wytschaete salient on the Belgian front increased yesterday to the most extreme violence and continued into the night, says today's Army Headquarters report. The text of the statement follows:

Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht:—In the Wytschaete salient yesterday the artillery fighting increased to the most extreme violence, and it continued into the night.

In the neighborhood of the coast, at La Bassée Canal, and on both sides of the River Scarpe the fighting activity increased during the afternoon, and in the night strong waves of fire were followed by advances of the English at Hulluch, Lens, Monchy, and Chérisy. They were repulsed everywhere. On Souchez Brook a majority of the English nests remaining from previous days were cleared.

Army group of the German Crown Prince: West Prussian and Rhenish regiments made a violent reconnoitring expedition on Winterberg, near Craonne, during which, after bitter hand-to-hand fighting, 150 Frenchmen and 15 machine guns remained in the hands of our storming troops. On the western slope of the mountain the French trenches incorporated into our positions were maintained against strong attacks.

During the night thrusting companies of Lower Silesian regiments penetrated the French positions northwest of Braye and took more than 100 prisoners and 15 machine guns. Both reconnoitring advances gave valuable information regarding the enemy's employment of forces.

In Champagne an enemy attack by several companies east of Poehl Mountain was frustrated by a counterattack.

Army group of Duke Albrecht: Nothing of importance to report.

A supplementary official statement issued this evening says:

In the Wytschaete Bend, after a quiet morning, the artillery duel again increased to considerable intensity during the afternoon. There was nothing of importance on the other fronts.

"LAST EFFORTS" OF BRITISH.

So Bavarian Crown Prince Tells Troops in Arras Battle.

AMSTERDAM, June 4, (via London.)—The Lokal-Anzeiger publishes a speech by the Bavarian Crown Prince to the Thirty-fifth East Prussian Division, which sustained the first British assaults on the Arras front, in which he asserts that the division stopped an assault of greatly superior forces and drove their enemy back in successful counterattacks. The Crown Prince continues:

"Your efforts contributed to the renewed failure of the British to break through our front. The enemy is now making his last efforts. He must finish the fight because he cannot continue any longer, owing to his losses and the distress of England caused by our heroic submarines.

"We will and shall hold out and be victorious. Thanks to the abundance of ammunition which is supplied to him from all parts of the world, the enemy has been able to destroy our trenches and penetrate them here and there, but this does not mean that we are conquered."

ITALIAN LINE BROKEN, BUT QUICKLY MENDED

ROME, June 4.—Italian troops yesterday withstood a heavy attack by the Austrians on the western slopes of San Marco, in the Gorizia area. The War Office announced today that at the points where the Austrians had been able to penetrate lines leveled by their artillery, they had been promptly driven out again and back to their own positions with severe losses. The text of the statement reads:

East of Gorizia the enemy artillery action previously reported became more intense yesterday, and was extended from Vertoibizza to the coast, being particularly violent against our positions on San Marco, on the Dosso Faiti lines, and east of Flondar. Our batteries replied effectively, stopping attempted enemy attacks.

On the western slopes of San Marco the enemy, after having completely destroyed the defenses of our new line with his artillery, attacked in force and succeeded in penetrating the advanced line at some points. With the prompt assistance of reinforcements the enemy was driven back to his own positions with severe loss. Eighty-two prisoners, including three officers, were left in our hands.

Along the entire front yesterday there was considerable activity in the air. One enemy machine was brought down by our fire near Monte Zebio. A second machine fell in flames near Plava, and the pilot of a third was forced by our airmen to descend into his lines.

During the night enemy aircraft bombed Codigoro. No victims or damage were reported. Our squadrons bombed hutments and enemy troops assembled at St. Lucia-Tolmino, at Chiapovano, and at the railway station of Rifemberga.

ITALY TO PROTECT A FREE ALBANIA

Would Act as Regent in Same Relationship as France to Tunisia.

GREEK SOIL NOW OCCUPIED

Italian Troops Hold Large Territory of Valona Hinterland and May Keep It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 5.—Apropos of the Italian proclamation of Albanian independence under the protection of Italy The Morning Post publishes an interesting article from its Rome correspondent, giving details of an interview with Deputy Eugenio Chiesa, who recently journeyed across Northern Epirus and Albania to Saloniki. Chiesa said:

"The Italian occupation in Albania and Northern Epirus extends well into the Greek Kingdom. Not only have the Italians occupied Walona and its hinterland, but they have passed a long way to south of the boundary between Greece proper and Northern Epirus at Cape Stylos, and have extended in a northern direction as far as the River Kalamas opposite the south end of Corfu which was intended by the thirteenth protocol of the Berlin Congress of 1878 and by the Berlin Conference of 1880 to have been the northwestern frontier of Greece, but which, since the last Balkan wars, has been well within the enlarged northwestern boundary.

The trilingual proclamation of General Ferrero, of which Signor Chiesa gave The Post correspondent a copy dated April 1, informs the inhabitants that for purely military reasons we have ordered our troops to occupy the region south of the frontier fixed by London. To the north of Valona the Italian occupation goes as far as the River Vojusa, while inland the Italian outposts are at Kalibaki, on the road from Jannina to Premeti.

"I am opposed," said Chiesa, "to the permanent occupation of these places nor do I believe the Italian Government intends to retain them. I consider as sincere the manifesto of the commandant of Valona, but Valona Kanina, the old arta north of Valona, the surrounding districts and the Isle of Saseto must remain Italian, not only for strategic, but for sanitary reasons, owing to the necessity of draining the pestilential marshes which affect the health of Valona. Venizelos, with whom I spoke at Salonika, frankly recognized this occupation of Valona, Saseno, and the territory of Valona.

"The Italians have already constructed over 400 kilometers of roads and opened over 125 schools where both Italian and Albanian are taught."

At Corfu Signor Chiesa found French Colonial troops from Senegal and Madagascar quartered in the former villa of the Kaiser, the famous Achilleion, where is also a hospital for French wounded. Corfu has an Italian Post Office, but Chiesa does not think probable the permanent occupation of the the island, "as Corfu," he said, "cannot be Italian, it ought to remain Greek, for if this world war has national justice as its object no one ought to create for tomorrow irredentisms, whether formal or substantial. Of course, we Italians could not consent to an international occupation of the island."

With regard to Albania proper, however, Chiesa favors the retentio nof an Italian protectorate in such a manner that the representation of Albania abroad and the direction of its foreign policy should be in the hands of Italy just as a guardian manages the affairs of a minor. This would, he thinks, avoid the competition of rival nations in that country. Similarly, France directs the foreign affairs of the regency of Tunisia.

At Saloniki, Chiesa had an interview with Venizelos, who repeats that he is no enemy of Italy. "I do not understand," added Venizelos, "why Italy's policy should be so destructful toward us."

When Chiesa, himself a Republican, said, "I should like to see a republic in Greece and yourself as President," Venizelos replied:

"I am not a republican; I am a democrat."

Consequently, inferred Chiesa, Venizelos and Baron Sonnino, who at the recent conference at St. Jean de Maurienne are said to have opposed the creation of a Greek republic, are really less far apart than they appear.

SEAMEN BY BOYCOTT MAY STOP PACIFISTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 4.—An extraordinary, and, in some aspects, Gilbertian, situation has arisen out of the Leeds conference of pacifists. At that gathering yesterday Captain Tupper, on behalf of the Seamen's Union, submitted an amendment to the Snowden resolution, asking who was to reimburse the widows and orphans of the seamen who had been murdered by German submarines. The conference voted Tupper down. Today he had his revenge when the National Sailors and Firemen's Union passed this resolution:

The National Sailors and Firemen's Union call upon all their members to refuse to sail on any boat on which the peace delegates may be carried, unless such peace delegates, prior to sailing, give an undertaking in writing that at whatever conference they may attend, whether at Petrograd or Stockholm, they will give the Germans to understand that there will be no settlement arrived at until ample restitution has been made to the relatives, not only of British seamen but of the seamen of neutral countries, who have been murdered in the most cold-blooded manner by the crews of German submarines.

This resolution was passed at a meeting presided over by Havelock Wilson, and, as the union is a well-organized and cohesive body, it is thought more than probable that the spirit of the resolution will be carried into effect.

The union officials have already dispatched telegrams to all ports whence vessels are likely to sail for Russia or Norway within the next five or six weeks, and the seamen's unions in Scandinavia also have been asked to co-operate with the British seamen in their refusal to carry delegates who are not prepared to give the required pledge.

Havelock Wilson in an interview today spoke of the great wrongs that merchant seamen had suffered at the hands of the Germans, and said that no peace settlement could be satisfactory to the seafaring population which did not include restitution by the Germans to the representatives of sailors, both allied and neutral, who had been murdered as a result of that submarine campaign.

"When the delegates at the seamen's conference," he said, "read reports of the hilarious manner in which some of the peace cranks received the proposals of the seamen's delegates at Leeds on the question of restitution, they were furious and some very strong remarks were made as to the plan that would be adopted in case the peace delegates would not give the undertaking demanded."

Mr. Wilson said that the delegates were well known, and that if they arrived at the side of a ship the seamen and firemen would walk off unless the undertaking was given.

"Don't you remember the young men of military age who tried to emigrate?" asked one of Mr. Wilson's colleagues. "That was stopped, not by legislation, but simply by the sailors refusing to carry them."

Mr. Wilson said that he had no exact information as to the number of British seamen who had been murdered by the Germans in the U-boat campaign, but he believed it must be something like 400 or 500.

"We have called it murder," he remarked, "in every case where a man loses his life in endeavoring to escape."

PAN-GERMANS TALK STILL OF INDEMNITY

Think America Will Be Able to Foot the Bill and Urge Preparations for Another War.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 15, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—One of the popular wartime occupations of conservative and Pan-German newspapers throughout the German Empire, as shown by advices received here, is to speculate on the size of the indemnity which Germany is expected to obtain from the Entente Allies, and to impress upon their readers, again and again, why enormous indemnities are going to be an absolute necessity. The entry of America into the war has, if anything, given impetus to such discussions, because the United States is so obviously able to pay a pretty price.

The Leipsic Neueste Nachrichten is the latest paper to take the matter up. A recent article in that paper by Professor Krueckmann of Muenster is the more significant since the journal is considered the personal organ of the German Crown Prince, and frequently publishes things directly inspired by him.

Professor Krueckmann, in two columns and a half, presents arguments why Germany must have an indemnity. The primary reason, he argues, is that one of England's first acts after the war probably will be to construct the famous tunnel between Dover and Calais, which, says the writer, will make Germany's submarines valueless, and which will, therefore, place Germany at the mercy of England in the second war, which is to follow the present struggle.

England, says the writer, need not starve out Germany to win the war, need not even win it decisively, but, by coming out with a "draw" will have the upper hand for all time unless Germany can obtain an indemnity and thereby strengthen itself at the same time that it weakens England and America. His argument in support of this contention is that, if the war costs both Germany and England $20,000,000,000, or even more, it will leave Germany badly crippled, while England, even though she has spent a like amount, will have behind her the wealth of America. And England, he argues, does plan a second war that will put the finishing touch to Germany. He speaks of it as England's war of revenge, and warns his countrymen to be prepared for it.

Professor Krueckmann takes sharp issue with, for instance, Count von Hertling, Bavaria's Premier, who has declared against an indemnity because the costs of the war to date form only a fractional part of Germany's national wealth. The writer points out, as many others have done since Hertling astonished and shocked Germany with his pronunciamento, that there are going to be enormous bills for invalids, pensions, and to relatives of the hundreds of thousands who have died. Without an indemnity to fall back on, Germany is going to have a terrible struggle.

Likewise, says he, an indemnity is absolutely essential in the interest of building up industries which shall give employment to all the returning soldiers and to lighten the taxes which promise to be crushingly heavy unless some of the present debts can be wiped off the slate at the end of the war.

Such a state of affairs, he believes, will drive Germans in droves to America, where there is no invalid, sick, or old age insurance, and where they will be working against their own country and preparing its enemy for the second "war of revenge," in which America as well as England can be counted to take part. For this reason, if no other, therefore, he considers the matter of an indemnity a "stomach, hunger, existence, and life question for German workmen."

"The German people," he continues, "appear even today not to realize that the length of the war and the huge earnings of America have created an entirely new situation. American capital to a large extent will become occupationless when peace is declared, will therefore jump at any possibility, will align itself with English capital in competition with us. We, stripped of all free capital, would not be able to compete. We are so loaded down with war loans that we must count on a strong trend of our war loan securities to foreign countries after the war. Thereby we become interest payers to the rest of the world, our money will flow away from us, without being available for use in economic development at home.

"If we do not weaken our opponents by cutting a financial artery, then, after the completion of the Dover-Calais tunnel, we go, weakened, into a second war under enormously more unfavorable economic and military conditions on our side, and under vastly strengthened economic and military conditions on the enemy's side. Either the German people die on the battlefield and have gone into this war for nothing, or they die of self-consumption."

INTERVENES FOR JEWS.

Alfonso Demands End of Persecutions Practiced in Palestine.

MADRID, June 4, (via Paris.)—The Spanish Government, it is announced in the newspapers, has instructed its representatives in Berlin, Vienna, and Constantinople to present an urgent note demanding that there be an end to the persecutions, deportations, and lootings practiced against the Jews in Palestine. King Alfonso, it is said, has intervened directly in this question.

Numerous residents of the Near East, it is pointed out, are of Spanish origin and have retained that language.

The action of Spain in this matter is declared to be energetically upheld by several of the other neutral nations, including Argentina.

Kronstadt Sailors Menace Capital.

PETROGRAD, June 3, (via London, June 4.)—Sailors from the Kronstadt garrison, which recently declared its independence of the Central Government, arrived in Petrograd early this morning with the announcement that warships at Kronstadt would come to Petrograd immediately and land men to make demonstrations. Later it was reported that sailors had landed at Gutuyeff Island, port of Petrograd, and begun an attack. A visit to the Gutuyeff port quarter showed that the story of the landing and attack was untrue. However, it was sufficiently alarming to provoke intense excitement in the city and cause the dispatch to the spot of a military force.

Petrograd waited today for the threatened demonstrations by the Kronstadt warships, and as the time passed with no such incident the announcement of the sailors who reached here last night came to be regarded by a majority as merely boastful talk on the part of extremists acting in defiance of the orders of Anatole Lamanoff, President of the Kronstadt Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates.

The Kronstadt sailors who came to Petrograd said the demonstrations would be for the purpose of bringing about new elections of members of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, whose present members were denounced as bourgeois. The sailors also demanded that former Emperor Nicholas be handed over to them. At street meetings they expressed dissatisfaction with War Minister Kerensky and the whole Provisional Government, particularly for abolition of the death penalty, which they characterized as premature.

On visiting the Gutuyeff quarter the correspondent found that a vast fire had been burning for some time, having been partially extinguished. A large quantity of sulphur was afire. There were evidences of a violent explosion. Windows at a considerable distance were broken. It appears that at 9 o'clock this morning the ice breaker Oranienbaum, instead of the Kronstadt warships, arrived off Gutuyeff. It was flying the red flag. On it were sailors and workmen who were singing the hymn of the Bolsheviki extremists. The ice breaker steamed up and down opposite the wharf, took on board a party of Petrograd workmen, and departed.

Simultaneously seven large cases of phosphorus on the wharf ignited. The fire extended to a quantity of salts, causing a violent explosion, after which the stores of sulphur caught fire and were consumed. No one was injured, and buildings close by were undamaged, except for the destruction of glass. Inquiries show that it is altogether improbable that any one landed from the ice breaker. The conflagration apparently was caused either by incendiaries from quarters other than Kronstadt, or, as official investigators on the spot suggest, by spontaneous combustion of phosphorus exposed to damp and heat.

Won't Hinder Exiles' Return.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 4.—Replying to statements from pro-German sources that the British Government was hampering the return of political refugees to Russia, and forcing them to go by way of Germany, the Foreign Office has informed THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that no difficulties have been or will be placed in the way of such exiles who are bound for Russia from neutral or allied countries if they have permission to do so from the Russian authorities in the countries in which they have been domiciled.

The British Government is willing to offer facilities for their return in so far as it is not incompatible with the war situation.

EXPECTS LITTLE OF RUSSIA.

Prof. Masaryk Says American Aid for France Is Essential.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 5.—Professor Masaryk, the distinguished Bohemian leader, who has been for some weeks in Petrograd and whose knowledge of the Slav races gives his opinion special value, telegraphs to The London Times an estimate of the situation in Russia, in the course of which he says:

"As regards the principal political question of the efficiency of the republican army, it is my opinion that the Allies will do best if they prepare for the worst, or at least for the minimum, which would be that the Russians would merely hold their positions and detain a portion of the enemy armies on their front.

"I have from the first been convinced that the strategical situation of the Allies demands the strengthening of France. If Marshal Joffre and General Pétain have asked for American soldiers, they have rightly gauged the real situation. An American army in France is necessary to the energetic prosecution of the war on the western, Italian, and Saloniki fronts and America's firm will not to accept a premature peace will influence the Russian Army and people and induce them to follow.

"I do not believe in tactics that tend to interpret the abstract, unpractical political program of the pacifist visionaries."

PRESIDENT'S NOTE DELIVERED TO RUSSIA

Text May Not Be Made Public—Rosen Interview Causes Dissatisfaction in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—It became known today that the American note to Russia has been delivered to the Petrograd Government after a very considerable delay. Officially the cause of the delay was attributed, with the qualifying word "doubtlessly," to the difficulty of the American Embassy in Petrograd in decoding it and then translating it into Russian.

It had been understood that the communication would be made public as soon as the Government was informed that it had been transmitted to the Russian Foreign Office. Today, however, it was indicated that it might never be made public.

It was said at the State Department that the Russian Government would be consulted before the note was made public, and that this Government also desired to know the effect of the note before deciding upon its publicity.

In view of the interview with Baron Rosen, former Russian Ambassador to the United States, who has been designated for another term in Washington as Ambassador, which was published this morning, it is considered doubtful whether the note will succeed in bringing about the desired change on the part of the Petrograd authorities, and especially on the part of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates.

The interview has created a very unfavorable impression here. While high officials declined to comment on Baron Rosen's views, it was evident from the feeling shown in less important circles that he had struck an unpopular chord. In effect, Baron Rosen said that Russia's exit from her present chaotic condition lay in the way of a peace conference with the Entente Powers for the purpose of affording the basis of a peace with the Central Powers.

All that is said here in the circles closest to the White House leaves no room for doubt that the United States has entered the war with the intention to remain until the finish; that there will be no peace that does not mean the end of German autocracy and the accomplishment of the aims outlined by the President when this Government entered the conflict.

PETROGRAD, June 4.—It has been learned that the publication here of the rejoinder of the United States Government to Russia's note respecting the aims of the United States in the war is being deferred pending the receipt of similar replies from Great Britain, France, and Italy.

ROOT ON SPECIAL TRAIN.

A RUSSIAN PORT, June 3, (via Tokio.)—The American Commission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, which arrived here safely this morning, left on a special train this afternoon bound for Petrograd after calling on the officials here. The Root party probably will reach the Russian capital June 11.

The American Railroad Commission, headed by John F. Stevens, formerly chief engineer of the Panama Canal Commission, has completed the inspection of this Russian port and left for Petrograd this morning on a special train. It is expected that the commission will arrive in Petrograd June 17.

RUSSIAN SCOUTS RAID GERMAN LINES

PETROGRAD, June 4, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—Russian scouts yesterday broke through four rows of wire entanglements in front of the German positions near Kovel and dispersed the Teuton barrier guards. Further south, in the Carpathian Mountains, Russian scouts penetrated the German wire entanglements near Pnevi, drove the Germans from the trenches, and captured a machine gun. The Russian official statement reporting these operations, says:

Western (Russian) Front—In the direction of Kovel, at New Mossor, our scouts under command of squadron leader Rikovsky, having surmounted four rows of wire entanglements dispersed the German barrier guard.

In the Carpathians, in the region of Pnevi, our scouts under command of Sub-Lieutenant Odinkov, notwithstanding the enemy's rifle and machine gun fire, penetrated the wire entanglements, drove the enemy from the trenches, and captured a machine gun. In the course of the attack the gallant Sub-Lieutenant Odinkov was killed.

Rumanian and Caucasian Fronts—There was no change in the situation.

BERLIN, June 4, (via London.)—Skirmishes on the Macedonian front resulting favorably to the Bulgarians, but no events of moment on the Russian front are reported in today's headquarters statement. The text of the statement on operations in these war areas reads:

Eastern Front—There have been no fighting activities of importance.

Hand-Tailored Khaki was an experiment at first. But the cumulative demand for these Hand-Tailored Khaki Uniforms proves that our judgment was right. Officers and privates alike prefer them to the hit-or-misfits of machine production. The fact is, they fit better, because they are cut by a skilled designer and hand-worked in and around the neck, the shoulders and the fronts, the same as our higher-priced civilian clothes. Of course, the price of $16 is hardly a fair price for tailoring of such distinctive character. But, as Kipling says, that is another story. At $16 we are simply doing "our bit."

New York, April 11th, 1917.

Dear Captain:

Thanks for your special efforts in getting me the advance model of your Doughboy Shoe

I had been trying for sometime but without success to get a shoe ready made that would be serviceable and comfortable.

You have solved the problem.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) N. K. Averill.

It's somewhat more than a shoe—its a foundation—a coign of vantage—a place to stand on—a support—a rest for the feet rather than a test—a source of comfort rather than complaint—a protection for the feet rather than a provocation to the temper.

It's the Dreadnaught of Shoes!

Tough, yet tender on the feet—hard as nails, yet soft as an old shoe—thick on the sole, yet pliant as pacificism—rigid in the shank, yet responsive—cut high in the uppers yet comfortable as a lower berth—square in its lines, yet glovelike in its fit.

RECRUITING BREAKS ALL RECORDS HERE

On Eve of Registration, Young Men Seek to Choose Branch in Which They Would Serve.

RUSH TO JOIN THE MILITIA

The Army Gets More Than 400 and the Navy More Than 100 Recruits in the City.

With registration as a driving force, New York broke all previous recruiting records yesterday in the enlistments of hundreds of young men of draft age in the army, navy, and National Guard. From morning to night the main recruiting centres of the city were thronged with eligibles who preferred to choose, while they still had a chance, the particular branch of the service which appealed to them most. Medical examiners were taxed to the utmost to dispose of the long lines of applicants, and recruiting officers in the navy and regular army agreed that at yesterday's pace, which is likely to continue until the actual draft is made, both the navy and regular army would be recruited to full strength within a very short time.

While registration was the apparent cause of the sudden impetus to recruiting, the applicants in many cases were moved purely by patriotic motives, being above draft age, though within the age that would make them acceptable for the regular army or National Guard. The heaviest recruiting for the day was reported from the armories of the various National Guard regiments, the movement in this direction being prompted mostly by the desire of men to go to the front with New York units and with men of their own community.

While exact figures could not be obtained, it was estimated yesterday that the National Guard, due to registration, recruited more than 700 men from this city. Recruiting in the Seventh Infantry, the Twelfth, and the Fifteenth continued into the night, the Fifteenth Regiment taking in more than 100 men alone.

Registration day will be made a special occasion for National Guard recruiting, and reviews and special drills will be held in most of the armories. By order of Major Gen. O'Ryan, all organizations of the National Guard not in Federal service and not on active duty will assemble at their armories at 9 A. M., and an appropriate program of inspection, muster, and parade will be carried out.

The rush for enlistment in the regular army was almost as great as that in the National Guard. Before the day was over more than 400 men were actually enlisted in the regular establishment from Greater New York, which is almost three times as many men as the regular army has ever obtained in this city in one day's recruiting. Colonel Walsh and Major Hughes, attached to the army recruiting headquarters at 280 Broadway, were greatly pleased with the showing. More than 200 men who applied had to be rejected owing to physical disqualifications, but the 400 men who were accepted were all splendid physical specimens, eager and fit to endure the hardships of the trenches.

Major Hughes declared very emphatically yesterday that registration would not be a bar to enlistment in the regular army, provided the applicant enlisted before he was actually selected for the draft army. Once drafted, the man, of course, could not enlist in the regular army.

In the navy, where the physical standards are higher than in the army, the recruiting officers found themselves overwhelmed with applications from men who could not pass the examinations. More than 300 applicants were examined at the navy recruiting headquarters at 34 East Twenty-third Street. Not one out of three, however, came up to the standard. The enlistments in the navy from the city before the day was over totaled more than 100 men.

The United States Marine Corps alone of all the branches of service failed to feel any material effect from the approach of registration day. At the marine headquarters on East Twenty-third Street not more than twenty-five applications were received, of which only fifteen were enlisted.

The United States steamship Recruit, the landship used for recruiting at Union Square, served as an active clearing centre yesterday for marine and navy applications. More than 140 men enrolled on the vessel during the day, most of them for the navy, and they were promptly sent over to the navy station for examination.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Pennsylvania took a leap forward Saturday and Sunday in army recruiting and led all the States of the country by contributing 353 men, while New York was second, with 290, and Ohio third, with 235. Ohio has been creeping up steadily during the last week. The total number of men enlisted for the two days was 2,669, bringing the total since April 1 up to 97,292.

The number of enlisted men in the Marine Corps Now is 24,206, leaving about 6,000 to be obtained to fill its new war quota. NEW AVIATION FIELD CHOSEN

Special to The New York Times.

SACKET HARBOR, June 4.—Following the announcement yesterday in Washington that the Government would develop a great army in the air, it was ascertained here this afternoon that the War Department intended to open an aviation field about twenty miles from Madison Barracks.

The field will be at Pine Plains, and will be large enough to be used as a two-squadron station. For two weeks carpenters have been preparing buildings and hangars, and the New York Central Railroad has been amplifying its transportation facilities at the projected camp. The number of aviators who would go to Pine Plains would not exceed 150, it was said. An elaborate telephone system of communication is being installed.

The Post Office Department today instructed Postmaster Cornwall of Watertown to begin at once the establishment of a military Post Office at the aviation field. The men who will be selected to report here for training will come from the same district as those at Madison Barracks, which includes all of New York State except New York City, and four electoral districts of Pennsylvania. The camp is to open within six weeks.

It was announced today that the Government rifle range at Stony Point was ready for service, and that within two weeks the student officers at Madison Barracks would make the eighteen-mile motor trip to the butts for target practice. The students will be required to fire at fewest 100 rounds at varying distances to qualify.

The recent ruling that only infantry and artillery drills were to be included in the instruction at the various camps has left about twenty cavalrymen at the barracks in a predicament. These men came to the camp merely for cavalry, and under the new order they must take up an entirely new line of work or resign. A few of the men, especially those who are already commissioned in the reserve as cavalry officers, are hesitating about changing to the infantry because, they say, they may have to accept a lower rank.

The camp authorities declare that any decision of the question must come from Washington. Meantime, the men assert, they are losing valuable time here, since some of them are confident they could get transfers to the cavalry camp at Fort Myer, Va.

Beginning the third week of training, the students today faced the hardest schedule they had yet encountered. Drill periods were greatly lengthened, so that the corps spent practically the whole day out on the drill grounds. Tonight the men plainly showed the strain of the hours spent in the hot sun.

YALE AIR CORPS MOVES NORTH

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., June 4.—Fifty Yale students who have been studying aviation at the Naval Training Station at West Palm Beach, Fla., arrived here this morning by special train, bringing their twenty hydroairplanes and other outfit, and will resume training with their base at the Cartlidge estate on the shore of Huntington Harbor. They are under command of Lieutenant F. T. Davison, son of Henry P. Davison.

As soon as the men detrained they started work on their machines and upon the shelters which they will erect for them. They expect to be flying before the week is out.

to issue passes to the French Socialists, therefore, meets with approval from Count zu Reventlow and firebrands of similar type. The Count in the Deutsche Tageszeitung calls the Stockholm conference an anti-German intrigue, whereat the Vorwärts asks that journal whether M. Ribot has suddenly become a friend of Germany.

The Cologne Gazette says that the German Socialists will be accompanied to Stockholm by the good wishes of millions of Germans.

The Pan German Berlin Neueste Nachrichten declares that Premier Ribot spoke as it wishes Bethmann Hollweg had spoken in the Reichstag.

The Tägliche Rundschau is sorry that it was left to M. Ribot to say from a responsible position what ought to be said under all circumstances.

The Vorwärts regards the refusal of the passes to the French Socialists as great folly, which will raise about Ribot internal and external difficulties.

"It is foolish," the paper adds, "to believe that Ribot by a dictator's gesture will reduce the Stockholm efforts to nothing."

Side by side with this anti-Stockholm campaign the Pan German press is carrying on a great annexationist campaign, aided by numerous active Pan German bodies. Several papers have been won over to the imperial extremists' side, and to the leagues are being furnished plentiful supplies of money in order to carry on the work.

These leagues, also, are being cleared of all administrative personages who are not extreme Pan Germans. In the case of the Pan German League Dr. Claas has been compelled to resign the Presidency on account of newspaper attacks, and his place has been taken by Admiral von Grapow, an advocate of widespread annexations.

THE HAGUE, June 4.—The German newspapers are beginning to express suspicions of the Stockholm Socialist conference. Some of their comments are:

Kreuz-Zeitung—We cannot see how the Stockholm conference can bring the desired peace any nearer.

Cologne Gazette—Our Social Democrats are following in a difficult track in going to Stockholm. The long program of the conference, with its undigested theories and its treatment of the questions of Alsace-Lorraine and Poland, which we have long since settled, is full of traps.

PLATTSBURG TO DROP NEARLY 700 ROOKIES

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 4.—Nearly 700 students are expected to be weeded out of the training camp by June 15. Instruction officers said today that they had at present a fairly good idea just who these 700 men would be, and this news has set every student in the camp quaking in his shoes. Such matters as inattention to orders, poor military bearing, lack of neatness, and skylarking tendencies will react against a man as much as failure in his studies.

The departure of 700 men will bring the total companies in each camp down to the required number of fourteen. Each company will then be a skeleton regiment for the two divisions for which the training camp is to furnish the officers. After June 15 there will be nine infantry companies and one troop of cavalry for each camp at Plattsburg. One company of engineers from each camp will go to Belvoir, Va., while the three batteries of artillery which each camp is to furnish will be sent to Syracuse, N. Y., after the middle of this month.

Men who fear that they may be among the 700 undesirables will receive a chance to resign from the camp before they have been called before a board of officers. They may sign the following application:

"Because of personal and official reasons which will prevent me from successfully completing the work of the course, I request that I be permitted to withdraw."

This application will go to the company instructor, who will forward it to camp headquarters if he believes the student should withdraw. Otherwise he will take no notice of the application and the student will remain in camp.

Today ten students from the Eighth New York Company were called to camp headquarters and told that, owing to their continued talking in ranks and unsoldierly attitude, they would have an opportunity to resign before being called before a board of officers. The men resigned. There were also ten New England guardsmen who left the camp today.

A telegram arrived today from a high army official which stated that no more instructors would be called away from the camp and that the War Department would do all in its power in the matter of supplies and money to make the training camps a success. Practically all of the officers hope to see Canadian officers at Plattsburg after the middle of the month. They say that the Canadians' assistance in bayonet drill, rifle practice, and methods of trench warfare is urgently needed.

Brig. Gen. Clarence Edwards, commander of the Northeastern Department, arrived in Plattsburg tonight and is the guest of Colonel Wolf. Tomorrow he will inspect the camp and hold a conference with regular army officers.

Charles B. Willard, a member of the New York camp, died tonight in the post hospital of pneumonia, caused by exposure in the rain on a practice march last week. His mother, Mrs. Frank Willard of Brooklyn, was at his bedside when the end came.

U-BOATS FIRE ON OPEN BOATS

Norwegian Sailors Are Told They Must Keep Off the Ocean.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—German submarines are now firing on passengers leaving torpedoed vessels in open boats. Information to this effect reached Washington today in a private letter received from a prominent American passing through a Scandinavian country, and who sent the following extract from a Scandinavian paper:

"The Germans have added one more degree to their brutality, and are now firing on people who have left the big boats and are trying to save themselves in the small ones, with the very frank statement made the other day to some Norwegian sailors that they must keep off the ocean."

MAYOR SEES DELAY OF WEST SIDE PLAN

SAYS WORK DONE IS LOST

Thinks Present Conditions of Operation Will Continue for Many Years.

The west side improvement problem, which includes the elimination of the New York Central Railroad tracks from grade along Tenth Avenue has little chance to be settled for many years, according to Mayor Mitchel and other city officials, who yesterday denounced the signing of the Ottinger bill by Governor Whitman. The Mayor pointed out that unless the New York Central changed its stand on franchise questions the probabilities were that the four years' negotiations carried on by the city and the railroad were lost. As the bill, which gives the Public Service Commission joint jurisdiction with the Board of Estimate on the matter, is now a law, the Mayor said that the board would comply with the law and do the best it could.

"What are the prospects of a settlement of the problem under the new bill?" the Mayor was asked.

"None whatever," he replied. "The contract, as pending, could not be consummated under the new law. In my opinion, this means no settlement of the west side question for many years to come. It means more than going over the work of the last four years; it means a loss of that work. There can be no improvement of terminal facilities, no trackage increases, and no warehouses and terminal markets—matters which might have played an important part in the city's food supply. It means also that lives will continue to be menaced by surface operation. In other words, present conditions will, I think, be continued for some time to come."

"What action will the Board of Estimate take?" the Mayor was asked.

"The bill is signed and is a law of the State,' he replied. "It is the duty of the Board of Estimate to do the best it can under the law. We always comply with the law."

It was suggested to the Mayor that the Ottinger law does not actually forbid a settlement if the city, the railroad company, and the Public Service Commission can come to an agreement.

"Well, certains motions will doubtless take place," the Mayor went on, "but from what we know of the railroad's attitude—stated both publicly and privately in and out of conference—the company will not accept the terms laid down in the law. Accordingly, whatever we do up to Dec. 1 will only be marking time, though of course there might be a settlement if the company should change its position."

SEES NO REASON TO WORK.

Wife Gets Most of Income and Ross Likes to Read.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., June 4.—William Ross has an income and a section of his home all to himself, and as he gives his wife the major part of his income he does not see what reason she has to bother him. Justice of the Peace Hendrickson is thinking it over while trying to have Mr. and Mrs. Ross patch things up. Mrs. Ross swore to a complaint before the Justice that her husband did not work and support her. The Justice issued the summons and Ross explained that he did not like to work. He would rather read, so he stays up until the small hours, sleeps until about noon, and takes the afternoon for recreation.

He has part of the house set off as a library into which neither she nor their 9-year-old child ever goes. Ross explained that he had an income of $50 a month. Out of this, he said, he gave his wife $30. He paid the rent of the house, $15 a month, and has the rest for himself. The Justice took a month to think it over.

Manchester Guardian Thinks Free Discussion of War Aims Imperative.

CITES RUSSIAN SUSPICION

Urges a Revision of Policy to Remove "the Most Serious Obstacle to Military Success."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 4.—Under the heading "Danger of Secrecy" The Manchester Guardian publishes an editorial in which it says:

"In the abstract it is unreasonable to complain of curtailment of freedom in war time. War cannot be won without discipline, and now that whole nations, and not merely armies, are engaged, discipline must apply to every household. On the whole, loss of liberty in this country has been submitted to with astonishing cheerfulness, and yet in this very readiness to sacrifice old habit for a national end there is a real element of danger.

"Our liberties rest on a delicate balance of understandings and precedents, and when once this balance is overset there is no saying what the result may be. The old rule has done, and there is no ascertained rule to take its place. Hence there may be thrown away along with liberties that are for the moment harmful others that are innocent, and some which are precious for the cause of the war itself. Of these none is more precious than the right of knowledge and the liberty of discussion, and none has been more seriously restricted."

After showing how the mechanism of the censorship works in regard to expressions of opinion, in view of the interpretation that may be put upon them or the purposes they may be made to serve in enemy countries, The Guardian says:

"If this use of British newspapers is feared the only consistent course would be to prevent the publication of anything whatever; that is to say, debar a people which is still self-governed from the interchange of ideas and informing itself as to what is going on."

The Guardian considers that the attitude of suspicion adopted by Russia toward her western allies, "which at the present time is the most serious obstacle to our military success," may be due to "cases of interfering with the free circulation of the expression of British sympathy with the allied cause," and concludes as follows:

"At this moment what could be more necessary than a free, frank, and public interchange of opinion by the Allies? Now, with the double event of the entry of America and the revolution in Russia, the whole war situation is changed. The Russians themselves have repudiated aims which completely dominated half the war. What could be more stupid than to go on with eyes shut and nose in the air, as if nothing had occurred? What can be more certain than this, that if an inspiration is to win the war it is the democratic idea that must be that inspiration? What can be more urgent than the discovery of methods by which the democratic idea is to be applied to the unraveling of the tangled skein, and how can this discovery be made except by free, unfettered discussion between the parties concerned?

"Liberty may have had its practical dangers when we were allied with a tyrant, but now that we are all free peoples together it is the restriction of liberty which is most dangerous to harmony of feeling and unity of action."

There is no monotony in Yellowstone—each day brings you an entirely new set of wonders. Strange geysers throwing out tons of boiling water and steam, "paint-pots" bubbling on and on forever, canyons and waterfalls almost twice the height of Niagara, petrified forests, and a thousand other wonders.

The hotels, camps and automobile transportation in the Park are each under the control of the Government. No more slow and uncomfortable horse stages. The Government has decreed that automobiles shall be the new means of conveyance, and they are now universally used.

A five-day tour of the Park costs only $52.00, or, if you use the camps instead of hotels, $43.00. The rail rate to the Park is very reasonable. On the way out do not fail to take the "Cody Road"—the eastern entrance—for there is nothing in the Park more beautiful and inspiring than the glorious mountain scenery along that Government-built automobile road to Cody, where a comfortable and home-like Burlington train awaits you.

Let me tell you all about it and help you plan your trip so that you can get the most out of it. Glad to do it—that's what I'm here for. Call, or write, for a "Yellowstone Folder."

NAVY BASEBALL NINES COMPETE IN ENGLAND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 4.—A baseball game was played here today by teams of American sailors. The match was witnessed by senior and junior officers of the British and United States Navies. The play from start to finish was fast, and the spectacular contest aroused the greatest local interest, although the match had been in no way advertised, except from one interested mouth to another. People told each other the news as having a real good thing to impart. Naval officers and men formed the greater part of the spectators, but many women also were present, and the intricacies of the game were explained to them by officer-husbands or other male companions.

The ground overlooked the sea and was set amid poetically beautiful scenery. The hedges and the stone walls of the field were all ablaze in the sun with golden gorse. Very glad of their liberty were the teams, and gladder still to be feeling the ball again in their hands. All the men were hard as nails and bronzed as old brown boots. They lined up in their regulation playing uniforms, with the names of their respective ships written large across their chests. Most of them were more lithe than hefty, but some were big fellows, too.

"Old Ginger," as we called one catcher, won our profound admiration. One of the officers said:

"Some very spectacular plays were pulled off during the match, as you saw—that clinking three-base hit, and that double play and those stolen bases, and the scoring on some of the wild throws that made the crowd cheer. There was ginger in the game all through. The winning team had a three-bagger to their credit. R, B, S, and B did good work in running bases, each having a stolen base to his credit. Captain S. made a spectacular hit, pounding out a liner for three bags. The base running of the losers was fully as good as, if not better than, that of the winning team.

"However, the pitcher held his game in hand every minute, not only pitching a good, steady game, but showing splendid judgment during the entire contest. For the winners, L, W, F, D anad T proved run-getters and always gave a good account of themselves at bat. F, who captained the winners, played a grand game both in the field and at bat, being responsible for one score by a nice hit.

"These naval teams and others like them are going to put up some real live ball, and we shall see what we shall see."

NO GERMAN COLLAPSE NEAR.

Interned Australian, Now in London, Says People Are Pinched.

LONDON, Tuesday, June 5.—The Times today prints the first of a series of articles written by Frederic Sefton Delmer, an Australian, who, before the war, held a lectureship in Berlin University, but was interned at the Ruhleben prisoner camp until March, 1915. Later he was permitted to live in Berlin, but recently has been permitted to come to London.

Professor Delmer in his article expresses astonishment at the abundance of food, taxicabs, and horses in London, as compared with those in Berlin. He ridicules the grumblers he has met here who complained of the shortage and dearness of food.

"They have no idea," says Professor Delmer, "how ridiculous such grievances sound to any one coming from a land on the verge of hunger, if not actual starvation. The consumption of food in Germany is now reduced to a point below which it cannot go without disaster to public health."

Nevertheless, the writer adds, the people in Germany manage to get along and, although they grumble a good deal, they do not dream of giving in or slackening theinr efforts. He says it would be utterly misleading to think that any German collapse is yet in sight.

TO TRAIN AMERICANS FOR ARMY IN ENGLAND

Men Who Have Registered for Service Under Stars and Stripes Will Not Have to Return.

LONDON, June 4.—The American Society of London, which has been registering all Americans in the United Kingdom who are willing to place their services at the disposal of the United States Government for war work, now is planning to train the volunteers here for military service. The registration thus far totals about 1,000 and includes men in a great variety of occupations, ranging from expert construction engineers to teamsters. In fact the volunteers have come forward for every variety of work useful in war.

Out of this thousand there are several hundred who are willing to undergo military training and it is proposed to organize them into a sort of militia to be drilled by City of London National Guardsmen. The training will be carried out so as not to interfere with the regular occupations of the volunteers.

It is understood the British authorities are willing to afford every facility, and the American Society believes it can prepare the men here so that if the Washington Government wants them for service they will not have to return to the United States for training.

START BRITISH RECRUITING.

Gen. White, in Charge of Local Office, Expects Many Enlistments.

Brig. Gen. W. A. White, head of the British Recruiting Mission in the United States, formally opened headquarters at 280 Broadway yesterday and announced that his staff would begin recruiting tomorrow British subjects who desire to serve with their own colors. General White emphasized he was not here on a hunt for British slackers, but was merely eager to offer loyal British subjects opportunities of going to the front with their own countrymen.

"There is a vast difference," said General White, "between the slacker and the man who is ready to live up to his duty. I am quite well satisfied that we will have a gratifying response to our appeal for recruits once it is known that the way is open to Britons to enlist and be of real service.

In addition to numerous applicants who have already indicated in person their intention to enlist, General White is receiving daily hundreds of letters from British subjects in various parts of the country who are eager to rally to colors.

His recruiting staff will be made up of the following: Major F. R. I. Athill, Northumberland Fusiliers; Major C. D. Murray, late Fourth Division Royal Engineers; Captain G. M. R. A. MacSwiney, late Twentieth Hussars; Captain P. F. Sise, 148th Battalion Canadian Infantry; Captain J. A. Robertson Durham, Gordon Highlanders; Lieutenant F. A. Gunter and Second Lieut. C. J. White, Royal Field Artillery.

FRENCH FACTORY BLOWS UP.

Explosions in a Suburb Awaken All Paris in Early Morning.

PARIS, June 4.—All Paris was awakened about 4 o'clock this morning by a powerful detonation, followed by several small ones.

A factory in Aubervillers, a suburg, had exploded with such force that nothing was left of the structure of the factory itself, and the roofs of nearby buildings were carried away.

Other damage of consequence was done in the neighborhood, but no casualties from the explosion have been reported.

Germany Suppresses Two Papers.

COPENHAGEN, June 4.—The German military authorities have suppressed the anti-Semitic Stattsburger Zeitung and the radical Weekly World, according to a Berlin dispatch today.

NEW FACTORY LAW.

Bill Gives More Liberal Definition of a Factory Building.

The attention of property interests is called by the Real Estate Board to the fact that Governor Whitman has signed Assemblyman Bewley's bill, (Int. 146,) making a more liberal definition of a factory, a factory building and a mercantile establishment. This is one of four important bills upon which a hearing was given on Tuesday last by Governor Whitman.

The provisions of the Labor law as to structural changes and alterations shall not apply to factories or to any buildings, &c., used for or in connection therewith where less than six persons are employed at manufacturing, except as otherwise prescribed by the State Industrial Commission in its rules.

The term "factory building" means any building, shed, or structure which, or any part of which, is occupied by or used for a factory, and in which at least one-tenth or more than twenty-five of all the persons employed in the building are engaged in work for a factory, but shall not include a building used exclusively for dwelling purposes above the first story.

The provisions of the Labor law affecting structural changes and alterations shall not apply to mercantile establishments where less than six persons are employed, except as otherwise prescribed by the State Industrial Commission in its rules.

Whenever the enforcement of any of the provisions of this chapter is committed to any local officer or officers by any law now in force or hereafter enacted, such local officer or officers with respect to the matters thus committed to them shall be deemed to have the powers and jurisdiction of the Industrial Commission of the State of New York to the extent specified in the law committing the enforcement of such provisions to such local officer or officers.

Super-Sixes Prove Endurance In Cincinnati Races

First Place in the Free-for-All—Second, Seventh and Ninth Places in the 250-mile Sweepstakes made by Hudson Super-Six Specials

250 Miles---Average Speed 101 Miles Per Hour

Unlike other cars entered in the Memorial Day Races at Cincinnati, the Hudson Super-Six Specials were not designed as racing cars. They are the regular stock Super-Six Cars, with changes that increased their speed and made them more suitable for racing, but that have not altered their design.

All that was done to these cars could be done at nominal cost to anyone of the 36,000 Hudson Super-Six Cars now in use.

Not Built to Win—Built to Endure

There were many cars entered that were admittedly faster than the Hudson. But the speed a car shows for a few laps is not always an indication of what may be expected in a 250 Mile grind.

Hudsons are matched against the specially designed racing cars that they may prove their endurance. Whatever position they finish in is due to their ability to maintain a high speed without mechanical break down.

The Super-Six motors are 3½ by 5 inches in size, exactly the same size as the motors used in all Hudson Super-Six stock cars. Most of the racing cars in the sweepstakes event have larger motors than the Super-Sixes and the cars weigh from 500 to 700 pounds less than the Hudsons. Most of the cars entered bear names that are not known in the field of pleasure cars. They are built solely for the purpose of racing. Hudson racing cars are built to show Hudson engineers how to build better Hudsons.

What May Be Expected of Stock Super-Sixes

All tests made by Hudson Super-Six Cars indicate what may be expected of any Hudson Super-Six Stock Car.

Hudsons made their fine showings at Cincinnati by staying in the race when other and faster cars were compelled to drop out.

That is what you want of an automobile. You want a car that will not break down under stress of any service you will ever impose.

Of course, you are not buying a racing car. You will never want to drive 250 miles at a speed of 101 miles an hour. You won't ever want to cross the continent in record time, and then turn around and make the round trip in 10 days, 21 hours. That is what a 7-Passenger Hudson Super-Six did. And you don't want to drive 1,819 miles in 24 hours, as a stock Hudson Super-Six Chassis did when it broke the 24 hour record by 52%.

But you want a car that will keep going as long as you will ever want it to go. What the Hudson Super-Six has proved in endurance in speed trials and what was proved in the Cincinnati races by the Specials far excel in severity any test that anyone is ever likely to make.

Any car will run well for a time on city boulevards. Any car will show good speed for a time. But what the car will do under rough usage and what it will do in a grind equalling that of the speedway are indications of what it will do in years of service.

Don't think the Super-Six is a racing car. But racing cars must stand up under the hardest service. We are merely proving that the Hudson Super-Six is an enduring car. That it will meet every service task without disappointment or expense is what these tests prove.

You can get a Hudson Super-Six in seven different body types:

EMERSON MOTORS OFFICERS INDICTED

Three Other Concerns Also Accused of Using Mails in Stock-Jobbing Scheme.

COURT APPOINTS RECEIVER

Petitioners Allege Stock Was Sold with No Serious Intention of Manufacturing Autos.

Simultaneously with the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday against the Emerson Motors Company, Inc., the Federal Grand Jury indicted the company, three concerns that had been engaged in selling its stock, and fourteen individuals connected with them on a charge of having used the mails to defraud. The alleged misdeeds of the defendants, as set forth in the indictment, covers eighty-seven typewritten pages. It charges the officers of the Emerson Company with having organized the company for the sole purpose of selling stock, and it charges them and the other defendants with having by means of false representations sold more than $1,000,000 of the stock to the public.

Besides the Emerson Company, the concerns indicted are C. R. Berry & Co., Inc.; Robert P. Matches & Co., Inc., and H. B. Humphrey Company, Inc. The indicted individuals are Theodore A. Campbell, President of the Emerson Company; Robert Craig Hupp, Vice President and General Manager; George N. Campbell, Treasurer; Nicholas F. Wilson, Willis George Emerson, Henry B. Humphrey, George B. Gifford, William A. Morgan, Osborne E. Chaney, and Frank B. Sturken of the firm of O. E. Chaney & Co., stock brokers; William Loomis and Byron H. Riess of the brokerage firm of Loomis & Riess, Robert P. Matches; and William H. Stetson.

Concern Widely Advertised.

The Emerson Company was incorporated in Delaware early in 1916 with a capital of $10,000,000, of which $3,000,000 was preferred. In a statement issued by the company on Aug. 15, 1916, the cash assets were said to be $190,239 and the value of the company's plans, specifications, drawings, &c., were set at $6,909,000. In advertisements placed in 150 publications in the United States and Canada and in thousands of circulars distributed through the mails the company said that its plant in Long Island City was capable of turning out 20,000 automobiles a year which could be sold at $395 each, leaving a profit of $69 on each machine.

Three petitioners in bankruptcy, who had invested a total of about $900 in the shares of the concern, said in their petition that the scheme was conceived by Nicholas F. Wilson, Willis George Emerson, T. A. Campbell, R. C. Hupp, and others "simply as a stock jobbing scheme for the sole purpose and with the sole intent of disposing of a lot of stock upon the unsuspecting public for their own and individual financial benefit and with no serious intention of manufacturing automobiles."

Immediately after the incorporation of the company, the petition said, $3,000,000 of the stock was turned over to Emerson, Hupp, and Campbell and other officers of the company, and $2,700,000 of it was sold to underwriters for $470,000, and $3,000,000 of it was left in the hands of fifty members of an advisory board. That part turned over to underwriters was delivered first to Mr. Wilson, who gave his promissory note for the $470,000 with the understanding that he was to pay for the stock only as it was sold.

Then, the petition said, an extensive advertising campaign was started, that the whole attention of the company was given to this and practically none to the manufacture of automobiles. Part of the petition consists of a long circular which was widely distributed. It was dated Sept. 22, 1916, and was signed "T. A. Campbell, President." In part this circular said that orders for 60,000 "Emerson Fours," to be delivered in 1917, had already been received, that these orders had come without solicitation; and that the company contemplated erecting a four-story glass and concrete factory. Those who bought preferred stock were to receive as a bonus 50 per cent. of the common stock.

Told of 20 Per Cent. Dividends.

"I am absolutely confident," said the circular, "that the stock that you are to receive as a bonus under this offer will prove more valuable within a short time than the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock itself. Dividends of 20 per cent. per annum should make your common stock worth $20 per share, at least in the public market. On this basis you would be receiving an income of a little better than 17 per cent. per annum."

The petition estimates the total assets of the company to be not more than $100,000 and the liabilities about $500,000. The indictment recites the same charges, and says in addition that at a meeting of the Board of Directors on May 6, T. A. Campbell, as President, was voted a salary of $7,500 a year, and that it was to be increased later to $10,000, and that the same pay was to go to Hupp and George N. Campbell. It is charged that parts of the Ford cars were used by the company in the building of a number of cars for exhibition purposes.

Hupp is said to be an expert automobile man, and that some of his experiences in the West had turned out badly from a financial standpoint. Gifford has been for many years manager of the Standard Oil plant at Bayonne. His financial affairs have been in a bad way for some time. Judgments against him are on file in this county. Recently his salary was garnisheed by one of the judgment creditors.

Judge Manton appointed John R. Johnston, a lawyer, receiver of the company, and later Mr. Johnston and Lewis H. Moos, counsel for the petitioners in bankruptcy, started for Kingston, N. Y., where it was said the Emerson Company has considerable property. Shortly after the indictment was filed Wilson, T. A. Campbell, G. N. Campbell, and Matches appeared before Judge Mayer and were released on $10,000, $5,000, $2,500, and $5,000 bail, respectively. All of them and the corporations indicted entered pleas of "not guilty."

The auction began this morning, and so great was the public interest that the police were required to keep order among the crowd, of which 90 per cent. was women.

Two Arrested in Boston.

BOSTON, June 4.—Federal authorities in this city arrested today H. B. Humphrey and William A. Morgan under indictments in the Emerson Motors case. Arraigned before United States Commissioner William Hayes, they pleaded not guilty and each furnished $6,000 bail for a hearing on June 8. Humphrey is President of the H. B. Humphrey Company, advertising agents of this city. Morgan has offices in the financial district, where his business is described as "financial reports."

"The Will of the People and My Own Good Name"
G Washington

In Washington's Inaugural Message he promised to sustain "The Will of the People and My Own Good Name."

And so it is in the world of business. Commercial honor can successfully be built only on quality and personal good faith. By the "will of the people" and the name, Mr. Firestone has built an organization which stands for leadership.

Firestone

Stamped on every tire is a pledge of Most Miles per Dollar wherever motorists travel. On Firestone super-size Cord Tires it indicates the high-water mark of luxurious, efficient tire performance. Whatever the type or style of tire, the Firestone name is a pledge that it shall fulfill every demand of safety, easy riding and economy.

And this pledge is carried out by an organization of which 11,000 employes are partners in the business, personally interested in serving "the will of the people."

YANKEES AND GIANTS ARE VICTORIOUS, BUT DEFEAT IS ROBINS' FARE

YANKEES SAVE DAY WITH TARDY RALLY

Crowd Already Departing in the Ninth When Three Runs Come In and Beat Tigers, 6 to 5.

HIGH CELEBRATES RETURN

Hughey High got back into the game for the Yankees yesterday, and he was the white-haired lad who delivered the vital punch in a seething ninth-inning rally, which carried the Yanks to a 6-to-5 whirlwind finish over the Detroit Tigers. Hughey cracked a hot single just out of Doney Bush's reach at short, and Slim Caldwell romped home with the winning run.

The biggest washday gathering of the season was rudely awakened from its slumbers just at a time when the Yanks looked hopelessly beaten. After Harry Heilman chased George Mogridge out of the game with a home-run wallop into the left-field bleachers in the sixth inning, it looked very much as if the Tigers had the game put away in mothballs by a 5-to-2 score. The Detroits believed it implicitly, and that's just where they made the mistake of calculating their pullets before they came from the incubator.

Manager Bill Donovan got up on his high horse and was put out of the game in the second inning. Bill has this satisfaction, anyway—it took three umpires to put him out, McCormick, Connolly, and Nallin, all working in yesterday's pastime. With only two umpires on the job, Wild Bill has rarely been disturbed, but when he discovered a decision which he considered unquestionably bad, he opened up his oratorical guns on the whole crowd of indicator holders.

Bill had a large bat in his hand when he approached Umpire Tommy Connolly, and for a second Tommy looked behind him to see just how far he would have to run to make the gate in right field. Donovan swung the bat like a cave man waves his club, and then let 'er go. It traveled in the direction of the bench, however, and not toward Connolly's head.

The rumpus came about thusly: Peckinpaugh dropped a bunt down the third-base line, and Oscar Vitt scooped it up as a foul ball before it got through rolling. The umpires called it foul, while Bill maintained that Vitt should have waited until it was through rolling.

President Ban Johnson sat in a box, and a number of remarks reached his ears which unquestionably gave him to understand that New York people have a somewhat different opinion of his umpires than he holds himself.

Baker Starts Things.

Ehmke, one of the latest editions of Detroit twirling talent, was in the box for the Tigers when the Yanks fell upon him in the second. After Pipp had fanned, Frank Baker crashed a double to left, and scored when Tim Hendryx banged a double to the same territory. Peck then negotiated the bunt along the third-base line which aroused all of Wild Bill's wrath and for which Bill was exiled to outer darkness.

When the roller was declared a foul Peck smashed an infield hit to deep short just to get even. This slap sent Hendryx to third. The Yanks then worked a squeeze, Hendryx rushing home as Nunamaker sent a roller to Ehmke and died at first. Peckinpaugh tried to hotfoot his way around to third, but he was neatly nipped at that station, Burns to Vitt.

Detroit got its first run in the fourth. Pep Young opened with a double to centre, and went to third as Tyrus Cobb was thrown out at first by Mogridge. Veach then waited for a pass, the fourth ball being a lurid, wild affair which rolled away from Nunamaker so far that Young scored.

The Tigers made life miserable for Mogridge in the sixth and drove him from the game. Bush got a hit to third and Young got a bit of a single to short right, sending Bush to second. Cobb rapped a single to centre, scoring Bush, while Young pulled up at third. Veach hoisted a sacrifice fly to Magee, scoring Young. Heilman then hammered a home run among the crowd in the left-field steerage, sending Cobb home ahead of him. That was the end of Mogridge, and Slim Love, the Eiffel Tower of the Yanks' pitching staff, fell into the breach. Love was on the job from the start, and he fanned Burns, while Vitt died at first.

Tigers Begin to Crack.

The Detroit works began to crack in the eighth. With two out, Magee was safe on Bush's error, and High was hit by a pitched ball. The crowd warmed up a bit at this turn of affairs and began to entertain faint hopes, but their optimism didn't get very far when the Yanks coined only one run. Fritz Maisel ripped a single to centre, scoring Magee, while Cobb returned the ball to third to head off High. Vitt failed to stop the ball at the bag, and High was about to scoot home, but he turned back in time to save his skin as Vitt recovered the ball with remarkable promptness.

This rocky inning sort of threw Ehmke off his equilibrium, and he had not recovered when the Yankees came to the bat in the last half of the ninth. The folks were filing out of the gates, taking it for granted that the game was over and that the Yanks were beaten. There was a general rush back to the seats, however, when Baker opened the session with a safe blow to right, and went to third as Tim Hendryx also cudgeled a timely double. Peck got a hit down past third, scoring Baker and sending Hendryx to third.

Nunamaker lofted a sacrifice fly to Cobb, sending Hendryx home with the run which tied up the count at 5 to 5. Caldwell was then sent in to pinch hit for Love, and rapped a sizzler to Bush, who gathered the ball with one hand and forced Peckinpaugh at second. Magee then came to the rescue, and his single to left sent Caldwell to second. Carroll Jones then succeeded Ehmke.

This put the situation plainly up to Hughey High. The little left fielder waited until he got three balls and two strikes, and then pickled the ball down through short just out of Bush's reach. Caldwell scampered home with the winning run. The score:

M'GRAWITES WIELD BATS WITH A WILL

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—The Giants closed a very pleasant call at the metropolis of Missouri today. This afternoon's 5 to 3 victory was as sugar upon the sour of yesterday's defeat. Not only did they batter two Cardinal pitchers from here to there, but Messrs. Fletcher, Herzog, and Holke were all over the place defending the honor of the clan McGraw.

Every now and then Midget Huggins's crew would stick their heads up and dispute the right to McGraw's place in the sun, and Mr. Herzog, or Mr. Fletcher, or Mr. Holke would batter them down below hatches with a double play or a brilliant stop, or something like that.

George Burns made merry with the St. Louis home folks and saddened the heart of Bobbie Steele right in the first round. With the count three and two George clouted a groove ball to the flagpole for the circuit. If the wind had not been against it persons three blocks away would have had their windows broken.

The Cards became sassy in their half when J. Smith opened with a single, but Herzog grabbed a two-base liner off Gonzales's bat and doubled Smith. Herzog went two feet in the air for the ball as it sizzled over his head. It was something of a play, and quieted a St. Louis grand stand and bleacher demonstration.

In the next frame Holke did much the same thing. After Hornsby had almost murdered Mr. Anderson with a drive that bounced off his chest toward third base, Holke picked Cruise's terrific smash as it started over the bag for a triple to right. He turned and made a perfect throw to Fletcher, and Hornsby was out as he came in feet first. Another great double play! The next man up, Long, drove a home run to the left field fence near the foul line.

Then came the fourth and the ball game. The Cards kindly aided and abetted the New Yorkers. Fletcher opened with a single and Kauff and Holke popped out. Rariden sent Fletcher to second with a clean drive to left. Brother Anderson, who made five hits all of last year, proceeded to single over third and bring Fletcher home.

It looked like quite a party. Burns kept up the entertainment with a drive over third and Cruise threw for the plate to block Rariden, who was coming into third. Snyder threw wild to F. Smith as Rariden reached the bag, and Rariden scored. F. Smith made a wild throw to third in an effort to get Burns there, and George was safe. Herzog rolled to Watson.

Robertson was safe when Cruise failed to hold his fly. The official scorer gave Cruise an error, but Bobby should have had a two-base hit. The St. Louis left fielder went to the foul line for the ball, which was carried by a high wind. Watson threw past Gonzales as Heinie Zim beat out a smash to the box and Robertson scored. Watson then proceeded to fan Fletcher and was taken out in favor of Packard, the only case of the kind on record.

St. Louis threatened seriously in the ninth, but Anderson pitched himself out of a tight hole. With Hornsby gone, Cruise tripled to deep right centre. Long walked and stole second, according to Umpire Orth. Al might have called it either way. Herzog and Fletcher kicked until they were black in the face, but it did no good.

It looked bad for the folks along the Hudson with Frank Snyder up and with tying runs on the sacks. With the count 2 and 2, Anderson made Snyder fish for a wide high curve on the outside and there was nobody left but Fred Smith, who lifted high to Robertson in right. The score:

ROBINS TROUNCED AGAIN.

Mann's Home-Run Habit Upsets the Dodgers and Wins for the Cubs.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Another fourth-inning rally and another timely home-run wallop by Mann gave the Cubs their third straight victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today. The figures were 4 to 2.

Larry Cheney was the victim of this latest fourth-round blowoff, the same session ending Brooklyn's hopes in Sunday's pastime. The Cubs were one run behind when the stanza opened, for they had only nicked one hit off Cheney up to this time. A walk to Doyle started them on their way, and a sacrifice and wild pitch moved Doyle to third. Cy Williams's single scored him. Then Mann connected solidly, and the leather sailed into the left field bleachers for a homer. This clinched the mill, but to make things sure Mann scored again in the sixth after opening with a double.

Stengle's double and Wheat's triple in the fourth brought the Robins a run, and singles by Olson and Daubert and a double by Hickman in the sixth added their other tally. The next three batsmen went out, two on strikes and the third on a pop-up to short field.

Brooklyn used three pitchers during the fracas, Cheney being retired at the close of the fourth after the lacing he got. Dell got out in the seventh, when big Chief Meyers was sent in as a pinch hitter, and Marquard finished up the game. Vaughn was hit hard, but tightened up sufficiently in several pinches in time to save himself. But seven hits were charged against him, while the Cubs pounded out eight. The score:

BONHAG MAY GET NO RECORD

His Style in His Sensational Mile May Prove Bar to That Honor.

George Bonhag's sensational mile walk at Travers Island on Saturday in 6:28 3-5 will not be allowed as a new American record. This, at least was the attitude at the local A. A. U. headquarters where it was said that while Bonhag will probably receive first prize for the walk, there is little likelihood that his time will be accepted by the record committee which meets in November.

It was generally conceded that inasmuch as Dan Stern, judge of the event, had passed Bonhag's style without disqualifying him, there was no way that the veteran athlete could be deprived of his prize. With the record, however, it was a different matter, and its recognition may depend on Bonhag's future performances in competitions.

It developed that there was no member of the A. A. U. record committee at Travers Island on Saturday, although there were several members of the metropolitan committee, on the ground who condemned Bonhag's style as illegal, as did President Fred. W. Rubien of the Metropolitan Association.

LETSON BEATEN ON COURT.

Bows to Von Bernuth, 7-5, 9-7, in N. Y. L. T. C. Tourney.

The feature of yesterday's play in the New York Lawn Tennis Clubs tennis tournament was the defeat of Benjamin Letson by Anton S. Von Bernuth, a player of about equal age, who conquered the Fordham collegian at 7—5, 9—7. This is the hardest fought match that the tournament has called forth, and furthermore it held quite an element of surprise, for Letson would ordinarily be a favorite over Von Bernuth. By his victory Von Bernuth advanced to the fourth round in company with H. Bassford.

A match of particular interest is scheduled for this afternoon, when Harold Throckmorton will play Frederick B. Alexander in an exhibition contest.

The summaries:

SINGLES.—First Round—Walter Fischer won from A. Bassford, Jr., by default; Allan Behr won from A. R. Salambier by default; Ingo Hartman won from Harold Taylor by default; H. Fleming won from F. G. Porter by default.

Second Round—Allan Behr defeated Walter Fischer, 6—2, 6—2; S. Howard Voshell won from George Walker, Jr., by default; S. Pianisani won from Ingo Hartman by default; Henry Bassford defeated H. Fleming, 6—0, 6—1.

Third Round—H. Bassford defeated B. Lipschutz, 6—2, 6—1; A. S. Von Bernuth defeated Benjamin Letson, 7—5, 9—7.

LORD D'ABERNON IN LEAD.

Tops List of English Turf Owners, with Winnings of $21,000.

Statistics of the English turf for this season up to date show that Lord D'Abernon claims first place in the owners' list with winnings of the total value of $21,000 brought about by Diadem's victory of the One Thousand Guineas. Mr. Fairie comes next with $20,000, due to his capturing the Two Thousand. The only other owner to get into four figures is Lord Derby—who has made such a fine fight on behalf of the sport—who has won three events of the total value of $7,800.

Lord Derby's trainer, the Honorable George Lambton, heads the list of trainers, having won five races, worth in all nearly $30,000. Alec Taylor is second, his one winner, Gay Crusader, crediting him with $20,000. Leach is third with total winnings of $8,750. Lord D'Abernon and Mr. Fairie fill the two first places in the breeders' table, Lord Derby coming third, while Sir M. Fitzgerald is fourth with $5,735.

Robins to Have No Rival.

President Ban Johnson of the American League yesterday denied that the American League was considering a plan to transfer the Washington Club to Brooklyn. The American League head stated that the organization would not entertain any such change for sentimental reasons alone. The league would be willing to sustain a loss in order to have the national game played at the nation's capital. Mr. Johnson said that this same story came up some time ago, but that the league had never considered moving the club from Washington.

FAVORITES BEATEN AT BELMONT PARK

Belle of Bryn Mawr Wins International Steeplechase in a Sensational Finish.

There were more pitfalls than usual at Belmont Park races yesterday. In the opening event at six furlongs the public choice, Gifford A. Cochran's Fairy Wand, got home in front after a stirring struggle, but thereafter the favorites fell by the wayside until in the final dash for two-year-olds Grant Hugh Browne's Winsomvera completed the rout of the backers by poking his nose in front of two well played horses.

The run of surprises started with the International Steeplechase, for which the Greentree Stable's Cherry Malotte, was favorite. Unlike most of the races run through the field this season the International was a hustling affair from start to finish and on rounding the bend into the stretch all six horses standing appeared to have a chance to win. Then as Cherry Malotte tired under her heavy impost, W. A. Prince's Belle of Bryn Mawr shot to the front going over the last jump, and had speed enough to beat Robert Oliver by five lengths. Cherry Malotte hung on to take third money.

The Plattsdale Handicap at a mile was the feature of the flat races. Whimsy, the favorite, led nearly all the way and stood off challenges from Pickwick and Sam McMeekin in the stretch. In the last sixteenth McAtee brought up Air Man on the outside in time to place a second victory to the credit of Gifford A. Cochran.

Willie Knapp rode his first winner since his return to the saddle when he landed Favour in front of Wild Thyme in the third race. His riding skill also was responsible for the victory of Winsomvera in the last race.

LEONARD HAS EASY TIME.

New Lightweight Champion Toys with Joe Welsh.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 4.—Benny Leonard, the world's new lightweight champion, simply toyed with Joe Welsh of this city in six rounds at Olympia A. A. tonight. In fact, he gave the ambitious Philadelphian a real boxing lesson. Several times Welsh was on the verge of a knockout, but his shiftiness in using his feet coupled with Leonard's desire to save his hands saved him that ignominy.

It was announced that Leonard would enlist in the navy and tonight's contest was his final ring appearance before fighting for Uncle Sam.

Leonard thrilled 6,000 fans. He boxed like a real champion, hit Welsh almost at will with either hand, and gave a remarkable exhibition of free hitting, skillful ducking, and a defense which Welsh failed to penetrate. The men were matched at 140 pounds, and both were under that limit. The Philadelphian was careful. He had a wholesome respect for Leonard's leads and counters. He took no chances in the first round. He let Leonard do the leading, while he boxed on the defensive.

Welsh kept his guard high and Leonard's jabs failed to do much damage. In the second Welsh opened up, and it was nearly his undoing. Leonard jolted him on the jaw with his left and shot his right for the body. Each blow he landed stung, and he had Welsh doing footwork around the ring. It was only a question of keeping his jaw out of the danger zone.

He succeeded until the sixth round. Then Leonard cut loose. He rained lefts and rights to Welsh's jaw, and had the latter in bad shape at the finish. In fact he dropped into his chair when the final bell rang in a groggy condition.

MORRIS TROUNCES MORAN.

Whatever ability Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, had to entitle him to serious consideration as a potential opponent for Jess Willard, the world's champion, seems to have left him. This was clearly demonstrated last night when the blonde Pittsburgher clashed for ten rounds with Carl Morris, the big Sapulpa (Okla.) heavyweight, at the Harlem S. C. In nine of the ten rounds Morris garnered the honors, although the fighting Irishman was always in it and always dangerous for the entire journey.

The other round, the fifth, went to Moran, for it was in this session only that the Pittsburgher showed any signs of effectiveness. The contest was a fairly interesting one for a heavyweight match. Both boxers, with little of science in their make-ups, were swinging and cuffing each other all the way. Moran, although badly beaten and punished about the body and face, grimly smiled through his swollen face at the end, as if conceding the other boxer's superiority.

Moran showed nothing but gameness and courage in the face of a stinging attack. Although buffeted about continually by the big Oklahoma heavyweight, the Pittsburgher always was willing to mix, and came up smiling grimly after each exchange. Throughout Morris made the fighting to his own liking, and displayed the better ability at leading and then following the lead through, and at close quarters he plied his blows frequently and with effect. For the entire nine rounds Morris was on top of Moran all the time, belaboring him with heavy right and left hand blows to the face and body alternately, and frequently sending Moran's head back on his shoulders with stiff uppercuts. Try as he might, however, Morris was unsuccessful in his efforts for a knockout blow.

In the fifth session Moran staggered Morris several times with his famous "Mary Ann"—a right to the jaw—but failed to follow his advantage because of his shortness of breath. The weights were: Moran, 199 pounds; Morris, 224 pounds.

SMALL ENTRY FOR MEET.

Enlistments Reduce Starters in Big Nine Event to 172.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Enlistments for military service have thinned the ranks of athletes in the Big Nine. Entries announced today for the seventeenth annual outdoor meet of the Western Conference, to be held at the University of Chicago next Saturday, contain only 172 starters, fewer than one-half the number that contested in the classic a year ago.

Neither the University of Minnesota nor of Wisconsin will be represented this year, athletics at those institutions having been abandoned until the end of the war. The rest of the Big Nine universities—Illinois, Chicago, Ohio State, Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana, and Iowa—have entered teams, however. Other institutions to exhibit colors will be the Universities of Notre Dame, Oberlin, and Michigan Agricultural.

MRS. CANDEE BEATS MISS WINN AT NET

Two Rounds of Singles Ended in Women's Tennis Competition at Staten Island.

The scene of tennis competition for women of the metropolitan section shifted yesterday to the Staten Island Ladies' Club at Livingston, S. I., when a representative entry began play in what would under normal conditions be the women's Middle States championship. This event is usually contested at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club, but it could not hold the tournament this year because of a change in the location of the club. The new courts are not in shape as yet for tournament competition, and the annual fixture temporarily swung across the bay to the Staten Island club.

The first and second rounds of the singles event were completed yesterday. In the record of play, probably the most notable victory was that of Mrs. De Forest Candee over Miss Caroma Winn with the score at 4—6, 6—2, 6—0. As the record indicated, Miss Winn was strongest in the first set. After achieving victory then, her game escaped control, and she could not combat successfully against Mrs. Candee's steadiness. Another of the better known players who fell by the wayside was Miss Florence Ballin. She had to acknowledge the superiority of Miss Bessie Holden, with the score 6—3, 6—2. Miss Helen Gilleaudeau forced Mrs. Robert Le Roy out of the tournament in a second-round match, which was won by the former Barnard collegian at 6—1, 6—3.

The summaries:

Singles.—First Round—Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer defeated Mrs. S. W. McAneny, 6—2, 6—4; Mrs. H. T. Hartwell won from Miss E. Gott by default; Miss Ethel Tyndale defeated Mrs. A. G. Deane, 6—1, 6—3; Mrs. Fred Damrau won from Mrs. M. B. Huff by default; Miss Helen Gilleaudeau defeated Miss M. A. Irving, 6—2, 6—4; Mrs. Robert Le Roy defeated Mrs. David C. Mills, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. L. Manheimer defeated Miss Abbie Morrison, 0—6, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Isabel Robinson won from Miss Gertrude Della Torre by default; Mrs. C. V. Hitchins defeated Miss A. Boody, 6—4, 6—2; Miss E. White won from Mrs. Ingo Hartman by default; Miss Elizabeth Irving defeated Mrs. A. G. Bailey, 6—4, 6—4; Miss Helene Pollak defeated Miss Edith Handy, 6—4, 2—6, 6—3.

Second Round—Miss Bessie Holden defeated Miss Florence Ballin, 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer defeated Mrs. H. T. Hartwell, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Ethel Tyndale defeated Mrs. F. Damrau, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Helen Gilleaudeau defeated Mrs. Robert Le Roy, 6—1, 6—3; Mrs. L. Manheimer defeated Miss Isabel Robinson, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. C. V. Hitchins defeated Miss Ethel White, 6—0, 6—3; Miss Helene Pollak defeated Miss Elizabeth Irving, 6—3, 6—0; Mrs. De Forest Candee defeated Miss Caroma Winn, 4—6, 6—2, 6—0.

MEDICAL MEN FACE THE NEEDS OF WAR

12,000 MAY BE USED SOON

Council on Health Reports That Alcohol Has No Drug Value Either as Tonic or Stimulant.

The sixty-eighth annual session of the American Medical Association, which is expected to be the best attended and most important gathering in the association's history, began in this city yesterday and will continue through Friday. More than 2,000 medical men from all over the country, including the country's leading physicians and surgeons, registered at the Hotel Astor, where the general headquarters are, and it was predicted that the total registration would reach 8,000. Many of the members will not arrive before Wednesday, when the meetings of the various sections of the association begin. The only meetings yesterday were of the House of Delegates, which is the congress or legislative body of the association, and of various medical and other scientific organizations attracted to the city by the presence of the association. There were clinical sessions in practically every hospital in the city yesterday morning and afternoon, and these will be continued today.

The interest of the doctors in the war was manifesed at the meeting of the House of Delegates at the Academy of Medicine, 17 West Forty-third Street. Dr. Rupert Blue, President of the association said in his opening address that his policy had been to bring the organized medical profession into co-operation with the Federal Government, and that a committee from the association had been working with medical officers of the army and navy to this end. In the last two months, he said, the names and residences of 140,000 registered physicians and surgeons and general information concerning them had been collected by the association's committee and turned over to the Government. These records, he added, were practically the only material available for mobilizing the medical talent of the country. Dr. Frederick R. Green of Chicago, Secretary of the Council on Health and Public Instruction, one of the most important committees of the House, in an interview following General Blue's address, emphasized the value of the material provided by the association for the Government and showed something of the part that the medical profession would play in the country's naval and military activity.

"The need for doctors in the army and navy will be tremendous," said Dr. Green. "It has been estimated that from 8,000 to 12,000 trained medical men will be required in the near future, and these will be drawn from the 140,000 registered physicians and surgeons whose names have been gathered by the association. Most of them will come from among the 81,501 members of the association. I am confident that the Government will have no trouble in obtaining all the medical assistance it needs, because the doctors are as patriotic as any class of men. The first big demand for doctors will come when the mobilization of the army of 500,000 men is begun. To raise this army it will probably be necessary to put 1,500,000 through physical examinations. Then when the 500,000 selected soldiers go into camp thousands of doctors will be needed to attend them. According to prevailing opinion, at least seven doctors are needed for every 1,000 men in active service, so the army of 500,000 would require a minimum of 3,500 as soon as it is organized."

Alcohol Only Preservative.

The report of the Council on Health and Public Instruction, which was read by Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, the Chairman, introduced a resolution unanimously adopted by the council, in which was expressed the opinion that alcohol had no drug value, either as a tonic or a stimulant, that it had no value in the treatment of disease, and that its only legitimate use in medicine was as a preservative, and in the preparation of certain pharmaceutical products. The resolution was referred to a committee which is expected to report it to the House of Delegates for action today.

The Committee on Red Cross Work, in its report, recommended as "extremely important" that "all county medical societies that have not yet organized Committees on Red Cross Medical Work do so at the earliest possible moment, so that they may participate in the patriotic duties expected to be performed by the medical profession in all parts of the country." The committee also reported that the experience of European countries had "shown the unwisdom of medical students enlisting in line or sanitary organizations, thereby interrupting their medical education and depleting the ranks of future medical officers."

"A similar tendency has been noted in this country," the report continued, "and in order to guard against a possible shortage the Medical Board of the Council of National Defense on April 23 declared it to be the patriotic duty of even pre-medical students to remain under instruction until the country can avail itself of their trained services."

The Committee on Social Insurance, after reviewing health insurance, old age pensions and the administration of laws providing for them, and making the point that social insurance was not designed to abolish poverty, but to protect poor people from destitution, submitted the following resolutions, which will probably be acted upon by the House of Delegates today:

> Resolved, That the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association, in the interests of both the wage-earners and the medical profession, authorize its Council on Health and Public Instruction to continue to study and to make reports on the future development of social insurance legislation and to co-operate, when possible, in the molding of these laws that the health of the community may be properly safeguarded and the interests of the medical profession protected; and be it further
> Resolved, That the House of Delegates instruct its Council on Health and Public Instruction to insist that such legislation shall provide for freedom of choice of physician by the insured; payment of the physician in proportion to the amount of work done; the separation of the functions of medical official supervision from the function of daily care of the sick, and adequate representation of the medical profession on the appropriate administrative bodies.

Many advances in medical and surgical science were demonstrated at the clinics attended by the visiting doctors yesterday, but no announcements for the public were made. One interesting demonstration was by Dr. J. Hubley Schall at the Cumberland Street Hospital, in Brooklyn, where a new antiseptic solution, a sodium hyperchlorite, was used in a number of operations on the brain, abdomen and limbs of patients. In a paper read at the operations, Dr. Schall said that the solution was developed by Professor Oscar Eckstein of the University of Berlin, Dr. W. G. Frailick and himself, and that its germicidal and nontoxic properties made it superior to the chlorate of lime solution, known as the Carrel-Dakin antiseptic, which had proven of such great value in the treatment of wounds abroad. Scientific and commercial exhibits at the Hotel Astor were attended by many of the members of the association.

Medical Editors Meet.

One of the gatherings occasioned by the convention of the association was that of the American Medical Editors' Association, which began its forty-eighth annual meeting yesterday at the Hotel McAlpin. The meeting was patriotic in character. About the first business of the members was to vote that the balance in the treasury, said to be considerable, be converted into Liberty bonds. Following this, the medical editors pledged themselves to devote all necessary space in their periodicals to raising recruits for the medical branch of military service.

The American Academy of Medicine began its forty-second annual meeting yesterday and last night at the Biltmore Hotel. A number of papers treating various aspects of civilization in relation to disease were read, and all of them stressed the importance of living conditions upon the health of populations. Another meeting of the academy will be held in the same place today.

Offer Radium to Government.

Members of the American Radium Society held a dinner at the Hotel Vanderbilt last night, at which Dr. W. H. Cameron of Pittsburgh announced that the organization is ready to hand over to the Government radium worth more than $50,000 for use in military surgery. The guest of honor was Colonel Charles Richards, ranking medical officer of the Department of the East. The subject of several talks was the value of radium in military surgery.

ADVERTISERS' DUTY IN WAR.

Can Make Cause of Democracy Triumphant, Says Louis W. Hill.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Advertisers have before them a great opportunity to "demonstrate the power of enlightened publicity in the cause of freedom and democracy," in the opinion of Louis W. Hill, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Great Northern Railway, as expressed in a paper read this morning before the annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. Mr. Hill was not present. His address was read.

"Turn the power of advertising loose on the problem of floating our great war loans," said Mr. Hill, "on the problems of agricultural and manufactured production. Do it and the cause of democracy is safe and triumphant. This country has its most tremendous tasks to do. But if American business cannot weather such a shock and come back stronger than ever it is a pretty quality of business.

"In business as usual—only more so—lies the welfare of the nation. What the country needs is not only people who will get down on their knees and pray for their native land if necessary, but people who will get up on their feet and work and fight for it."

Herbert S. Houston of New York, President of the Associated Advertising Clubs, said in his annual address that the business world today challenged advertising as to the character and cost of its service.

"If advertising is unable to meet that challenge," said Mr. Houston, "it cannot survive. Unless advertising can justify itself as the most efficient and economical force in distributing, it will be supplanted by some other force."

Festus J. Wade, President of the Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis, told the convention today that a campaign to raise $100,000,000 for the relief of the starving people of Europe would begin Tuesday with the aid of the advertising men, and that it was the intention of the promoters to raise the money in three weeks.

Walter B. Cherry of New York, addressing the church advertising department, said the church had not taken full advantage of its advertising opportunities.

The afternoon session was given over to departmental meetings. Tonight an illuminated parade of fifty floats passed through the downtown streets.

GLOBE THEATRE FILMS BURN

In a rush to get to a fire at the Globe Theatre in Times Square yesterday afternoon, two fire engines ran so close together in Forty-sixth Street that Henry Lein, a fireman of 425 West Forty-third Street, was unable to get out of the way. He was run down and suffered a fracture of the right ankle.

Although the fire was confined to the projection room of the theatre, where about 2,000 feet of film burned, so large a crowd was stracted that police reserves were called out. About 100 persons were in the theatre, but they were ushered out before they knew there was a fire. The damage was slight.

Conroy and Le Maire, an amusing team of blackface artists, returned yesterday to the Palace Theatre, where they have added to the good humor of audiences on many other occasions. They are still presenting the skit they first offered in a short-lived revue several seasons ago, which is built around the automobile of a million jokes. The sketch embraces a number of these, and as a great many persons in every audience are intimately acquainted with the cars and the jokes, the comedians always find appreciative auditors. The bill includes other Palace favorites—Florence Moore and her brother, Frank; Harry Carroll, who sings his own songs, and Julia Arthur, held over from last week in her patriotic spectacle.

TEUTON OPERA BOYCOTT EFFECTIVE AGAINST US

AMSTERDAM, June 4, (via London.)—The largely attended general meeting of the German Stage Society at Berlin on Saturday passed, without a dissenting vote, the proposal of Count von Seebach, director of the Dresden Court Theatre, binding the members to grant no contractual or ex-contractual leave of absence to singers wishing to go to America and not to engage for five years any German singer who accepts an American engagement. Those present included the directors of the Schiller and Kleine Theatres and the German Opera House of Berlin and the directors of the Court Theatres at Vienna, Stuttgart, Cassel, Wiesbaden, Hamburg, Leipsic, Breslau, Bremerhaven, and Düsseldorf.

Count von Seebach declared that his proposal had nothing to do with the war, but was a measure of self-defense and self-preservation. He said it was intolerable that artists who had been carefully trained by German tutors and supported by the German public and press should, just at the moment of maturity, make themselves over body and soul to an American contractor, to return after some years spent abroad, but so much more conceited. He continued:

"Artists will have to choose between America and Germany. Nothing need be feared from the proposal for German influence, for where is that influence now? It is in vain to desire to win Americans with civilities and sentimentalities."

According to the Kreuz-Zeitung, Count von Seebach further expressed the opinion that German-Americans were, first of all, Americans. After the meeting it was announced that henceforward artists who wished to go on a starring tour abroad would have to obtain the consent of the Foreign Office, where Dr. Eger, manager of the Court Theatre at Darmstadt, has been appointed artistic adviser to deal with this question.

Despite the practical unanimity with which Count von Seebach's proposal was passed, the Vossische Zeitung considers the proposition an abortive one. The paper says:

"Apart from objections in principle arising from the international character of art, the proposal is not feasible. It will cause great dissatisfaction among members of the profession, and the leading lights will disregard it. On the other hand, ways and means will be found to make possible performances by boycotted artists in Germany, as promising profitable business. If the resolution is carried out, contrary to all expectations, it is the public who will suffer by having to renounce entirely hearing the big stars who will be attracted to the dollar countries."

The resolution becomes effective at once. At the expiration of the five-year term offending members may be reinstated. Artists who made contracts in the United States before June 2 are not affected.

Of the German artists at the Metropolitan Opera House, Mmes. Hempel, Ober, Kurt, Matzenauer, and Messrs. Sembach, Leonhardt, Goritz, and Braun, are under contracts for a term of years, and are not likely to need engagements in Germany at present. Paul Bender, a baritone, engaged for America before the war, has not yet been able to reach here. Herman Weil, who got over, is uncertain as to another year. Albert Reiss and others took out first papers to become American citizens before this country joined the Allies.

The tempest in the opera teapot over artists breaking German contracts in order to grow rich on America's star salaries is one of long standing. Carl Burrian, when he went back was barred an engagement by most of the German and Austrian managers, and took a job as tenor in Budapest. The famous Lilli Lehmann, when confronted by a similar threat, calmly asked how much she must pay as a fine, and promptly made up the sum—over $3,000—in a single festival appearance in Milwaukee.

MME. YORSKA ACTS 'JENNY.'

French Actress Gives an American Play for Actors' Fund.

Mme. Blanche Yorska, the French actress who was one of the founders of the first local Théâtre Français, presented a drama entitled "Jenny" at a special performance yesterday afternoon at the Comedy. It was Mme. Yorska's first appearance in this city in an English-speaking rôle, although she had acted the part once in St. Louis.

The actress made a curtain speech that was wholly disarming. She said the men and women of the American theatre had treated her with such kindness since her début here that she had determined to reciprocate by giving a performance of a play by an American author for the Actors' Fund. The author, she said, was Algernon Boysen, a young American who enlisted early in the war in the French air service, of which he is still a member. He was only 24 years old when he wrote the play, and so its shortcomings should be overlooked.

Not Mr. Boysen's youth but the idealism that caused him to offer his services before his country joined the war, saves him from having pointed out to him how youthful and inept his play really is, while the fact that Mme. Yorska's intentions were charitable is the mantle that protects her from learning the truth about her own performance and the presentation as a whole. But while charity suffereth long and is kind it cannot possibly be stretched to cover a second performance, if one should be contemplated.

PLEA TO PASS SOCIALISTS.

A. W. Ricker Tells Wilson Americans Should Support Russia.

A. W. Ricker, publisher of Pearson's Magazine, and former editor of The Appeal to Reason, has written to President Wilson asking him to permit the sending of American delegates to the Stockholm conference on the ground that "no American Socialist of my acquaintance is in favor of a separate peace; that would but increase our own problem as a nation at war with Germany." He fears, however, the effect on democrats if the impression is allowed to get abroad that America is fighting to enable England to get Germany's colonies. Mr. Ricker's letter, which is dated June 1, reads in part as follows:

> You cannot be unmindful of the importance of the Russian revolution nor of the fact that the attitude of Russia has brought into sharp distinction two war programs diametrically opposed, viz., that of England and of Russia. Russia is now a democracy—England an empire of subjugated nationalities the economic basis of which is commercial exploitation. The historic antagonism toward Great Britain deeply imbedded in the consciousness of the American people will manifest itself in violent opposition if it becomes apparent that this country has joined hands with Great Britain rather than with Russia.
> We want peace for no one country until there is peace for all countries at war. If peace cannot be brought about by the Socialists, it then can come only at the point of the bayonet and after the loss of the lives of millions of men. A proffer of honorable peace terms by the Socialists will make manifest what nation is most unwilling to consider peace, and for that nation the world will hold no sympathy.

"It ought to be made clear," said Mr. Ricker, "that we are associated with Russia and supporting the Russian program.

"The position of the leaders of the American Socialist Party has been much misunderstood, I think. The radical anti-war program adopted at the St. Louis convention was, in my opinion, a mistake, but it represented the natural violent reaction of pacifists thrown suddenly into war. As far as its actual tendency was concerned it might as well have been drawn up in Berlin. Its eventual result, if it were carried out, would lead the United States to do exactly what the German autocracy wants it to do. But the leaders, I am convinced, were entirely free from any pro-German purpose."

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JUNE 5, 1917.

PATRIOTS' DAY.

The outlook for Registration Day is encouraging. The Government expects a prompt and loyal response to its summons. Care will be taken in all parts of the country to guard against possible interference with the registration by weak-minded pacifists and crafty agents of the enemy. In this city the precautions will be thorough. About 600,000 registrations are expected here, and there are more than 2,000 registering stations. Of the 600,000 not more than 30,000 will be drafted in the national army within a year or more. There will probably be fewer than 15,000 of them in the first increment. It is well for every man to remember that positive proof of his exemption from military service does not render him exempt from registration. All men born between June 6, 1886, and June 5, 1896, inclusive, must register, whether they are citizens or aliens.

The spirit of this day was aptly expressed yesterday by FRANKLIN K. LANE, Secretary of the Interior, in a speech delivered at Washington. As an appeal to the reason of the comparatively few who have not yet comprehended the call of the nation to arms, Secretary LANE answered again that question so often asked, so often satisfactorily answered, Why are we at war? "Ours," he said, "is a war "of self-defense. * * * We could "not keep out. * * * It is a war "to save America, to preserve self-"respect, to justify our right to live "as we have lived, not as some one "else wishes us to live. In the name "of Freedom we challenge with ships "and men, money, and an undaunted "spirit that word 'Verboten' which "Germany has written upon the sea "and land."

For self-defense, to save America, to preserve our national self-respect, 10,000,000 Americans will register their names today, prepared to respond hereafter to any call for service the nation may make. They have already volunteered. The whole nation has volunteered. "Feudalism," says Mr. LANE, "is making its last stand against democracy." We are resolved to overthrow feudalism for all time.

TAXATION AND CONSCRIPTION.

Secretary McADOO's Liberty Loan address is timed for registration day and is phrased so as to emphasize to men of property the fact that the Government's domain over them is as peremptory as over the gallant young fellows who are subject to selective draft. For the present, selection of the manner in which property shall bear the war burden is left to property itself. The difference between the selective draft of property and personal service is less than it appears. In its own interest the Government will temper the draft of personal service to those who must render it. The men who are taken will be put to the task for which they are most fit.

There is no way of selecting property for war duty by lot. Its varieties are so great and numerous, and the injustice of taxation by hazard is so apparent, that nobody would approve it. For the present property may select its own method of service, but Secretary McADOO plainly puts before property the truth that there is no more escape for property than for personal service. It is only for convenience that the Government collects taxes in money. The registration shows that when the person is taken any sort of property may be taken in kind, as well as in cash, the finding of the cash being left to the owner of the property. That is the only option property has. Of escape there is no chance. In justice to property it may be said that there is no sign of even desire to escape. The "grumbling about taxation" which Secretary McADOO mentions is really grumbling about the selection for service by property, not about the duty of service. "The gallant boys walking un-"complainingly to the registration of-"ficers signifying their willingness to "die if need be in their country's "cause" are indeed an example to property worthy of the Secretary's eloquence. Nothing can abate the country's debt to them. It is the supreme test of manhood and civic duty, and they are equal to it. The least return for it is that the duty of selection, and of use after selection, shall be as expert and economical as the case admits.

May not the same be said of the conscription of property? In this war there have been examples of removal of officers of high degree on the field of battle for waste of their commands. Otherwise the morale of the men could not be maintained. In less degree, but not less truly, there is need that there shall be no waste of property in its selection for duty. There have been wastes of resources and shrinkage of property rivaling the loan subscriptions for which the Secretary pleads movingly. That is not in the interest of the gallant fellows registering today. They need and deserve every dollar that the country is so willing to give. But the more waste there is in the selection of property for service the less will be the proceeds for the soldiers.

If the Secretary will name the special interests seeking to save their cash at the cost of the soldiers public opinion will do the rest. But the amendment of the House bill, or even the use of reason in reducing the total first burden upon property, is more in the interest of the country's defenders than of property. It is well for the Secretary to arouse the country to its appreciation of what is done for it today. The country has a like duty to discharge in arousing its representatives to a fuller discharge of their first duty, beside which other reforms are of no consequence. That is a duty to the country's defenders rather than to property.

FALSE RUMORS.

No wonder the air is filled with false rumors. All our military and naval preparations are shrouded in mystery. The newspapers print comparatively few facts about the movements of naval vessels and the assignments of officers. We are in a state of war, and caution is necessary, though it seems that sometimes the Government is overcautious. For instance, if so much secrecy had not been observed about those National Guard regiments employed in the protection of public and private property, the interesting tales of the routine of the encampments which the reporters would have written might have helped recruiting greatly by stirring the imaginations of young men. Experienced recruiting officers have frequently said, or used to say, for they keep their mouths tightly closed these days, that accounts of the doings of men of their acquaintance or belonging to their neighborhood who were under arms always sent young men to the enrolling booths. But the suppression, as far as possible, of reports of troop movements has consistently been the policy of the Government since the war began.

Suppression of facts, however, always stimulates the invention of fiction. Many estimable persons have been worried lately by false tales of naval battles involving the destruction of American ships. Secretary DANIELS has officially denied those tales, but they persist. Letters have been received in this office asking verification or denial of reports that one of our crack militia regiments has been wiped out of existence, that a United States battleship has been sunk, that several of our destroyers have been lost. To such inquirers we can say unreservedly that the reports are wholly false. Their circulation on the eve of registration day, however, warrants the belief that they were designed to work mischief. The design will fail. Loyal Americans are not to be frightened away from the registration for the selective draft. It is well to bear in mind always that unauthenticated reports of military and naval operations are likely to be false. The truth about any disaster the war may bring to us will not be withheld.

RADICALISM IN RUSSIA.

At a moment when the Russian situation needed clarifying, a bright young Socialist, Mr. ANATOLE LAMANOFF, clarifies it by reducing it to absurdity; at a moment when argument was growing weary amid clamor, he supplies the perfect argument, the object lesson. It would be a waste of time to discuss seriously his idea that Russia's need is to be split up into hundreds or thousands of small nations, each consisting of a single town or commune ruled by a petty despot—"a strong local Government," he calls it, illustrating his meaning by telling of various arbitrary arrests and punishments from his hand. The point of importance is that Kronstadt, over which he rules, has taken his plan so seriously as to secede from the republic under his leadership. It declares its hostility, not so much to the Government, which it apparently despises, as to the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, which it considers the real power. To complete the reduction to absurdity, within forty-eight hours LAMANOFF seems too conservative, too milk-and-watery, for the more fiery spirits in Kronstadt, and they, rebelling against his orders, march on Petrograd and threaten it with force. Why this opposition of theirs to Petrograd? Because it is ruled by the Council, which they consider "too bourgeois," meaning too conservative, and they demand that its members immediately give way to more true-blue representatives of anarchy.

It is startling to see how faithfully all the steps of the French Revolution have been reproduced in Russia, so far as the Russian Revolution has gone. The difference is that a progress which took years to effect in the case of France is effected here with amazing velocity. It was four years after the fall of the Bastile before anarchy really existed in France, but the Czar was overthrown less than three months ago and already anarchy raises its head. LAMANOFF's visionary federation of hundreds of republics with no tie but a sort of advisory board is an example of the rage for impossible novelties in government that did not come in France until after five years of revolution. It took years to generate the various French factions, the maddest of them; when Jacobinism became too conservative for the Hebertists, when the Hebertists were too conservative for a still madder crew, and when the memory of MARAT was only that of a mild pacifist, good enough for his time but not far-sighted enough to understand the need of real energy, the French had toiled for five years to reach that point. The Russians have given us the whole tragedy so quickly as to make it almost comedy; they have their Jacobins, their ultra-Jacobins, their Hebertists, and their extreme Hebertists, each successive faction regarding the other as too mild, until Kronstadt in the space of forty-eight hours stages the whole drama from Jacobinism down to Hebertism and anarchism. It is not surprising that the Kronstadt sailors, who revolted against LAMANOFF's conservatism, should demand the head of the ex-Czar; a touch would have been lacking if they had not.

But, dark as the present situation is, there is no reason for despair. This weedlike growth of anarchy was due to the Provisional Government's feeble good nature in letting it alone at the beginning. It did not then represent the Russian people, and there is no reason to suppose that it does even now. The Council, which may soon seem conservative if the fiercer forces of anarchy are allowed to grow unchecked, may represent the workmen, but it does not represent the peasants, and in Russia, unlike most modern countries, the peasants are a greater power than the workmen. How far it represents the soldiers it is impossible to say, since there have been innumerable evidences that large parts of the army are still loyal and sensible. The Cossacks are strongly for law and order.

The threatening situation that exists has arisen because the Socialists and anarchists were firm, resolved, and fearless, while the rest of the nation was pacific, anxious to avoid trouble. The Socialists have had their way, and now find themselves threatened in turn by the anarchists. This situation must end in a struggle in which the law-abiding and intelligent elements will be forced to bear their part. When the whole thing comes down to a test of strength there is no way of telling which party will be strong enough to dominate; and there is at least as much reason to hope that the party of wisdom and honor will prove dominant as to fear that the forces of demolition will be able to tear Russia into fragments.

ANOTHER CHINESE REVOLUTION.

For more than a month a formal declaration of war by China against Germany has been looked for. Such a declaration would be the intended result of China's severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. Both the Chinese President and the Chinese Premier had been opposed to taking any action that would lead to a break with Germany. Both are soldiers. TUAN-CHI-JUI, the Premier, was Minister of War from 1912 to the time of the proposed revival of monarchy. He and the President thought Germany would win. Only the mildest, tame remonstrance against the German submarine policy was expected when Dr. REINSCH, the American Minister, presented the American note asking for China's co-operation. Largely, it is believed, through Dr. REINSCH's influence, the strong note of Feb. 9 was sent:

> The Chinese Government, being in accord with the principles set forth in the American note, and firmly associating itself with the Government of the United States, has taken similar action against the new measure of blockade.

The Japanese Minister at Peking was properly consulted then, and afterward, when the question of handing the German Minister his passports came up. In March he was reported as saying that it was "a matter of course" for China to join the Entente Powers. On April 29 Minister REINSCH gave a reception in honor of the twenty Provisional Military Governors, who had joined in a military conference, and urged a declaration of war.

More than a month before, reports, whether of "tendency" or not, from Peking, had asserted that the Military Governors of twelve provinces proposed the restoration of the Manchu dynasty. Whether this was true or not, the contest between the conservative North and the radical South is always going on. The Chinese monarchists have the great authority of Dr. GOODNOW, vainly relied upon by YUAN SHIH-KAI, that "it is not sus-"ceptible of a doubt that a monarchy "is better suited than a republic to "China."

On May 11 the Premier asked the House of Representatives to declare war. He was accused on the floor of seeking to coerce Parliament. The Peking press was loud in advising members to resist the military clamor. To the military party, the Military Governors, that is, was ascribed the design of overthrowing the republic. The House, after an all-night session, refused to declare war. A mob threatening violence surrounded the Parliament Building, and was dispersed by troops under Premier TUAN's orders. Internal and political questions had apparently displaced the international question. On May 23 Premier TUAN was dismissed.

On May 27 LI CHING-HSI, Minister of Finance, was nominated Premier. On June 1 six provinces declared their independence and threatened to send an expedition to Peking to reinstate Premier TUAN. Yesterday we heard that eleven of the eighteen provinces, including Chi-li, in which is the capital, had broken off relations with the Central Government, and that the Militarists had formed a Provisional Government, with HSU SHIH-CHANG as Dictator. He is a former Viceroy and Premier. TUAN, for years an intimate friend of YUAN, refuses to be thrust back into office by the Militarists. The Vice President, FENG KWO-CHANG, according to a report received last night, has handed in his resignation. Dr. SUN YAT-SEN, President of "Republican China" for a little over a month, who was forced into the abortive revolution of 1913 by a pistol at his head, an old radical and exile, an opponent of entrance into the war, is hurrying back to Peking. So is the Cantonese TANG SHAO-YI, Premier in 1912, a Columbia man, sometime Ambassador in Washington, long in high favor with YUAN, and his Foreign Secretary, but since the revolution one of Dr. SUN's Nationalist or Democratic Party, dissolved by YUAN. They threaten a revolt by three southern provinces. A little over a year ago seven southeastern provinces were in revolt against YUAN.

In the absence of real political parties, parties group about strong personalities, as they do in Mexico. The Provisional Government is rich in these. LI YUAN-HUNG may be a man of "courtesy, good nature, benevolence, and wisdom," as YUAN's last mandate called him, but he will never set the Hoang on fire. The radicals from the South are always hot for the spoils of office. The old hands of the Provisional Government say they want "a workable Constitution." A workable Government China has hardly got. What she needs is a centralized and steady Government. Party government is not a fact in China.

THOSE STOCKS OF GERMAN GOODS

Statements recently published in Berlin should engage the attention of the merchant in the textile trade here who, in letters to the Department of Commerce and THE TIMES, has shown anxiety about large stocks of goods said to be held in Germany for "flooding" our markets after the war. One German paper prints reports which prove that the textile industry is suffering from paralysis. Of forty-five factories in places that are named only ten are making goods, and in these the number of active looms is very small. In Chemnitz more than two-thirds of the employés are idle. A great many of those who have lost their work are supported by the local authorities. This is true, for example, of 6,600 in Augsburg. The rebuilding of the industry, this paper says, will be a difficult and slow process.

In another Berlin journal is published an appeal from the Imperial Clothing Office to bereaved persons, urging them to use no textiles, no woven or knitted cloth, in preparing the dead for burial. Shrouds and pillows, the Government says, should be of paper. Such evidence confirms the admissions made several months ago by men prominent in Germany that there were no stocks of textile goods on hand, stored away to be "dumped" in our markets after the declaration of peace. Reports that such stocks do exist survive from our last year's political campaign, in which they were used to support arguments for a high protective tariff.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Why Does He Need a Guardian?

Just why JACKSON BARNETT, the Creek Indian with a monthly income of $50,000 from the lessees of his oil-bearing land in Oklahoma, should have been placed under a guardian and not allowed to do what he pleased with money to which his title seems to be perfect—that is a good deal of a mystery, and on it hardly a gleam of light is cast by the information now at hand in regard to his character and conduct.

Of course the man's wealth is "unearned increment" of the most obvious sort, and it would be easy enough to argue that, as the land allotted to him by the Government turned out to be vastly more valuable than it was supposed to be when the allotment was made, it does not really belong to him. But that argument, as a matter of fact, is not made by anybody in authority, presumably because to do so would invalidate, or tend to cast a gloom over, innumerable other titles held by white men. Apparently BARNETT was adjudged incompetent because wealth has in no degree changed the simplicity of taste and habit that characterized him in the days when, like most of his race, he could have been addressed with propriety as "Lo, the poor Indian."

It is no crime, however, and it might even be called a virtue, that he sleeps Summer and Winter on the porch of the little cabin for which he reluctantly abandoned the ancestral tepee. And even if it be true, as asserted, that about $50 a month supplies all his wants, and that he has no use for the rest of his income, weakness of mind is not thereby necessarily proved, and his mode of life contrasts very favorably in both manners and morals with that into which has fallen many a white man who was made suddenly rich exactly as was this red philosopher. That there is a better use of money than piling it up in bank, as is done by—or for—BARNETT, cannot be denied; but it can be, and often has been, put to uses vastly worse by "Coal Oil Johnnies" of various grades.

It is now proposed, whether by BARNETT or his guardian is not quite clear, that the something like $800,000 which he has accumulated be invested in the Liberty Loan. To that no objections are visible at this distance, but there seems to be some doubt in Oklahoma and Washington of its legality. Cautiously and rightly approached, those doubts should not be hard to overcome.

A Belated Form of Recognition.

Strangely enough, it has taken a great war to give this country that appreciation of the importance possessed by two distinctly American inventions at which Europe arrived long ago. Only now are we beginning to build either submarine boats or airplanes on a large scale, while abroad we have been taught only too well what can be done with the former and well enough the potentialities of the latter. At last our realization is adequate, or nearly so, of the victory over two new worlds that was given by these machines, and there is a sort of consolation, in addition to a curious interest, in the selection of Dayton as the site for the greatest of the three aviation fields where a whole army of American flying men are to be trained for military service.

For it was at Dayton that the WRIGHTS began and completed the solution of the problem on which innumerable hopeful enthusiasts had wasted their time, and so created something between a belief on the part of all people proud of their common sense that mechanical flight and perpetual motion came in the same category and were regarded as possible only by cranks and lunatics. Most of us can well remember the incredulity with which the first reports of the WRIGHTS' success were received, for we also remembered that grave scientists had disproved the practicability of flight for men using any known motors and materials in the construction of their airships.

The thing was done at last, however, and then came the period of short voyages through the air, made on carefully selected days and with a sense of enormous risk. Exhibitions at county fairs followed, and after that American interest in aviation waned until it seemed on the point of dying out altogether. The new art had a better fate in England, though not much better, but in France it was treated seriously and carried steadily forward. The Germans, meanwhile, had been drawn off into a wrong road and devoted their attention to the dirigible balloon—"the balloon with a paddle," as one critic well called it—and only recently have they really seen the superiority of the airplane, even for the sort of raiding in which they expected the Zeppelin to be so effective.

But America invented the true airship and conquered the invincible air. Now we are going to build airplanes by the thousand, and that Americans can manage them in either peace or war as well as any men in the world nobody has the slightest doubt.

This Veto Highly Commendable.

General satisfaction will be felt throughout the State at the news that Governor WHITMAN had vetoed the Brown bill relaxing the law governing the hours of labor to be performed by women and children. The would-be exploiters of that labor saw in the necessities of war a plausible excuse for seeking the abolition of the restrictions they found so irksome, and they were able to persuade majorities in both branches of the Legislature to permit a temporary return to the old abuses. Governor WHITMAN has heeded wiser counselors than these, and he has decided that the law which was the result of a fight so long should remain on the statute book.

For this he is entitled to public gratitude. That the longer working hours sought would have increased total production is at least dubious; that an increase thus obtained, if there were one, would be worth its cost cannot be seriously contended until the national exigency is much more desperate than it is now or threatens soon to become.

THE FIRST CONSCRIPTION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The French Revolution was the mother of conscription. The Constituent Assembly had rejected what was then called compulsory service, judging it to be incompatible with the dignity and liberty of a free-born citizen. The situation became acute when monarchical Europe lined up its forces against the First Republic. Something had to be done to meet the Continental coalition. It was then that the convention, in its famous proclamation, posted all over France, and commencing with these words, "The country is in danger," appealed for volunteers to come forward to enroll for the "Salut de la République."

The appeal was heeded. A wave of patriotism swept the country and carried thousands and thousands of men from every village and city to register. The result was surprising. The republic under the leadership of such able Generals as Hoche, Jourdan, and Moreau, and, later on, Bonaparte, cleared France of her enemies, but at a terrible cost of human life. These victories depleted France of her manhood and the question arose: How is the republic to replace the men who died for her?

General Jourdan found the solution. Before the Council of the Five Hundred, a sort of legislative body, this General of the French Republic introduced a "projet de loi" entitled "Conscription." The word conscription was then used for the first time in the history of the world—coined by republican France for the benefit of all other nations, be it said to her eternal honor. The law passed in 1789 declared every male citizen liable to military service for a period of five years from the age of 20 to the age of 25, the conscripts to be divided into classes and to be called out at the discretion of the Government as circumstances may require it. Conscription won the victories of the French Revolution. The great Carnot, nicknamed the "Organizer of Victory," and Bonaparte both acknowledged it after having first opposed it. In his interview at Schönbrunn with Metternich a few years later, in 1804 or 1805, Bonaparte made this startling remark: "I can well afford to lose 30,000 men every month as long as I have the conscription to fall back upon."

Later on, however, the law was so amended as to permit the right of exemption by the payment for a substitute, exemption being determined by the drawing of lots. That was a great mistake, as it killed the democratic spirit of the army and laid the foundation for the coming crushing defeat of 1870-71. Napoleon III., always hesitating and always unable to take a resolution, did not dare propose to the Chamber of Deputies to repeal that part of the conscription law. That is why his army was justly nicknamed "l'armées des mercenaires."

WEBSTER ON THE DRAFT.

A pamphlet just issued by the American Union Against Militarism and entitled "Daniel Webster on the Draft," (text of a speech delivered in Congress Dec. 19, 1814,) is reprinted from my edition of "The Letters of Daniel Webster." I feel outraged to find my name on so treasonable a sheet, even as editor of a quoted speech, and I wish here to expose the wanton misrepresentation and misuse of this document. In the first place, Daniel Webster himself was ashamed of his sophomoric effusion against conscription, and did not even permit it to be published in the Congressional Record. He wrote his friend, Jeremiah Mason, that he would show it to him some time in secret. Webster never allowed it to be published in his printed works during his life, and, after his death, his son, Fletcher Webster, thought it unworthy of publication in his edition of his father's papers. Moreover, Webster was not at the time of making the speech "the ablest constitutional lawyer in Congress," as those responsible for this little pamphlet say, in willful misrepresentation of the facts, but only a green young politician, fresh from Federalist New England, which was bitterly opposed to the war, and which was even then traitorously talking of secession from the Union and refusing the President's call for the State militia to repel invasion of the United States. Webster, newly arrived in Congress, eager to please his constituents, was making a speech for home consumption, neither the first nor last of that sinful brood. Soon afterward this young politician delivered his classic speech in favor of free trade because, forsooth, New England was not yet aware of its interest in protection. Within ten years he was thundering in the halls of Congress the gospel of protection, because the infant industries of New England were crying to be saved from European competition. Had there arisen a war in which his section was vitally interested he would have made a plea for conscription that would have made the very stones of New England to rise and register.

The deliberate disregard for the historical truth which led to the misuse of this speech, which is a poor thing at the best and easily answered, is characteristic of those who sign this reprint. Most of them are enthusiastic nobodies, but there are three persons whose names stand out, and who should bow their heads in shame at the use of such dishonest propaganda. First, there is Oswald Garrison Villard, who will be remembered for his fulsome, truckling message to Bernstorff on the eve of his departure. Second, there is Jane Addams, whose noble service to humanity before this war is surpassed only by her fanatical betrayal of it during the last two years. Finally, there is David Starr Jordan, whose complete blindness as to the effects of his mad campaign of pacifism is one of the saddest tragedies of our time.

BARON ROSEN'S VIEWS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A Petrograd dispatch given with considerable prominence in this morning's papers presents the views of Baron Rosen, former Russian Ambassador to the United States and former member of the Council of the Empire, as to "a possible basis for peace with the Central Powers." Baron Rosen urges the negotiation of a conciliatory peace with Germany, based on the impossibility of a victorious termination of the war; and his professed motive for so doing is the desire to save his country from impending ruin. Whether his real feelings on the subject are unalloyed with any desire to aid Germany may perhaps be judged by placing alongside his present declaration a statement of the views on Russian national policy expressed by him in 1913, which happens to be referred to in the course of an article on the Russian revolution which appeared in the Revue de Paris last month. The Revue has reference to a confidential memorandum of Rosen's, which had previously been published. I translate in part:

> Baron Rosen declares that he cannot understand "in what way German domination over Europe runs counter to the interests of Russia, which is rather an Asiatic power." He adds: "By abandoning to Germany supremacy in the western part of Europe and completely disengaging herself from the rivalry between European powers in the domain of purely European interests, Russia would assure the safety of her western frontier and would have her hands free to accomplish her mission in Asia."

It looks as though anything Baron Rosen may say at this time on the question of peace negotiations were fairly subject to a considerable discount—say about 99 per cent.—on the score of pro-Germanism.

F. F.

It is true that some of us felt it would have been better for the President of the United States to have issued a call for volunteers. I believe that such a call would have met with a glorious response. The youth of the country would have answered the summons. We face not what might have been, but the fact that is, and that fact, on Tuesday, June 5, the youth of the nation are asked to register in order that from among their number there may be drawn the armies of liberty.

With all my heart I hope that the registration of the youth of the nation may be complete. A registration that found none of the youth of the nation wanting would mean two things: First, a notice served upon the powers of Central Europe that the American people are as one in fixed and unalterable purpose not to desert their gallant allies until the menace of Kaiserism be forever banished from the earth. This menace is revealed in two ways—in its unprecedented crime against little Belgium and in its newest crime against liberated Russia, in so far as it is seeking through all the wiles and villainies of crafty statesmanship so to divide the Russian people upon the eve of freedom that they shall be made impotent in their quest for a new and democratic national order.

A complete registration on Tuesday, June 5, will mean one thing more—a proof of unity among all those peoples which, together, make up the American nation. Tuesday, June 5, will mark the burial, without the hope of resurrection, of hyphenism, and will token the birth of a united and indivisible country.

I was in Richmond only a few days ago—it happened to be Memorial Day—and my heart was gladdened by the sight of the youth of the South setting forth to battle and to die for the Union in the same way in which the youth of North and South fought fifty years ago. The response of the nation must be unanimous.

Anti-militarist I am and have been. It is because I am anti-militarist that I believe the curse of Prussian militarism must be checked. It is infinitely to be regretted that checked it must be by way of war. Every other method was tried. The President of the United States and the American people exhibited little less than superhuman patience in order to avert war and preserve peace.

Today the place for the American people is by the side of England and France, Belgium and Russia. The spirit of liberty has summoned the youth of America. Let Tuesday, June 5, be a day memorable in the annals of the American people and of the march of the human race toward the blessings of liberty and justice.

STEPHEN S. WISE.

THE FIFTH OF JUNE.

By JAMES H. MELVILLE.

On this day our Nation dedicates its youth to the priceless service of Freedom and Justice. We who have not youth must bring to the common cause, in equal measure, the gifts which we possess.

Clear as a bugle on the night
The call has come to peoples free!
Might shall not triumph over right
Nor shame enfold our destiny!

Not by oppression have we grown
To this proud state, in this fair land;
But by the might of Love alone
That walks with Justice, hand in hand.

And as, to save our souls from shame,
Breathe, Lord, into our hearts the flame
That welded theirs to Thy Desire!

Ah! never can their glory die!
Because it is Thy Glory's sheen!
So let us ever hold on high
The visions that our seers have seen!

All that we are, all that we own,
All that we dream or hope or pray,
Help us to give, that we bequeath
An heritage as bright as they.

We may not halt! We must not fail!
All that we dream or hope or pray,
Help us to fling into the scale

And not with scorn, and not with hate
But with a Justice strong as Fate

Oh, Happy Nation that can send
The gift of Life, the boon of Death,
To feed for ages without end
The vibrant stream of Freedom's breath!

All that we are, all that we dream,
The things we have, the prayers we pray,
Give! Give! to swell this living stream,

So let the Heathen rage and cry!
And kings their vain commandments give,
We will not live if Freedom die!
And Freedom dies not while we live!

Clear as a bugle on the night
The call has come to peoples free!
Oppression shall not vanquish Right

Red Cross Relief Committee Plans to Care for All the Needy.

One hundred and thirty families of enlisted men already have been cared for by the American Red Cross Relief Committee for Manhattan and the Bronx, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. John M. Glenn, Chairman of the committee. Plans for future relief of dependents of fighting men also have been made. The committee is prepared not ony to provide the material wants of dependents, but to give personal advice and medical and legal services as well. Women conversant with problems of the household, physicians, and lawyers are co-operating with the committee to that end.

Seventy-two persons who applied to the committee for relief were experiencing want because of enlistment of sons. Fifty-six applied because of the enlistment of husbands. The remaining families suffered because of the absence of other relatives. In some instances money, and in others food and clothing have been given.

The Civilian Relief Committee has headquarters at 30 East Thirty-sixth Street. The committee has twenty-two volunteer agents in the field and is preparing to increase this force. Many school teachers intend to devote themselves to this work during their vacations. In addition there is a volunteer office staff of sixteen, working under the direction of a paid secretary, and additions to this staff will be made as the work of the committee broadens.

"We want each soldier and sailor to feel," said Mrs. Glenn, "that his family can turn to the Red Cross in any emergency. We have a corps of persons picked for their good sense, judgment, and tact, to help in solving any family problems that may arise."

The members of the Red Cross Civilian Relief Committee for Manhattan and the Bronx are Mrs. John M. Glenn, Chairman; Miss Ellen Louise Adee, Mrs. Charles D. Dickey, Mrs. William K. Draper, Mrs. John T. Pratt, Mrs. Coffin Van Rensselaer, Robert W. de Forest, Dr. Edward T. Devine, George J. Gillespie, Senator Ogden L. Mills, Leopold Plaut, and Olin J. Stephens.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The Prince of Udine, head of the Italian War Mission, is suffering from gastric trouble, and it has been found necessary to postpone the tour of the South which had been planned for the mission. The following official statement was given to the press today:

"Owing to the sudden and severe illness of the Prince of Udine, the proposed trip of the Royal Italian Commission to the South has been temporarily canceled. His Royal Highness became indisposed yesterday, and this morning had a temperature of 104.

"The Department of State will make further announcement concerning the tour as soon as the condition of his Royal Highness permits."

One result of the conversations between the Italian Mission and American experts has been to convince the mission that it will be more convenient, as well as more advantageous for Italy, to buy finished products in the United States whenever possible, especially such articles as agricultural and industrial machinery, as in addition to getting them sooner, a saving also will be effected in tonnage, inasmuch as the coal and raw materials for their manufacture would have to be transported from America. Italy will continue the manufacture of her own guns and munitions.

Y. W. C. A. IN NEW HOME.

Ten-Story Building at 53d Street Has Club Comforts.

The Central Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, for many years at 7 East Fifteenth Street, yesterday began moving into its big new building at 610 Lexington Avenue, corner of Fifty-third Street.

The new home of the Central Branch is a ten-story building occupying half the block on Lexington Avenue. It is thoroughly modern and up to date and contains everything the branch has needed and has not had for so many years. On the top floor is a big cafeteria with large airy kitchens. It will be open to the public, men included. There is a big gymnasium with a complete swimming pool. The big assembly hall will seat 700 people. There are a number of clubrooms and a housekeeping suite where home making will be taught as a special feature.

Thursday morning there will be a board meeting in the new building and Thursday evening there will be the first meal given in the new cafeteria. The formal opening has been postponed until Fall.

SUNDAY CAMPAIGN PAYS.

Total of $118,019 Received in Subscriptions and Collections.

Billy Sunday "is paying his way" at the Tabernacle at 168th Street and Broadway, according to the financial statement issued yesterday by the Finance Committee of the Sunday campaign. Collections in the Tabernacle to date amount to $64,056.29. Donations and money given previous to the opening of the Tabernacle to the public amounted to $53,963.46, or a total of $118,019.75. This, together with collections expected at the meetings next Sunday, which will be the only collections taken during the week, will pay all expenses, it is estimated.

During the campaign there have been 67,848 trail hitters, which is said to be a record for Sunday. Every dollar contributed represents approximately one convert or "trail hitter."

As usual on Monday, the evangelist had no services at the Tabernacle yesterday. In the evening Sunday had as his guest at his home, 184 Northern Avenue, the Rev. Dr. H. H. Bell of San Francisco, who comes here to confer with Sunday regarding a proposed campaign in San Francisco.

In succession to Professor Lanson of the University of Paris, whose year of service as Professor of French Literature is about to expire, the Trustees appointed Professor F. Baldensperger of the Sorbonne. M. Baldensperger, since the outbreak of war, has served with distinction as Captain on the General Staff of the French Army, and has been awarded the Croix de Guerre.

Professor William Chandler Bagley, Director of the School of Education of the University of Illinois, was appointed to a newly established Professorship of Education in Teachers College.

The Trustees accepted with regret the application for retirement, for reasons of health, of Professor James F. Kemp, who has been head of the Department of Geology since 1891.

Seniors at Columbia celebrated their Class Day on the Morningside Heights campus yesterday. For the first time in the university's history the festivities took place outdoors, a space between the School of Mines building and Earl Hall being the scene of the gathering. Led by the class President, Charles A. Reagan, the seniors paraded from the library to the green. President Reagan delivered the opening address. He was followed by William S. Knickerbocker, class historian. Then came the presentation of prizes, the Alumni Association Prize of $50 to the most faithful and deserving student going to Edward M. Earle, and the Charles M. Rolker, Jr., Prize for the best all-around student going to Emmanuel Littauer, football full back. Arthur K. Paddock was the presentation orator. The class poem was read by Rene Wormser. C. A. Hammarstrum was the ivy orator, and the valedictory was delivered by Edward M. Earle.

Class statistics, as announced at the exercises, showed these opinions: Favorite professor, Carlton H. Hayes, history department; hardest to bluff, H. R. Steeves; easiest to bluff, Herbert G. Lord; most valuable course, European history.

The program for today includes the observance of Teachers College class day in the morning in the Horace Mann auditorium and Barnard College exercises in the university gymnasium in the afternoon. The joint meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Society will be held in Havemeyer Hall at 5 o'clock and will be followed by a dinner and public gathering, at which Professor George B. Adams of Yale will speak. The Columbia senior dance will be held in Earl Hall beginning at 9 o'clock.

SEND VOLUNTEERS, GEN. NIVELLE'S PLEA

DRAFT MEANS LONG DELAY

And Men Now Incorporated in French Army Could Officer Our Troops.

Whitney Warren, the American architect who is now in Paris, tells in a letter to a friend in this country of his visit to French Headquarters and his conversation with General Nivelle, then Commander in Chief of the French armies, with regard to the part France expects America to play in the war.

"On Wednesday, May 9, I went to General Headquarters to visit General Nivelle," Mr. Warren says. "After dining with the Commander in Chief I had the honor of listening to his ideas, which are those of all the chiefs. I made careful notes of all the topics discussed and have since submitted them for his approval. Here they are in extenso with permission to use his name, should any interest be centred in them:

"'Under what form will the United States participate in the war on the western front? Of all questions this is the one which undoubtedly interests most intensely public opinion in France.

"'The population of the United States, the characteristic traits of the American people, the love for daring deeds, its desire to realize rapidly, and its love for great undertakings, have naturally aroused in France the greatest hopes—not only from the point of view of military aid, but upon the rapidity with which it will be furnished.

"'How are the Americans going to respond to the hopes they have awakened; how are they going to prove that the confidence felt in them is well founded? There is the whole question.

"'For it seems to be the intention of the Government of the United States to create out of whole cloth a powerful army. To do this it is not only necessary to create, but to organize and realize conscription, raise a contingent of a number sufficient to bring to their full effective a great number of divisions, then to equip, to arm, and instruct these recruits, to form the subaltern and superior staffs or frames, as we call them here—to form combatant units of every arm—to form innumerable staffs of all sorts of branches and service, to constitute, in other words, divisions fully ready to be transported to France.

"'We all fully believe that the United States of all countries is the most capable of carrying this vast project to a successful conclusion, but has it been sufficiently considered what a loss of time this vast program entails, and has it been thought out that there is another plan which will give quicker results, more advantageous ones as regards the entering into line of the American forces?

Great Organization Necessary.

"'First of all, it would almost seem as if the immensity of organization necessary for one unit to be placed on a war footing (that is, on the present war footing) was not fully realized. It is not sufficient to have a mass of men properly armed and furnished with all the engines necessary for modern infantry, with light artillery, with heavy artillery, for direct and indirect firing, with trench artillery, &c.; it is not enough to train the men and the officers to use these different energies in all the forms of modern combat. One has further to organize all the services without which no troops can survive or fight.

"'Services for food supply and subsistence and the distribution of the same.

"'Services for the supply of the artillery with thousands of tons of ammunition of all calibres and for the constant replacing and repairing of pieces necessitated by the distribution and using up of the material.

"'The engineers, service for their supply as regards their material for communication, the keeping up and construction of roads and bridges, the construction and operation of railways, broad and narrow gauge; the establishing, keeping up, and operation of telegraphic communication, with and without wires; establishment of water supply, electrical installations, &c.

"'The health department, ambulances, with its personnel and material, and its continual food supply and upkeep.

"'And then, after having reunited this formidable amount of material which is necessary for the very existence and organization of the troops, one must form the staffs (general staffs of the fighting units, general staffs for the different services) capable of foreseeing the needs of the troops and furnishing the material needed on time, and finally must be found the chiefs susceptible to command and direct the troops.

"'And then again, once arrived in France, these troops and units will need a new period of instruction and training in the zone of the armies before they enter the actual fighting line, or even before they should be placed on a quiet part of the front.

"'When the English divisions of Kitchener first arrived in France the British staff permitted them on the front only by battalions and then by brigades. On very exceptional occasions were they permitted to enter the struggle in mass and then the result obtained was not good and the losses enormous.

"'Remember that all these considerations not only affect one division, but every division that comes from America. Imagine, therefore, the delay which must necessarily occur before such organizations can be constituted, and above all before they can be put to actual service under wise and acceptable conditions—and then ask yourself if the American effort cannot be made effective more quickly by some other way!

French Army at Its Maximum.

"'From our point of view, that is the French, if you will study it, you may find it preferable. For at the present moment the French Army has arrived at its maximum of development. We opened the campaign in 1914 with a relatively small number of divisions, but during the progress of operations and in order to face problems continually changing we have been forced to increase greatly the number of our large units. At the same time France had to make a tremendous effort to furnish these new armies with artillery, munitions, and all the other material made necessary by the conditions of modern war along a front formidably fortified.

"'But after three years of war along this front of many hundred miles in length, after battles where hundreds of thousands of men have been engaged, like the Marne, the Yser, in Artois, in Champagne, at Verdun, and on the Somme and the Aisne, the day must forcibly come when there will be a crisis in the keeping up of the effective and full strength and which will mean a serious hindrance in the conduct of offensive operations, and when it will be necessary to suppress little by little regiments and then divisions simply from lack of men and not from material!

"'You see, therefore, the immense rôle that could be played by the American volunteers, who, without awaiting the application, organization, and realization of the conscription law, enlist to serve the American army in France. As soon as they arrive here they would be sent to the instruction camps ready for their occupancy, where they will be aided by instructors who have been at war for months and years. During this time those designated to become officers, and who desire to, would go to the French military schools, where they would follow the courses beside the future commandants of company and battalion in the the French Army, and who all of them have been in the line since the beginning of the war. Finally, these volunteers, officers and men reunited, after their first training will be incorporated by battalions in the different regiments, then by regiments, then by brigade, going into action under the Stars and Stripes and the guidance of battle-trained men, backed up by an artillery second to none in history.

"'In this way the present army in the field could be kept at its present effective. It is without doubt the quickest and safest method for the Americans to aid, and these first battalions of volunteers will in the near future furnish a vast number of officers and subalterns, most efficient, to what will then be the conscripted army, for undoubtedly these men who already have had several months of campaigning will be better able to take care of these men and to lead than those who simply possess theory.

Wants "Nursery" of Officers.

"'As a matter of fact the test has already been made by these Americans already in France since the beginning of the war. Look at the Lafayette squadrilla of aviators and the ambulance drivers, both of whom, conversant with their services, are already indicated as officers instructors to the new American Army.

"'Again, if from a military point of view it is advisable to send volunteers immediately to France, there are also moral reasons for so doing, for conscription, under no matter what form, is always a difficult measure to apply, especially so perhaps in America. Unhappily, it is necessary there as everywhere, but undoubtedly it will be accepted much more easily if there are thousands of volunteers already on the battlefront. The parents and friends of those who have gone will see to it that the law is enforced and will hasten greatly the second contingent of American troops sent over.

"'History has proved it to us. England would never have accepted conscription as she did unless hundreds of thousands of volunteers had gone before, giving the example and teaching the lesson of patriotism. And in France itself at the time of the Revolution the volunteers flowed into the army long before conscription became a reality.

"'The Allies have supreme confidence in the power of the United States and in the rapidity and efficacy of its intervention. They know that conscription has been voted and that sooner or later the American Army will be fighting side by side with them, but they ask themselves anxiously how long they must wait for this aid. Must they wait a year, two years, or perhaps more? This question is paramount in the minds of those who have been in the trenches three years, who risk their lives daily, and who know that upon the promptness with which the United States gets its troops in line depends the victory.

"'And in the presence, among those who are now fighting at the front, in their divisions, in their regiments, of American units lies the proof that it is the will of the American people to fight!'

"The next day, that is on Thursday, I dined with General Pétain with his chief of staff. It was a rare opportunity, and among other things he spoke most energetically of the importance of the United States Government naming without further loss of time a general commission to France empowered to treat all questions. The highest type of man should be chosen, broad-minded and with clear judgment, a good organizer with experience, and if possible a man of the world in the broad sense of the word. I know this to be necessary. Our several missions are at work over here enthusiastically, but footless as far as authority and means are concerned. It is embarrassing and humiliating in spite of the courtesy of the French, who treat them as full-fledged, while fully realizing the very limited action they are capable of.

"On Saturday, the 12th, I dined at the Ministry of War and had a further talk with M. Painlevé. That everybody agrees with what I have said is shown by the fact that the censor, the terrible censor, passed all my dispatches."

METZ IN ROW AT CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Herman A. Metz, former Congressman from Brooklyn and former Controller of New York, clashed in a corridor of the Capitol today with Dr. George Walker of the Council of National Defense, after a hearing before the Senate Patents Committee on a proposal to abrogate the German patent rights on salvarsan during the war. Dr. Walker had been before the committee to urge that the patent rights be suspended, so that salvarsan might be manufactured here at a cheaper price. As it existed now, he said, the output was a monopoly, based upon a German patent right.

When Dr. Walker came out of the committee room Mr. Metz stepped up to him and began talking vociferously. The ex-Congressman swung his arms, and managed, either by accident or intention, to brush Dr. Walker with an outstretched palm. Dr. Walker immediately clinched his fist and landed on Mr. Metz's chin, sending him backward against a wall. Anything that might have happened was prevented by an attendant rushing up and standing between the two men. That closed the incident.

Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, Dean of the Medical Department of the University of Michigan, and Dr. J. M. Finney of Johns Hopkins University urged the committee to abrogate the salvarsan patent, to put it within reach of the market demand.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota has introduced a bill in the Senate to abrogate the salvarsan patents and to authorize the Secretaries of War and the Navy to manufacture salvarsan during the war.

WANT TO CHANGE "ALLEY."

"Botticelli Court" to Replace Macdougal if Artists Have Their Way.

Apropos of the festa in Macdougal Alley, which starts tomorrow afternoon, and in which the sculptors and painters of that famous old spot are keenly interested, the general public has not before known that a carefully prepared petition has been sent to the proper authorities, signed by many of the artist colony, requesting that the name be changed to Botticelli Court. Said one of the petitioning artists: "It is really dreadful, you know, to give one's address to Paris and London friends as Macdougal ALLEY!"

An old Irish coachman seated in the sun before an alley stable belonging to one of the Washington Square residents, was asked his opinion of the petition and its signers. Slowly removing the pipe from his lips, he said, "An' shure, whaddo they know? Botteyshelly Court—an who might he be? The alley was named after a famous old Revolutionary Gineral. Thim fellers as want the name changed, they spind all their toime makin' mud pies."

The troop of automobiles containing society women which left 460 Madison Avenue yesterday in a parade to stimulate the sale of tickets for the Alley Festa got back with all individual-selling records broken. Mrs. Walter E. Maynard sold more than 7,500 tickets at 50 cents each in blocks of 100 to business men. Between 11 A. M. and sundown the troop sold more than 21,000 tickets, according to Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the honorary treasurer.

REITERATES CHARGES OF WASHINGTON GRAFT

SALINA, Kan., June 4.—Joseph L. Bristow prints this afternoon in his paper a reiteration of his criticisms of alleged graft conditions in Washington. The publication is in the form of a letter to Representative Guy T. Helvering. Bristow says in part:

"You know, or ought to know, that it is common rumor in Washington that Congressmen and other influential men have obtained commissions in the army for relatives; said commissions have been dated before the parties were sent to the training camps or had taken any examination.

"You know, or ought to know, that at hearings of the House and Senate committees charges have been made that contractors are being paid a per cent. of the cost for construction of army cantonments.

"You know, or ought to know, that it is openly alleged that such methods and blunderings have resulted in an increase in the estimated cost of these cantonments from $75,000,000 to $150,000,000.

"You know, or ought to know, that the lobby of the munition makers was strong enough with the Senate Committee on Finance to have the tax on munitions removed.

"You know, or ought to know, that the lobbies that now swarm the corridors of the Capitol have induced the Senate Committee on Finance to remove from the Revenue bill the increased surtax on excessive incomes of more than $40,000 a year.

"You know, or ought to know, that under pressure from innumerable lobbyists this Revenue bill is being so shaped that great corporations with watered stock will practically escape taxation.

"You know, or ought to know, that there is now a powerful lobby of metropolitan newspaper and magazine publishers in Washington demanding that the increased postage rates recommended by the Postmaster General be not adopted, but that a gross tax on advertising be substituted.

"You do know that thousands of men have flocked to Washington and are using every device known to the ingenuity of man to obtain and are obtaining soft berths for themselves, their relatives, and political friends.

"You may think it patriotic to draw the youth of this land to die in the trenches of Europe and to permit the bloated munition maker to escape proper taxation and keep his blood-stained gold, but we do not. And regardless of the brazen effrontery with which you seek to intimidate men from the expression of facts, we propose to continue to portray the conditions as they are. Not as a traitor to his country but as a patriot who has contempt for a Congressional trimmer and hatred for a public thief."

PUTS OFF BRADY WILL CASE.

Surrogate Cohalan postponed yesterday until October the trial of the contest of the will of James Buchanan ("Diamond Jim") Brady over the objections of Anson McCook Beard of counsel for the executors named in the will. Mr. Beard said that the case for the executors was ready for trial, and that the contest should be disposed of at once because of the probability that the witnesses who may be needed will be widely scattered by October.

He said that Charles A. Moore, Jr., one of the witnesses to the will, was called for war duty some time ago and his testimony has been taken by commission, while two other witnesses who will testify as to the decedent's sanity have been called for duty in the war in the last week.

Lyttleton Fox, of counsel for the decedent's brother and sister, who have brought the contest, said the contestants would be unable to proceed with the case before October, and for this reason the postponement was granted.

MAYOR OUTLINES WAR PLANS

What the Mayor's Committee on National Defense expects to accomplish during the progress of the war was outlined by Mayor Mitchel yesterday at a luncheon at India House, which was attended by all the Executive Committee of the organization, the Chairmen of all special and borough committees, and representatives of the Mayor's Committee of Women on National Defense. The meeting was held to welcome the new Chairman of the National Defense Committee, Thomas L. Chadbourne, Jr., who succeeds Willard Straight. The latter resigned to accept a commission as Major in the Adjutant General's Corps, U. S. A. After expressing regret at Mr. Straight's resignation and telling what had been accomplished under him, the Mayor said:

"I wish to take this opportunity to renew with all emphasis and urgency my request that all organizations coordinate their patriotic efforts with and through this committee in order that we may avoid as far as possible waste of energy and duplication of endeavor. The committee has organized and is directing the work of a large group of special committees, including those for the promotion of recruiting for the Federal services; for the mobilization of hospital and relief resources; for the consideration of questions and problems relating to aliens; for the co-ordination of the work of citizen organizations; for the co-ordination of the work of already established relief organizations, and several others. I regard the committee and the city as particularly fortunate to obtain the services of Mr. Chadbourne at this time as Chairman of both the General and the Executive Committees."

It was announced that the headquarters of the committee will shortly be moved from the Municipal Building to the Stewart Building at 280 Broadway.

CENSORSHIP CLAUSE OUT.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Striking out the newspaper censorship clause rejected by the House, the conferees on the Espionage bill today reached a final complete agreement. Their report will be presented to the House Wednesday. Adoption by both Senate and House is expected with little debate.

Besides eliminating the censorship provision, the only change made by the conferees was to make the section punishing interference with foreign commerce operative in peace time as well as war.

The conferees' action is accepted as ending the Administration efforts for press censorship for the time being, but a new and separate Censorship bill drafted after consultation with publishers may be presented later.

EX-JUDGE CHARLTON DIES IN PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, June 4.—Paul Charlton, former United States District Judge for Porto Rico, died today at Juana Diaz. Death followed an operation for carbuncle. He was the father of Porter Charlton, who in 1910 killed his wife in a villa on Lake Como, Italy, while they were on their honeymoon, and who was released from prison in 1915 and returned to the United States.

Paul Charlton was born in Harrisburg, Penn., in 1856. He was graduated from Yale in 1878 and was admitted to the bar in 1882. After practicing in Harrisburg and Omaha, Neb., he became attached to the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department and later became United States District Judge for Porto Rico, which post he held until 1912, when he resumed the practice of law at San Juan.

FORT TOTTEN GUNS TESTED.

Twelve-Inch Mortars Now Ready for Immediate Action.

The eight twelve-inch mortars at Fort Totten were proved to be ready for immediate action yesterday, when Colonel William G. Haan, commandant of the reservation, tried out the big guns that serve as a protection to that part of the entrance to New York harbor.

Lieutenant R. D. Brown of the Ordnance Department of the Coast Artillery, who had charge of the test, was thoroughly satisfied with the condition of the mortars. Fourteen of the massive projectiles were fired and every one of them hit the target. The tests will be continued today.

In the vicinity of the fort it was apparent yesterday when the fourteen projectiles were fired that they were more heavily charged than those used in the past, when buildings were shaken only a trifle. Yesterday the residents were glad that they had taken the advice of Colonel Haan and put valuable breakables out of harm's way. No damage of any account was reported.

The sound of the firing could be heard plainly in Great Neck, Bayside, Manhasset, and other places. Nobody was afraid that an invading force was coming because the officers at the fort gave due warning of the test.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Yesterday's stock market session was largely under the influence of the approaching holiday, and transactions were not important either in volume or in price changes. Activity subsided as the day wore on and the day's total was only about half that of the last previous full day. Prices were irregular, but most issues closed under their final prices as at the end of last week, and the list as a whole was off about ⅜ of a point.

Traders thought that there were many stop loss orders near the prevailing quotations and went after them in several issues without increasing much the amount of selling. The market's undertone appeared to be good, better than might have been expected after the recent rise, and the fact that conditions upon which it was based have begun to look less favorable. Most important among these is the disturbing news from Russia, where it appears that mutiny is likely to develop at the capital.

Oddly enough, Wall Street has been much less disturbed by the Russian troubles in the last few days than it was a month ago. It may be that traders are becoming accustomed to bad news from that quarter, or it may be that the confidence which is still felt in banking circles which have been dealing with the new Government is spreading through the district. While admitting that the outlook for the maintenance of the provisional government in office is uncertain, bankers who have been in close touch with the officials in Petrograd believe that Russia will not conclude any agreement with the Central Powers irrespective of the wishes of her allies.

Mercantile Marine preferred lost 2⅝ points yesterday on the substitution of fact, submitted by President Franklin at the annual meeting, for fancy which has been given full play in discussions turning upon the company's prosperity. The management reported a surplus after paying the British Government war tax equivalent to 51 per cent. on the preferred stock for the year ended Dec. 31 last, which compares with 26 per cent. earned in 1915. This showing, though it ought to be satisfactory to holders of the company's securities, is much below predicted earnings which lacked any authoritative basis. The payment of back dividends on the preferred stock, which has been rumored on each occasion that the shares have scored advances, seems still a long way off in the light of the statement yesterday that the company anticipates that come of its ships will be commandeered by the United States Government.

Another shipment of $2,000,000 gold to Japan was announced yesterday, but the movement has not yet assumed proportions that are not explained by the international trade movement. Call money held at 4 per cent. throughout the day.

GOOD TONE IN LONDON.

Russian Issues Are Heavy on the Latest News from Petrograd.

LONDON, June 4.—Apart from Russian issues, which were heavy on the latest news, the stock market today had a generally good tone. The reinvestment of dividends on a larger scale strengthened gilt-edge securities while shipping shares were quite active, especially Prince Line and Cunards. Oil stocks reacted under profit taking, but rubbers were steady. American securities declined and closed undecided.

Money was in good supply and discount rates were steady. Rubles continued to depreciate and they were quoted at 183.

Federal Reserve's Deputy Governor Writes on Collection of Them.

R. H. Treman, Deputy Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, has sent out a letter to member banks in regard to the collection of trade acceptances. He says that he has been informed that some institutions receiving trade acceptances for collection have failed to observe the character of the instruments and have handled them exactly as if they were ordinary unaccepted collection drafts, and that in some cases trade acceptances had been returned with such notations as "never pays drafts," "no attention paid," &c.

"The fact should not be overlooked," says Mr. Treman, "that a trade acceptance is an accepted draft which constitutes a valid promise to pay on a specified date—a negotiable instrument as binding upon the acceptor as his promissory note, and that all such items are, in fact, subject to protest unless otherwise instructed. It should be sufficient to advise the drawee or acceptor that your bank holds his trade acceptance, since no one is likely to have signed such an acceptance without recognising its character. Care should be taken, however, when you notify the acceptor that you hold his acceptance, that he understands it is an accepted draft with a definite maturity."

Mercantile Marine's Problems.

Were no underlying factors to be considered, the results attained by the International Mercantile Marine Company in its last fiscal year could be considered remarkable even in these days of extraordinary earnings. A net profit in excess of $51 a share for the preferred stock is a mouth-filling total. It represented the achievement of a period filled with uncertainty, and a period whose difficulties increased as the weeks passed. The outlook for the current year cannot be grasped as yet, with the German undersea boats whittling down shipping and the British Government commandeering excess profits, to say nothing of the possibility that the United States Government may call some of the company's vessels into its service. President Franklin let stockholders know at the annual meeting yesterday that the horizon is clouded with many matters whose import cannot be realized until they come close at hand.

The Treasury Department's monthly statement of money in circulation shows that on June 1 the total was $4,731,326,982, a decrease of about $5,000,000 compared with the figures for May 1 and an increase of $808,000,000 over June 1, 1916. The per capita circulation is given as $45.49. The per capita circulation a year ago was $38.36, and ten years ago $34.20.

Third Bank of $25,000,000 Capital.

Directors of the Guaranty Trust Company, at their meeting tomorrow, are expected formally to authorize an increase in the capitalization of the company from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. After the change is made, the Guaranty will be the third banking institution in the country to have a capital of $25,000,000, the other two being the National City Bank and the National Bank of Commerce, both of New York. The gross deposits of the Guaranty aggregate approximately $500,000,000.

Shortage of Labor in the South.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, in commenting upon business conditions in its district, calls attention to the labor problem. It says: "There has been some disorganization on account of volunteering for Government services and widespread deportation of negro laborers from the district, induced to leave by high wages in the Northern States, it being estimated that as many as 75,000 to 100,000 have left the district in the last few months. The high prices on food have borne heavily on the poorer classes and have been an important factor in this situation."

Bethlehem Steel Class B stock profited yesterday from information made public in respect to earnings. The net gain of 3¼ points indicated that buying was fairly insistent at the same time that the other steel issues were inclined to move sluggishly. The Guaranty Trust Company's statement to holders of the Bethlehem Steel 5 per cent. notes on Saturday that earnings in the first quarter were in excess of $26 a share on the common stock seemed to be the basis of the upturn, although the growing impression has been discernible in commission house gossip for weeks that Bethlehem earnings were well worth consideration as a sound market influence. Bethlehem is drawing attention now as a shipbuilding rather than an ordnance and shellmaking concern, and the possibilities held out by the work of reconstructing the world's merchant marine is stimulating to the speculative imagination.

Steel for Ships.

In the steel trade the time is believed not far distant when the public will realize that tremendous resources are being centred on the output of material for ships. The Sparrow's Point plant of the Bethlehem organization is understood to be concentrating on ship steel to the exclusion of much structural goods. Its own shipyard will, of course, absorb a great deal of the supplies made and fabricated on the spot, but it is probable that other yards will draw upon the product of the mills, too. Three million tons of shipping, included in the Shipping Board's plan, will require approximately 1,000,000 tons of plates, shapes, &c. In view of the fact that the country's capacity for rolling and fabricating steel is in the neighborhood of 35,000,000 tons a year, the Government program would require no more than five or six weeks for the steel to be produced if all factors were coördinated in the task. This from the theoretical point of view. The full capacity of the plants naturally could not be completely centred upon the task, for the steel trade as a whole would be badly disorganized. But the steel makers, it is known, are speeding up the output of Government ship material and deliveries are looked for as rapidly as the shipbuilders can handle the steel.

Few National Bank Charters.

The Controller of the Currency reports that in the first five months of the current year he had received 166 applications for national bank charters, with capital of $13,000,000, as compared with thirty-five applications the corresponding period last year. During the five months he granted seventy-three charters, compared with forty-nine issued in the same period last year. Thirty-eight national banks went into voluntary liquidation, (exclusive of those consolidating with other national banks,) as compared with forty-four liquidations during the first five months of 1916. In the five months the Controller refused eleven applications for charters.

⁂

Crop Prospects.

The American Steel and Wire Company prepares each week a bulletin on crop conditions as its sales in all parts of the country report them. Here is the summary of the latest bulletin:

"This week (ended June 2) seems to be a case of 'weather' all over the country. This season is backward from one to four weeks. This backwardness is verging on the serious. Replanting corn necessary in many sections. Too cool for cotton. Reports are cotton is being plowed up and the land put in corn. Reports of the tobacco crop not the brightest. Pastures continue bad and this is reflected in the condition of livestock and in sales to the butcher. Hay prospects very uncertain. Corn planting is nearing completion and the acreage is a big one. Oats are in fine condition. Wheat harvesting has started in Texas and Oklahoma. Much of the wheat acreage plowed up and put into corn should not grow a crop this season, but should be prepared for the 1918 crop."

BANKS SHOW BIGGEST DEPOSITS ON RECORD

RESOURCES $16,144,000,000

Gain of $1,948,000,000 in the Year—Total Reserve Has Grown to $2,473,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, gave out today the returns in regard to the condition of all national banks in the United States as of the date of the last bank call, May 1, 1917.

The total deposits May 1, 1917, were $13,075,000,000, the greatest ever shown, exceeding by $118,000,000 the deposits of March 5, 1917, and exceeding by $1,944,000,000 the deposits of May 1, 1916.

The total resources were $16,144,000,000, an increase since March 5, 1917, of $165,000,000, and an increase since May 1, 1916, of $1,948,000,000.

Loans and discounts amounted to $8,751,000,000, an increase since March 5, 1917, of $38,000,000, and since May 1, 1916, of $1,145,000,000.

Specie and legal tenders on hand plus balances in Federal Reserve Banks amounted to $1,525,000,000, a decrease, as compared with March 5, 1917, of $39,000,000, and an increase since May 1, 1916, of $320,000,000.

United States Government bonds owned reached the amount of $768,000,000, an increase of $53,000,000 since March 5, 1917, and of $29,000,000 since May 1, 1916. Other bonds and securities were reported at $1,857,000,000, an increase since March 5, 1917, of $87,000,000, and an increase since May 1, 1916, of $831,000,000.

The amount due from banks and other than Federal Reserve Banks, $1,838,000,000, a decrease as compared with March 5, 1917, of $178,000,000, and an increase as compared with May 1, 1916, of $117,000,000.

Bills payable and rediscount totaled $92,000,000, an increase since March 5, 1917, of $22,000,000, and since May 1, 1916, of $28,000,000.

The amount due to banks and bankers was $3,379,000,000, a reduction since March 5, 1917, of $304,000,000, but an increase since May 1, 1916, of $383,000,000.

The total reserve held May 1, 1917, was $2,473,000,000, a reduction as compared with March 5, 1917, of $168,000,000, but an increase as compared with May 1, 1916, of $313,000,000. The surplus reserve over and above the amount required on May 1, 1917, was $974,000,000, a reduction as compared with March 5, 1917, of $135,000,000, but an increase as compared with May 1, 1916, of $105,000,000. The percentage of reserves to deposits May 1, 1917, was 24.05, as compared with 25.18 March 5, 1917, and 24.60 May 1, 1916.

On May 1, 1917, the central reserve cities held 20.47 reserve against a required reserve of 18 per cent.; other reserve cities held 22.84 against a required reserve of 15 per cent., while country banks held 27.29, the amount required with them being only 12 per cent. The percentage of reserves held by country banks on March 5, 1917, was 28.86, of those in central reserve cities 21.31, and in other reserve cities 24.48.

The total amount of reserve required to be held May 1, 1917, was $1,499,000,000, and on the date named the non-Reserve banks of the country held in their own vaults $763,000,000 and the Federal Reserve banks $762,000,000, making a total of $1,525,000,000, being $26,000,000 more than the total amount of reserve required to be held, including balance with reserve agents.

Therefore it is seen that the total amount of balances carried with reserve agents, $948,000,000, together with $26,000,000 of excess reserve with the Federal Reserve banks and in vaults, all represented surplus or excess reserve. The banks have thus already accommodated themselves to the time when the balances carried in national banks in central reserve and reserve cities can no longer be counted as reserve, holding as they now do the entire required reserve in their own vaults and in the Federal Reserve banks.

COTTON ACREAGE DECREASED.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The June bulletin of the Federal Reserve Board reflects in the reports from the twelve reserve districts a general condition of business but little changed from that recorded in reports during the past months of the year. Foreign trade continues to be satisfactory, and all industries show an increase rather than a diminution of orders. Crop indications seem less hopeful than was to be expected. Atlanta and other Southern bank centres report that the season has been a late one for planting and the acreage is less than was predicted two months ago.

The Atlanta report gives the following idea of the general condition in the Middle South:

"In the northern part of the district there has been little, if any, decrease in cotton acreage, and Southeast Georgia has planted heavily. In Southwest Georgia and Southern Alabama there has been a large decrease in cotton acreage owing to the boll weevil. In Georgia it is estimated the crop will be from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. less than last year; in Alabama probably 30 per cent., in Mississippi 20 per cent., in Louisiana 10 per cent., and Tennessee and Florida, light cotton-raising States, about normal. The general decrease in cotton acreage will probably be augmented by a smaller production due to shortage in negro labor."

"Cotton has been retarded by the cold, backward Spring and cold nights. As it is particularly a hot weather plant, the condition of the crop at the present time is not especially encouraging. Our advices are that much of the staple has died because of unfavorable weather, and that replanting has been necessary in many sections."

"Colorado—State and Government estimates on this year's wheat production agree upon approximately 40,000,000 bushels.

"Missouri—The abandoned wheat acreage will probably amount to between 15 and 20 per cent.

"Nebraska—The acreage of Spring crops has been increased from 15 to 20 per cent. over all past seasons.

"Oklahoma—Indications are, Oklahoma will produce 31,800,000 bushels of wheat this year, as against 29,585,000 last year.

"Wyoming—There is an improved prospect in Winter wheat, and it is now estimated that only 10 or 15 per cent. of the crop will be plowed up.

"Minneapolis states that reports now coming in indicate that the wheat acreage of Minnesota and North and South Dakota and Montana will be very close to normal in spite of severe damage from hail, rust, and hot weather last year."

F. H. Sisson Joins Guaranty Trust.

The Guaranty Trust Company announced yesterday the appointment of Francis H. Sisson as Vice President, in charge of its publicity department. Mr. Sisson is best known for his work as assistant to Frank Trumbull, Chairman of the Railway Executives' Advisory Committee. At one time he was editor and publisher of daily newspapers in Peoria and Galesburg, Ill., and more recently he was Vice President and general manager of the H. E. Lesan Advertising Agency.

FIX PRICE OF CORN AT $1.65.

Chicago Board of Trade Directors Announce Maximum Figure.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Board of Trade Directors late today fixed a maximum price for corn, as was done with wheat several weeks ago. The price fixed was $1.65 on all contracts of corn for future delivery.

A special meeting of the Directors was called immediately after trading closed this afternoon. Later the following resolutions were given out:

> Resolved, That on and after Wednesday, June 6, 1917, until further notice, members of this board in making contracts for the purchase or sale, by grade alone, of corn to be delivered in store, either for immediate or for future delivery, shall not, in entering into such contracts, exceed the price of $1.65 per bushel; be it further
> Resolved, That any member trading in violation of the foregoing shall be deemed to have committed a grave offense against the good name of the association.

According to grain brokers, there is little corn in Chicago. Since last Thursday the price of the commodity has advanced 12 to 15 cents, and the tendency to further advance is believed to have prompted the Board of Trade officials to fix a maximum price.

THE COTTON MARKET

The cotton market yesterday opened easy at an advance of 15 points to a decline of 11 points, and almost immediately became weak and unsettled. The selling was very active; and in addition to realizing or liquidation, it looked as though the bull movement was meeting opposition and stop loss orders were uncovered. This early break was followed by a complete recovery, and the market closed steady at a net advance of 1 to 15 points.

During the first half hour, October contracts broke from 21.88c to 21.30c, and July from 22.32c to 21.80c, making a decline of 85 to 95 points from the high records established Saturday morning.

The heavy selling movement was only of short duration, and after the stop orders had been executed, offerings tapered off and the market advanced steadily until July reached 22.37c and October 21.88c, making a recovery of about 55 to 58 points from the low level of the morning. The early break may have been influenced by reiterated reports that spots were offering in the South below a parity with futures, and that there was selling of July against stocks at Southwestern ports which might be delivered. The impression prevailed later, however, that the bulk of the contracts liquidated by speculative holders had been absorbed by trade buyers, and there were reports that Northern mills were buying July during the afternoon.

The favorable weather reported in the South was discussed on the early break as likely to bring in improved crop accounts, while selling for a reaction was encouraged by the extent of recent advances and a feeling that the technical position had weakened.

Both New York and New Orleans will be closed today. Reports for the day were 15,527 bales, making 4,952,856 so far this season. Yesterday's quotations follow:

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market again felt the influence of last Saturday's sharp advance and shorts were more disposed to cover, while offers were distinctly limited. In consequence values were higher, closing with net gains of 4 to 9 points. The market was very nervous and feverish and seemed to be dominated largely by technical conditions. Cash markets, however, were firm and higher and it was quite evident that there is comparatively little wheat for sale in any position, and that buyers are holding off for increased offers of new crop. Reports from abroad were very bullish regarding prospective requirements, and it is very evident that the needs in Europe will be fully equal to the American surplus.

CORN.

Unusual activity developed in the corn market yesterday, and at one time prices were 2⅝@3c net higher. Part of the advance was lost after midday, however, and final prices were ⅜@1c net higher, except December, which closed 1c lower. The visible supply decreased 136,000 bushels. The movement has not come up to expectations, although liberal receipts were looked for on Tuesday. There was a fair cash demand, and rumors that some export business had been done. No. 2 yellow corn here was quoted at $1.76, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market developed considerable weakness under moderate liquidation induced partly by depression in hog markets and a weaker foreign situation. Later, however, there was some rally in sympathy with grain, and the market closed a little up from lowest of the session. Receipts at Western points aggregated 116,000 hogs, of which 41,000 were at Chicago, 8,000 at Kansas City, and 6,000 at Omaha. Chicago expected 16,000 hogs on Tuesday.

Other refiners listed fine granulated at 7.50 to 8c. Raw sugar was quiet and steady at 4⅞c, cost and freight, equal to 5.89c, duty paid. Local refiners bought 35,000 bags Cubas, afloat and prompt, at 4⅞c, cost and freight basis, and there was also a sale of 5,538 tons Porto Ricos at 5.83c, cost, insurance, and freight, to a local refiner. BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,075 packages. The buying was confined to regular jobbing requirements, and, with a fairly liberal quantity of stock offering, the market developed further weakness. The price of extras settled to 41c, with the fancier lots going at 41¼@42c. Medium to choice grades shared fully in the weakness. Advices indicate liberal shipments in transit, and the feeling at the close was very much unsettled. Renovated still scarce. Ladles and packing stock quiet and easier. OUR LATIN-AMERICAN TRADE.

According to a forecast made yesterday by the National City Bank, trade between the United States and Central and South America will make a new record for the fiscal year ending June 30. The bank estimated that the total value of trade between this country and its Latin-American neighbors in the pediod would aggregate about $1,500,000,000.

For the nine months ended with March, 1917, the imports into the United States from all Latin-America amounted to $650,000,000, while exports from this country ran up to $420,000,000, making a total of $1,070,000,000. Commenting upon this year's gains, the bank's statement said:

"These figures show a marked increase over earlier years, the total imports of the nine months of last year having been but $504,000,000 and the exports thereto $294,000,000, making for the nine-month period but $798,000,000 as against the $1,070,000,000 in the nine months of this year. In the nine months ended with March, 1914, all of which preceded the war, the total imports and exports combined were but $554,000,000, suggesting that our trade with the Latin-American countries in the fiscal year 1917 will be nearly three times as great as that immediately preceding the war."

APPROVES FRANCHISE TAX.

Whitman Signs Measure Expected to Raise $30,000,000.

ALBANY, June 4.—The Emerson bill, providing for a 3 per cent. franchise tax on the net incomes of mercantile and manufacturing corporations, was signed by Governor Whitman today. The bill, which was one of the chief taxation measures enacted by the 1917 Legislature, is expected by its author to bring in additional revenue of $30,000,000 a year, two-thirds of which will go to the State and one-third to the municipalities where the corporations are situated. Corporations subject to the tax will be exempted from personal property and corporation franchise taxes.

Controller Travis, in a statement tonight, said that the major portion of the income resulting from the enactment of the bill would come from corporations which heretofore had contributed little or nothing in the way of franchise taxes.

MERCANTILE MARINE PROFIT $26,299,595

EQUAL TO $51.23 A SHARE

Stockholders of the International Mercantile Marine Company learned at the annual meeting in Hoboken yesterday that remarkable earnings had been scored in 1916, but at the same time they received information showing the current year to contain many serious factors likely to reduce income. The big shipping combination reported a net profit of $26,299,595, equivalent to $51.23 for each share of preferred stock. In the preceding year the profit was $13,581,660, or $26.27 per share.

The exact gross revenue could not be presented to the stockholders because the British subsidiaries had not made complete reports. President P. A. S. Franklin estimated that the pamphlet report, to be issued before July 1, would show in the neighborhood of $87,967,564 earned over and above the British income and excess profits taxes, against $61,669,167 the year before. Operating expenses, which increased from $33,399,386 in 1915 to $54,306,891, were the big factors in reducing the gross revenue to net income less than one-third as large.

The total represented earnings of steamers directly operated by the Mercantile Marine Company, including the American Line, and the British subsidiaries. The company owns all the capital stock of the Atlantic Transport Company, the Red Star Line, the White Star Line, and the Dominion Line, as well as 42 per cent. of the preferred and 98 per cent. of the common stock of Frederick Leyland & Co., Ltd.

Mr. Franklin informed stock owners that the disturbed shipping situation precluded definite action on steps to liquidate the 88 per cent. back dividends on the preferred stock. He said that the decision of the British Government a few weeks ago to increase the excess profit duty from 60 to 80 per cent. was retroactive to Jan. 1 this year, an advance which will seriously affect the earnings of the foreign subsidiaries by whom about 89 per cent. of the company's tonnage is owned. Mr. Franklin stated that the United States Government had not yet taken over any of the ships under the American flag, but that such action was expected.

"During the year 1916," Mr. Franklin said, "and the first five months of this year transatlantic shipping, in which the company is almost entirely interested, has been surrounded by unusual and constantly changing circumstances, resulting in most complicated operating conditions. Nevertheless, the profits as shown have been abnormally large, but they must not be taken as a criterion for normal times."

After the meeting Mr. Franklin said that some of the company's largest ships had been sunk, including the Brittanic, the Arabic, the Minnewaska, the Africa, the Cymric, the Georgic, and the Minneapolis. All were heavily insured by the British War Risk Bureau. A number of big ships are being built to replace the loss, he added, one being a 36,000-ton liner.

RAILWAYS CLEARING TRACKAGE FOR WAR

Pennsylvania Cutting Passenger Service to Meet Calls for Troop, Food, and Fuel Transit.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, along with other large railway systems that have not yet done so, will soon put into effect an entire revision of passenger schedules. The announcement was made yesterday by George D. Dixon, Vice President in charge of traffic, who said that sweeping changes in passenger service were necessary to carry out the recommendations of the Railroad War Board. The board asked the railroads to reduce passenger service to conserve fuel and to increase freight services so as to give better facilities for quick and steady moving of coal, food, and Government material. The final details of the changes on the Pennsylvania are now being worked out, and in the process provision is being made to meet Government requirements for the transportation of troops whenever necessary.

Mr. Dixon said the company desired to explain what it is seeking to accomplish and the conditions that made the changes inevitable. He said it must be understood that the new schedules really meant a sacrifice by the railroad and that the objects sought are not financial economy or increase in revenues.

"The economies we are endeavoring to effect are physical, and are being devised for the sole purpose of increasing as much as possible the amount of transportation service of the most urgently necessary kinds that can be given to the Government and the public with the railroad plant at our disposal," said Mr. Dixon. "In brief, we are attempting two things: First, to increase immediately the movement of such freight as food and other necessities of life, and second, to clear our lines for the prompt handling of Government supplies and troops that must shortly be hauled on a large scale.

"As our lines, terminals, and locomotives are now being used to the maximum, the only way we can provide for the increased Government traffic and for the freer movement of perishable and other necessary freight is to reduce the number of passenger train units now being operated. This will release both trackage and locomotives for other service."

Mr. Dixon said the company would endeavor to accomplish this by consolidating passenger trains wherever practicable; by the entire elimination, in some cases, of trains on which the patronage is very small; by reducing the number of restaurant cars, and in no case operating more than one restaurant car on a train; by reducing the number of parlor and sleeping cars, and by decreasing or possibly discontinuing the use of club and observation cars.

"There is a practical limit to the length and weight of trains which cannot be exceeded," he said. "Each restaurant car we take off can be replaced by a day coach, thus increasing by at least eighty passengers the number that can be carried on a given train. This will permit the consolidation of trains in cases where otherwise the step would be impossible. Similar reason exists for reducing the number of parlor cars, as they carry only about thirty passengers each, compared with nearly three times that number carried in a day coach. Club and observation cars are usually a duplication of parlor or sleeping car facilities in the same train, and can be eliminated without hardship. The number of sleeping cars can be reduced by making better use of upper berths.

"All the steps taken will mean fewer train units in the passenger service, and more locomotives and tracks for troops, Government supplies, and freight. In revising the passenger schedules upon all parts of the railroad we are using every precaution to do so with the least possible inconvenience to the public."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

A good deal of nervousness was reflected in the dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The tone changed a number of times, with the lowest prices of the day touched, as a rule, in the afternoon, althought final quotations were recorded on a rally. More than 50,000 shares of United States Steel common were dealt in.

NO SIGNS OF SUGAR FAMINE.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Herbert C. Hoover, who will be food administrator under the bills now pending in Congress, took notice today of widely published reports quoting him as saying the sugar supply would soon be exhausted and predicting outrageous prices. The printed report was based on a confidential conference Mr. Hoover had some time ago with Congressional committees. Mr. Hoover resented it deeply today as being unfair and very likely to unnecessarily alarm consumers.

"I have never made any statement for publication upon the subject of sugar whatever," said he. "I did in an important conference state that unless order was restored in Cuba we would be short of sugar, because of inability to secure the harvest of the forthcoming crop. Since that time action has been taken, and ample supplies are assured, not only from Cuba but from elsewhere. There will be no famine in sugar, and I wish to protest at the repetition of partial discussions in private conference, to the wholly unnecessary alarm of consumers."

Later Mr. Hoover added this to his statement:

"If the Food Administration bill passes Congress and we receive the cooperation of our allies in the purchase of foreign sugar, we should have a lower range of prices on sugar in the future than we have had in the last year."

GIRLS' DAYLIGHT IS SAVED.

Employes Like Plan Whereby They Are Free at 4 P. M.

The Life Extension Institute at 25 West Forty-fifth Street, of which Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk is Director, yesterday introduced a daylight saving plan affecting seventy-five girl employes whereby they reported at 8:30 A. M. and worked till 4 P. M., instead of their former hours of 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.

The usual hour for lunch has been cut in half under the new system and with the additional half hour each morning the actual working time is the same. The innovation was received by the girls with satisfaction and they expressed themselves strongly in favor of the plan.

Burlap Demand Is Active.

The week opened with an active demand in the local market for burlaps, with buyers giving considerable attention to near-by afloat goods because of the shortage of spots. Sales were made of standard 40-inch goods, to arrive in the next thirty days, at these figures: 7½-ounce, 9.20 cents; 8-ounce, 9.40@9.50 cents; 10-ounce, 12.30@12.40 cents, and 10½-ounce, 12.50 cents. Spot goods were held, with some sales, at about 5 to 10 points higher. Reports from Calcutta tell of practically no improvement in the financial situation there, exchange still being difficult to negotiate. From Dundee there is not much heard that is new.

* * *

Clothing More Active.

The wholesale clothing trade yesterday noted a turn for the better. This was evident both in the orders received from the retailers for present needs as well as in the ordering of Fall merchandise. As far as future prospects are concerned, the manufacturers believe the idea is beginning to spread in the retail trade that goods will be exceedingly scarce and consequently must be ordered in. Particularly among the clothing merchants who are well informed on the situation the spirit of preparedness is growing stronger. They are following the example of the manufacturers and asking for early deliveries on goods they have ordered.

* * *

Suits to be Simply Designed.

A factor that suit manufacturers believe will help them to have a successful Fall season is the simplicity in clothing that is being urged as an aid for the country. According to a representative of the trade, this idea is particularly adaptable for suits, inasmuch as they can be simple and at the same time attractive. From present indications, the trade will put out designs that will follow tailored lines so severely that the models will closely approach mannish styles. Very little in the way of trimming is to be used, and it is stated that fur will not make its appearance on garments until very late in the season.

* * *

Silks Selling Better.

A better inquiry has developed for silks. While the cutting up trade is not holding its usual place in the demand, that from the retailers is larger than it has been for some weeks. At present the leading article in the call seems to be satin, chiefly in white. Taffeta, however, is not neglected, and there is quite a little business doing on foulards, desired for Summer dresses. Satin striped goods are popular, although designs in dots and circles are attracting a good deal of trade. The manufacturers are not as busy as they would like to be, but in view of the fact that this is the in-between-season period, the volume of sales is considered satisfactory.

* * *

Collections Continue Good.

One of the features of the wholesale dry goods business locally, as reported by credit department heads, is the way collections continue to keep up. According to an executive of one of the largest houses in the country, the total for May was almost equal to that of April, the biggest collection month in the Spring calendar of the jobber. In the general run of things the May payments range from 15 to 20 per cent. below April's, and there would have been no apprehension this year had "history" repeated itself. The May gain was considered all the more encouraging in view of a comparatively recent change in selling terms.

White Goods Season Satisfactory.

Secondary distributers of white goods who have just closed the first half of their merchandise year, report a satisfactory season in spite of the backwardness of the weather and the restricting influence of the war. However, it is admitted that were it not for the excellent business that was done in longcloths, nainsooks and other goods of a staple nature there would be a different story to tell, as the call for fancy white fabrics and skirtings was not "up to snuff." It is expected though, that there will be a marked improvement in the call for these goods in the immediate future, now that the weather has warmed up. As for business in the last six months, one big house reported a gain for every month but May, which was only a little behind the large amount done in the same month last year.

They Should Buy Now.

One of the best-posted wholesalers of hosiery in the country gave two pointers yesterday to buyers of these goods for retail stores. The first was to buy at once all the white hose—men's, women's, and children's—they are going to need for some time to come, and the other was a similar admonition concerning infants' and children's hose in all colors. He told of a tremendous run on all kinds of white hose, and said that, with the bleachers swamped, available supplies of them in first and second hands were diminishing every day. He was somewhat at a loss to account for the children's scarcity, especially in view of the high prices now being paid for these goods. No. 7 size, for instance, which formerly cost $1.15@$1.25 a dozen, now costs $2 and up.

* * *

Dresses Called For.

The demand for dresses after a period of dullness has suddenly spurted up to a good volume. The mix-up in the Spring fashions, that favored these garments for a while and then switched over to suits, made buyers cautious for a time. But dress buyers are becoming active again and the trade is moving nicely. According to one manufacturer the more simple a garment is the better chances it has to sell, and the novelty of the design is confined chiefly to the material. Lightweight silks and fancy cottons are the materials mostly sought, and white is the color that seems to lead.

* * *

Paying Bonuses for Workers.

So scarce has female mill labor become, it was learned yesterday from reliable sources, that certain hosiery manufacturers whose plants are within a hundred miles of this city are going unusual lengths to keep their machines going. One of the practices, it is said, is to offer a bonus to employes who can induce experienced girls from other mills to work for the formers' employers. These bonuses are said to be $5 if the "stolen" girl stays sixty days, with some mills offering $3 as a prize for holding an "outside" girl on the job for thirty days. Proportionate bonuses are paid for any inexperienced help obtained by employes. Inexperienced workers are said now to be getting more in some instances than was paid to experienced help before the shortage developed.

Gray Goods Slow Up a Little.

While reports from various quarters of the local gray goods market differed somewhat yesterday, the best evidence was that the business done was not so large as in the closing days of last week. The inquiry was said to be good enough, but in more than one case buyers and sellers were apart on the question of prices and deliveries. A pretty fair sheeting business was done, which included such goods as 40-inch 3.60s (56-60) at 12¼ cents and 36-inch 3.50s at 12 cents, both for Fall shipment. The price of the latter goods, which were taken by the bag trade, was said to be a full cent a yard higher than that paid a week ago for them. Bids of 9½ cents were in the market for October-December shipments of 38½-inch 64-60s, and while business was reported in certain quarters at that figure, for the delivery specified, it is known to have been refused in others. Other printcloth sales included Fall shipments of 39-inch 68-72s at 11 cents, and nearby 38½-inch 60-48s at 8¼ cents. Closing prices follow:

39-inch, 68-72s	11c	38½-inch, 60-52s	*8¾c
39-inch, 56-44s	7½c	38½-inch, 60-48s	8¼c
38½-inch, 64-64s	9¾c	27-inch, 64-60s	6½c

Upholds Big Copper Deal.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Montana decrees upholding the legality of the sale of the Parrott Silver and Copper Company to the Anaconda Copper Mining Company by Henry H. Rogers and associates were sustained today by the Supreme Court. The decision was in the suit brought by stockholders of the former company to prevent the sale on the ground of fraud.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Louis Weber, manager of the Paris office of Gimbel Brothers, will shortly arrive in this city for his first visit to this country in several years. It is expected that soon after his arrival he will be entertained by the recently formed Get-Together Club of the local Gimbel Brothers' store. This club, of which Harry S. Bernhard, head of the millinery department, is Chairman, is made up of buyers and other store executives having to do with merchandise.

Through its Finance Committee the National Jewelers' Board of Trade is to purchase five $1,000 Liberty Loan coupon bonds. Application for them has been filed through the National Park Bank, and a check for the full amount has been tendered in payment.

NEW SUBWAY POPULAR.

Shuttle Service to Pennsylvania Station Has Many Patrons.

There was a smoothness of operation yesterday in the section of the new Seventh Avenue subway, which was opened on Sunday between Times Square and Thirty-fourth Street, and as one of the Interborough men expressed it the new line had gotten into its stride. The shuttle trains carried many passengers, and the service proved to be a popular method of travel to the Pennsylvania Station.

Workmen are completing the passageway that will lead from the Thirty-fourth Street station into the Pennsylvania Station, and it is said that within a few weeks it will be possible to operate down to the lower end of the platform and thus gain access to the railroad station.

14 SEIZED STEAMERS RECEIVE NEW NAMES

BRESLAU NOW BRIDGEPORT

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Secretary Daniels today announced that fourteen of the seized German merchant ships which have been turned over to the United States Navy for its use have been renamed with American names as follows: Geier to Schurz, Breslau to Bridgeport, Kiel to Camden, Liebenfels to Houston, Saxonia to Savannah, Vogensen to Quincy, Nicara to Pensacola, Odenwald to Newport News, Hohenfelde to Long Beach, Frieda Leonhardt to Astoria, Andromeda to Bath, Rudolf Blumberg to Beaufort, Praesident to Kittery, Locksun to Gulfport.

The Geier, the German gunboat which was interned at Honolulu, is renamed for Carl Schurz, the famous German-American soldier and statesman. A native of Prussia, Schurz was one of the heroes of the revolution of 1848, and, after that historic uprising against the Prussian autocracy, found a haven in America. He was one of Lincoln's strongest supporters and served in the United States Army through the civil war, holding the rank of Major General. He was later United States Senator from Missouri and was Secretary of the Interior in President Hayes's Cabinet.

The names chosen for the other vessels are generally of coast towns and cities which have some connection with the navy. Bridgeport builds submarines and produces large amounts of guns and munitions. Camden is one of the shipbuilding centres of the country; Houston is the Texas port from which come oil and cotton; Savannah is the leading port of Georgia; Quincy, Mass., has a large shipyard, at which all classes of naval vessels are built; Pensacola, Fla., is the location of the navy aeronautic training station; Newport News, Va., is the site of one of the largest shipbuilding plants in the country, at which numerous battleships have been built; submarines are built at Long Beach, Cal.; Astoria is the Oregon port near the mouth of the Columbia River; Bath, Me., has been for generations a centre of shipbuilding, and has a shipyard where destroyers are built; Beaufort represents two old seaports, one in North Carolina, the other in South Carolina; Kittery is the location of the Portsmouth (N. H.) Navy Yard, and Gulfport is one of the chief ports from which the navy gets its supply of fuel oil.

The Liebenfels is the steamer of the Hansa Line which was sunk in Charleston Harbor at the time the United States broke off relations with Germany. As she was an obstruction to navigation, the army engineers were directed to remove the wreck. They raised the vessel and she was taken to the navy yard at Charleston for repairs. She was technically the property of the War Department, but was transferred to the navy. The repairs will be completed and the Liebenfels, which was not badly damaged, will be ready for service about June 9. She is 376 feet long, with 4,535 gross and 2,836 net tonnage, and will be used as a collier and cargo ship.

CAPT. STRONG AT ATLANTA.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 4.—Captain S. Meredith Strong of the Medical Reserve Corps, a surgeon of New York, arrived here today. He was the first of the medical experts who will have supervision over the great medical supply depot at Atlanta which will furnish every army base hospital in the Southeastern Department with all the paraphernalia of modern base hospital work. Captain Strong, it is understood, will serve as a member of Major Gen. Leonard Wood's official family and will cooperate with Major John A. Murtagh, recently ordered here, in establishing the medical supply base. He has expressed the hope of being sent to France for field service, and it is understood that he will accompany the first increment of the new troops to the firing line.

On arriving here Captain Strong was greeted by Ivan E. Allen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and the two went to call on Major Powers, in charge of the supply depot for the Southeast. It has been announced that 100,000 feet of floor space in the Atlanta warehouse has been leased for storage purposes for the medical supply depot. The depot will not supply any materials for field hospital service, but will confine itself to supplying the needs of base hospitals.

Bronx Court Bill Signed.

ALBANY, June 4.—Governor Whitman today signed the Ellenbogen bill reapportioning the municipal districts of the Bronx and providing two Justices for the First District. In a memorandum he said that he signed the bill because it had the approval of Mayor Mitchel and no argument had been presented to him that would justify him in overriding the Mayor. In the Senate the measure was the cause of a Democratic filibuster on the last day of the session.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Up to 6 o'clock last night a total of 828 lots had been sold by Joseph P. Day and J. Clarence Davies in the offering of 1,445 lots of the Lorillard Spencer estate in the upper section of the Bronx. The day's sale up to that time was 191 lots. The average for the 828 lots was $511 per lot. Mr. Day said that the prices paid by the successful buyers were not much more than one-third the amount that property in the immediate vicinity has recently been sold for. Corner lots on White Plains Road and Astor Avenue, the nearest to the subway station at Pelham Parkway, went for from $400 to $900 each, which the auctioneers considered wonderful bargains for the buyers. John F. McGowan bought a lot at the corner of Holland and Astor Avenues for $700. He also took three adjoining lots on Astor Avenue, an eighty-foot thoroughfare, at $600 each. Inside lots on Astor Avenue brought as low as $400 each. Other buyers were T. M. Clark, Emily Goode, Annie Malone, H. J. Hillman, and J. J. Cully.

William Hagedorn, the Bronx coal dealer, was a prominent buyer, as he was on Saturday, being the heaviest individual purchaser when the selling closed last night. Another prominent buyer was August F. Schwarzler. They secured about forty lots in choice locations. Samuel Deutschberger bought fourteen lots on Bronxwood Avenue and four on Adee Street at prices ranging from $475 to $825. William C. Berger, Mrs. De Rahn, A. M. Jones, and Bertha I. Kleirberg were also large buyers.

The triangle bounded by Boston Road, Arnow and Radcliff Avenues, was sold in three parcels for a total of $6,825 to Theodore J. Gorman, Christopher J. Lane, and Robert P. Marsh.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Pressure remains high over the Atlantic States and off the Pacific Coast, and an extensive area of low barometer covers the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain region, with its centre over Colorado. This distribution has resulted in generally fair weather, except in the upper Lake region, the upper Mississippi Valley, the north Plains States, and the north Rocky Mountain region, where there were scattered showers and thunderstorms.

Temperature has risen generally and is near or above the seasonal average throughout the East and South, while cool weather prevails along the northern border from the upper Lake region to the northern Rocky Mountain and Western Plateau regions.

In the Middle Atlantic States and New England fair weather Tuesday will be followed by overcast Wednesday. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States the weather will be fair Tuesday and Wednesday, while in the Lake region and the Ohio Valley the weather will be overcast, with probably showers and thunderstorms during the next forty-eight hours.

No important temperature changes are indicated for the Eastern half of the country during Tuesday and Wednesday.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

New Jersey—Fair Tuesday. Wednesday, overcast.

WATCHING GERMANS IN LATIN AMERICA

WILL WARN ARGENTINA

German Wireless, If Established There, Must Be Under Control of the Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The United States Government is taking no chances on the effect of German activity in Latin America, where German agents have been trying to turn sentiment against this Government and have undoubtedly made headway in certain places. The promptness with which the Secretary of State called the attention of the Venezuelan Government to the fact that he had knowledge of an effort of the German Government or German agents to purchase the island of Margarita, off the Venezuelan coast, indicates that determination. As fast as other reports of German activities in Latin America come to the attention of the Administration they are made the occasion for representations or inquiries.

One of the reports that have come to Washington is that German agents are seeking to obtain permission from the Government of the Argentine Republic to erect a wireless station on Argentine territory. The United States and the allied Governments will protest to Argentina against any such arrangement unless the wireless plant is to be operated under Argentine Government control and in accordance with the laws of neutrality.

The Government of Colombia has taken steps to stop inflammatory newspaper stories and comment published in the Colombian press calculated to incite the people against the United States. It was learned today that Colombian papers had respected the wishes of the Government, and that excellent results had already been realized through the abandonment of the anti-American press campaign.

"Regarding the published statement that there is reason to believe that military and naval information of value has been transmitted to Germany from Mexico by wireless, it may be said with positiveness there is no foundation for such an aspersion upon the Mexican Government. There is no wireless apparatus in Mexico that could send a message such a distance, even if it were desired to do so. Furthermore, if messages were sent in this manner the American stations and the American war vessels would surely pick them up; and, still further, all wireless stations in Mexico are under the control of the Government, and it is not to be believed that it would lend itself to such a flagrant violation of the neutrality to which it is pledged. The most powerful wireless station in Mexico has a radius of only 1,000 kilometers (625 miles) during the day, and double at night during Winter time, when better atmospheric conditions prevail.

The United States expects to benefit directly and immediately from Brazil's abandonment of her neutrality in favor of the United States. The ports of that country are now open to American naval vessels, which are at liberty to visit them without being bound by the rules of international law governing the reception of warships of a belligerent in neutral harbors.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 4.—Jewelry to the value of $50,000 was stolen last night from the glass showboxes in the vestibule of the Carlton Hotel, which used to be an object of interest to many Americans visiting London before the war. Shortly after the lights were out, sounds of breaking glass were heard, but the watchmen who rushed to the vestibule found the thief gone with booty to the amount stated. Some articles of jewelry were strewn about the floor. It is believed the thief had hidden himself in the palm room.

250 WOODEN VESSELS IN LUMBER ESTIMATE

Defense Council Committee Says Nation Will Need Two Billion Feet of Timber in Year.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—An official estimate made public today by the Lumber Commission of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense, through the Committee of Public Information, placed the number of wooden cargo-carrying ships to be constructed by the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States Shipping Board during the first eighteen months at 250. Approximately 400,000,000 feet of lumber out of a total of 2,000,000,000 which the Government would require for war purposes during the coming twelve months would be used for these ships, it was said.

The figures quoted in connection with this program, the statement said, were not final. It is understood, however, that in preparing its statement for the public the members of the committe consulted interested officials and obtained the estimates in that manner. There has been no official statement from the Shipping Board concerning the decision as to the size of the proposed fleet of wooden vessels. Unoffiicial estimates have ranged all the way from 200 to 1,000.

Of the total of 2,000,000,000 feet of lumber, today's statement said, about 500,000,000 feet would be needed for the sixteen army cantonments, 400,000,000 feet for ships, 200,000,000 feet for training camps, and 120,000,000 feet for aviation camps. The total represents approximately 5 per cent. of one year's lumber production of the United States.

Packing boxes and crates for the army and navy, army wagons, gun stocks, army cots, tent poles, airplanes, automobiles, artillery, cooperage, furniture, docks and piers, trench lining, saddles, mine timbers, tools, and railroad construction will all go to swell the total.

SPIES HERE EQUIPPED WIRELESS IN MEXICO

Captain in the German Army. He said that he had left Germany in February, 1915, for Mexico, but that he had been taken off at Halifax and placed in an internment camp. He was released after spending seven months in the camp because it was believed that he was dying, and he came to this country. Adams was questioned at length about the shipment of wireless apparatus to Mexico, but nothing learned from him was made public.

Bonaparte and Melchar both talked freely to Assistant United States District Attorneys John C. Knox and Frank M. Roosa, and their statements are expected to be valuable in tracing the German spy system in this country.

Held in Heavy Bail.

Perissi, Bonaparte, and Melchar were arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday afternoon on the technical charge of conspiring to carry mail unlawfully on the steamers Kristianiafjord and Bergensfjord. When the prisoners were asked by Commissioner Hitchcock if they had anything to say, Perissi and Melchar were silent, but Bonaparte said:

"Well, I did not start the conspiracy," said Bonaparte. "The mail came to me first."

Assistant United States District Attorney Roosa urged that bail be fixed at $25,000 each for Perissi and Melchar and at $20,000 for Bonaparte. A lawyer who appeared for Melchar and refused to give his name urged that a lower bail be named for Melchar. Mr. Roosa said:

"It is of the utmost importance that these men be held. We don't know what the result of the investigation will be, but it may be extremely important and we want to be thoroughly safeguarded."

The lawyer for Melchar again argued that his bail be reduced because, he said: "My client has given the Government all the information in his possession and is assisting the Government investigation in every way."

It was then that Commissioner Hitchcock said that there was ground for suspecting that the case was connected with Germany's early receipt of intelligence of the departure of the destroyer flotilla, and he held the prisoner on the bail asked by the United States District Attorney.

Louis V. Cuvillier, a lawyer who was called in later to represent Melchar, said the regular fee to sailors on Scandinavian ships for carrying packets of mail for the German conspirators was $50 a trip. Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox said the Government had evidence that in some instances the bribe to sailors for smuggling German mail across the Atlantic was $150 a trip.

MAY BE TRIED AS SPIES.

Law Sufficiently Broad to Cover Any Kind of Espionage.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—If the three men arrested in New York in the mail plots case are convicted by the evidence with the forewarning which reached Berlin regarding the sailing of American destroyers a military court-martial is one of the possibilities facing them.

No comment on the case was forthcoming either from the Department of Justice, under whose authority the original prosecution was brought, or the War Department, under whose jurisdiction the case might fall. If a military trial develops it would be conducted under Article 88 of the Articles of War, which provides that:

> Any person who in time of war shall be found lurking or acting as a spy in or about any of the fortifications, posts, quarters, or encampments of any of the armies of the United States or elsewhere, shall be tried by a general court-martial or by a military commission, and shall, on conviction thereof, suffer death.

While War Department officials were not prepared to express in advance any opinion of whether the New York case might fall within this clause, it was pointed out that the law is sufficiently broad to cover any kind of espionage. If charges are made that the men involved actually transmitted or attempted to transmit to Germany information as to the movements of the American destroyers, it was believed they could be turned over to the army for trial, and in the event of conviction would be condemned to death, as the clause gives a military court no alternative from that sentence. The President, however, would have power to suspend the sentence in his discretion.

Article 29 of the Rules of Land Warfare, United States Army, which are drawn from The Hague and Geneva Conventions determining international practice, describe a spy as follows:

"A person can only be considered a spy when, acting clandestinely or on false pretenses, he obtains or attempts to obtain information in the zone of operations of a belligerent with the intention of communicating it to the hostile party."

SAVE THE FRUIT CROP
We said this LAST YEAR—
We say it again
This is a year for thrift and service. We must feed not only our own people, but also millions in Europe. The frightful waste of fruit is a national reproach. Help stop this unpardonable extravagance. The fruit we waste would feed Belgium.
THE United States Government urges preserving as a home duty. Preserved fruits are energizing and nourishing. They vary your menus. They reduce the cost of your table.
If you preserve at home, put up more fruit than ever before. Get jars and glasses, bottles and crocks ready to save the fruit crop. Put away dried vegetables. The American housewife who practices thrift places herself in the ranks of those who serve their country.
You can show your thrift in no more convincing way than by combating the national tendency to squander this country's wonderful fruit crop. Whether you buy preserved fruits from your grocer or preserve at home you perform a service to your own family and to the Nation.
